

NO DETECTIVE IS COMPLETE WITHOUT A DISGUISE AND A BLOODHOUND--By "Bud" Fisher

WASH SLATHERED ALL OVER SOLONS

Krapp Invincible and Graham's Wafers Go Down to Third Defeat.

Great gobs of whitish alabastine were slathered over the Senatorial muck of the Grahamites yesterday by the eminent young artist, Mr. Eugene Krapp, of Flint, Mich., U. S. A. While Mr. Krapp was decorating said muck, his stablemates were kicking the stuffing out of attentuated Mr. Nourse, late of some highbrow institution in the trans-Mississippi region. The score was 6 to 0 and it was the third straight game that the Beavers have won against Sacramento.

While the game was devoid of sensational plays, there were enough features to make it extremely interesting and one thing that has made a hit with the fans is the speed with which Umpire McGreevy rushes the game through. All of them have been played in the splendid time of an hour and a half.

There was no scoring by either team until the fifth frame. Then Rutherford, Manager Mac's Euclid student from Cornell, drew a pass from that other Rahl! Rahl! boy on Graham's payroll, and took second when Krapp slammed the pill into left field. He scored from this bag when Olson's fast grounder was winged wide of Van Buren by Bobby Burns. Two were out when this occurred and Rapp's fly to Perry retired the side.

Gus Leads Off.

Gustavus Fisher, the noted rifleman, who scored three bullseyes out of four shots during the game, led off in the sixth with a big right. When Van Buren dropped a toss intended to catch Gus napping, the backstop took second. That he only reached third on Casey's Texas leaguer that was good for two bases, is not any fault of his for it looked as if either Perry or Helster would catch the ball that dropped between them.

At this stage followed something unusual in baseball, two sacrifice flies, one by Sheehan and Helster that scored Fisher, and one by Speas to Perry that scored Casey. Ort closed the inning by fouling out.

It was in the seventh, however, that the Beavers fell on Nourse with a third that reverberated around the field. With Rutherford rounding out, Krapp beat out a beautiful bunt to first, overtaking and passing the ball on the way. Then Olson singled and Rapps fanned. Our Gus picked out a beauty and sent it screeching into left field, close to the bleachers. Krapp and Olson scored, the latter from first base. Graham entered a protest but Umpire McGreevy ruled that the bleachers had not interfered with fielding the ball. Fisher, who gave evidence of being a speed merchant despite a flat wheel, scored from second when "Moose" Casey dropped a fly to short center field. The Moose took second on a wild pitch, but died there when Sheehan filed to Perry.

A fast double killed the solon's chances in the ninth after Helster had singled, when Olson fielded Perry's grounder to Casey, who in turn tossed Perry out at first. Krapp preserved a clean record by retiring Boardman on the latter's grounder for the last out. Olson saved the plate from violation in the sixth, when with one gone and two on bases, he raced over and gathered in Perry's short fly and stepped on the keystones cushion to double Van Buren out. Score:

HARNESS RACERS WILL BE RUN OFF

Country Club Track Tomorrow Will Be Scene of Some Fast Brushes.

Tomorrow afternoon the Riverside Driving club will hold a very interesting program at the Country club track which will be well worth seeing. The club holds two matinees a month and this will be the next to the last one. The crowds this season have been good and with an excellent program a large crowd should be on hand tomorrow.

At the last matinee there was a very exciting race between Blue Jacket, Alexander Queen and Chico, the former winning by a nose. They are to race again and Georgia Ross has been entered. Before the race is finished some surprises may be sprung. Dr. Treve Jones, owner of Alexander Queen, is very anxious to get another chance, as he claims he would have won at the last matinee had Mr. Watts, owner of Blue Jacket, not scared his horse with a long whip. Mr. Watts is not going to use a long whip this time, and gives Alexander Queen a chance to show her mettle.

The trotting race between Sid Meridian, Guy O'Light, The Jewell, Cantatrice, Planter and Lena H is a hard one to pick winners from at the present time. It is the best classed race so far this season. Lena H is a new horse on the track and reports have come in that she is working out nicely. The balance of the horses are in fine trim also.

Red Skin will attempt to beat the season's matinee record of 2:19 1/2, held jointly by himself and Dottie Dimple.

The next to the last event will be a trotting race between Effa M. Sargo and Winklock. The latter horse won the race last time by a margin and they will try again Saturday.

The program will wind up with a boys' pony race. At the last race Edward Welch's pony won a good quarter mile race at a very close margin, and much to the surprise of the spectators. The boys' pony races are always popular.

VALUABLE DOGS POISON VICTIMS

E. A. Parsons Loses Two Sporting Dogs Which Were Valued Highly.

Two valuable sporting dogs owned by E. A. Parsons, one of the most prominent dog fanciers in the Pacific Northwest, are dead and another is dying as the result of arsenical poisoning administered by unknown parties near Parsons' home, 430 E. Thirty-fourth street. The dogs were poisoned yesterday and a post mortem examination showed traces of arsenic. Last year an attempt was made to poison the Parsons dogs, but strychnine was used then.

The dead dogs were Parsons' Lady and Kimona and both were about to deliver litters by Rex of Salem, the famous Salem, Or., dog that captured the British Columbia field trials. Lady had taken prizes in the Portland bench show, while Kimona was third in the Oregon field trials last year. Word received by Mr. Parsons from Dr. Johnson, the veterinary, this morning stated that Parsons' Rex, another bitch about to deliver puppies, was taking a turn for the better.

Rex of Salem, recently purchased by Mr. Parsons, is in British Columbia, while Sacajawea, another crack dog, is in South Dakota under training. Mr. Parsons believes they would have met the same fate of the others had they been here.

The Portland Kennel club has a standing offer of $50 reward for the arrest and conviction of persons caught poisoning the dogs owned by members, and Mr. Parsons is willing to increase this to $100 for information leading to the guilty parties.

The unborn puppies were to have been distributed by Mr. Parsons among a large number of his friends, in order to increase interest in the field trials which are now an annual feature of Oregon's sport field.

Cutshaw's Steal Home Wins.

Oakland, Cal., Aug. 12.—Cutshaw's daring steal of home plate in the ninth inning caused the defeat of the Villagers by a score of 2 to 1 here yesterday afternoon. Cutshaw was on third with two men out and two strikes on Hogan, when he started homeward. Carson threw high and the ball touched Brown's glove and bounced away, allowing Cutshaw to score. This makes the third game the Oaks have won out in the last inning. Score: Oakland 2; Villagers 1. R. H. E. Batteries—Thomas; Carson and Hogan, Brown.

Miss Aisie Aykroyd, the Boston school girl swimmer, and her brother, John, left home a couple of days ago for England where she is to compete in the famous Thames river swim on August 20.

CHIMMIE'S COLUMN

Another game added to what we had, made just a little bit more, so we are now in second place by a point, and three points behind the Seals for the lead.

It was a fair game yesterday. Krapp twirled nice ball and received good support. Nourse was in a dense fog after the third inning and soundings were made but he couldn't locate himself. Graham's foghorn (voice) was blowing all through the game, but Nourse couldn't fix his bearings.

The first clatter out of the box, Tom Sheehan made a nice stop and throw of Shinn's slow grounder. It looked as if the boy with the anatomy name would beat it out at first but Sheehan made a perfect heave and headed Jimmy.

Van Buren grounded a high bouncer to Krapp, who went after it with one hand. He juggled it a la Herman, but finally recovered the pellet and threw Van out at first.

Fear Casey whiffed the cone in the second inning and never even kicked. The old boy don't very often do this and when he does he never makes a murmur. He laced out two sousses, one being a double. The more Casey plays the better he gets.

Rapps and Krapp pulled off a brotherly love stunt in the third inning. La Longe grounded to Rapps, who could have reached the bag ahead of Mickey but as Krapp was there waiting, Bill tossed the ball to Gene and let him have the credit of a putout while Bill secured an assist. Nothing like it.

Rutherford made his initial appearance on the home grounds and played right field, where he had three chances. He fell down on an easy one which came near counting in the run column. He redeemed himself later on by making a great catch against the fence of Van Buren's fly. It looked as if it was going to break one of the windows in that shack that stands in Eastmoreland valley.

Fisher was there with three sousses and sure did have to put on the "high speed" when he beat out an infield hit in the fourth inning. Keep it up, Gus, we sure do need them all.

In the fifth inning George Ort, who is playing a bang up game for the Beavers, did a funny stunt which was not on the cards. Micky La Longe soussed one that went into the clouds and just as it neared George on the journey to Mother Earth, Ort did a "turn me around Rosie, again, again, again," and then speared the pill. The boy with the "blushing" face looked like a merry-go-round.

Rutherford secured a base on balls in the fifth inning, and made the circuit on Krapp's single and Burns' wild heave of Olson's deep grounder. The youngster carries the bulk of his weight in the legs.

With three balls and two strikes on him, Krapp laced one to left field for a single. He later beat out a bunt along the first base line, making a total of two hits for the day. All of McCredie's twirlers are starting to hit the ball, which is a good sign.

Pearl Casey leaned against one of Nourse's offerings for a double and scored on Speas' sacrifice fly. Can't keep the "moose" out of the limelight.

Doc Anderson refuses to stand up in the seventh inning with the rest of the fans whenever the Beavers are ahead. Doc says nothing doing unless we are to the lead.

That seventh inning. Horrors. Four hits and three runs off Nourse. You're out of luck, my dear chap, but there'll come a time some day when—

Well, what do you think of Bill Rapps in that eighth inning. Some say that Bill was asleep. Others remarked that he didn't look just right. Maybe he wants a drink of Bull Run and you know they are not getting it all over the east side. Well, whatever he wanted, Rapps pulled off a queer one. Jimmy Shinn lifted one of Krapp's benders into the air just in front of first base. McCredie ran towards first base to watch the play. Rapps looked up at the ball and then stopped. He took a pipe at Shinn. Finally he stuck out his mitt and grabbed the fly just as Shinn was preparing for a hurry up call to second. On the square it looked as if Bill was asleep at the switch. 'Pon my word Bill I couldn't understand you. He just did grab it. It is an awful lot of noise to make over a small matter, but the fans are all interested in Bill's work.

Did you "pip" "Hein" Hunt parading up and down in the grandstand with that nice "ice cream" suit on? Just as handsome as ever. Looked like the old days in Santa Barbara, when Hunt sang that beautiful "ballad." "Allo, Where Art Thou Going to Spend the Day?" He is a stunning chap when he is togged out in his "bestest." Say, "Hein," and

CLEMENT AND CRIGER KNOCK OPPONENTS OUT

Before a small sized crowd the St. Johns Athletic club held its monthly boxing smoker in the club rooms at St. Johns last evening. Three bouts constituted the evening's program. The main event was carded as a ten round affair between Ace Clement, the champion welterweight of Portland, and George Ellison, colored, champion of the Golden West Athletic club. The bout lasted two rounds, during which time Clements gave Ellison the beating of his career. He laid him low with a hard right on the point of the jaw in the second round. Ellison used a left hook in the first round which had some effect on Clement's eater, but the colored chap didn't have the heart to keep it up. He finally went down and out in the second round.

The preliminary bout between Goldie Edwards of Kansas City, who was a vest pocket edition of Jack Johnson in color only, and Young Criger of Portland was the best of the evening. It lasted three rounds with Criger on the aggressive, and Edwards taking an awful lacing. Criger met Edwards' rushes with a well directed right swing to the jaw, which Criger seemed to be made to order for. Edwards showed gameness for the two rounds, and then the punishment that Criger showered on him began to tell. In the third round Criger dropped Edwards with a hard right swing to the jaw. Edwards stayed down for the count of nine and then pulled himself together and tried to stall, but Criger was right on top of him with rights and lefts which finally put the colored man down for the count.

Kid Giles and James White furnished a four round curtain raiser.

Mrs. N. Gordon is said to be bringing over two of the best colles in England. One is the prize winner Seadley Splendor and the other Seadley Style.
