

CRIPPEN ONE DAY
LATE WITH PLAN TO KILL HIMSELF

Inspector Dew Testifies He Found on Crippen When Arrested Virtual Confession—
Miss Leneve Silent.

(United Press Special Wire.)
London, Aug. 29.—That Dr. H. H. Crippen planned to commit suicide and that his thoughts of the future led to a dramatic meeting and farewell between him and Miss Ethel Leneve, who fled with him to Canada, was the testimony today of Inspector Dew before Magistrate Marshall at the preliminary hearing of the couple.

Dew said that when Crippen was arrested aboard the liner Montrose at Father Point a note was found in his pocket, written on a business card and addressed to Miss Leneve, reading as follows:

"I cannot stand the horror through which I have gone every night any longer. I have made up my mind to jump overboard tonight. I was nothing ahead of me. My money has run out. I know I have spoiled your life, and I hope some day you will forgive me. Yours, H."

Crippen did not expect arrest when he wrote the farewell message. "Tonight" meant for him, the time the Montrose would be plowing through the St. Lawrence river from Father Point to Quebec. That day he was arrested and "tonight" he had named for jumping overboard found him in the clutches of the law.

Prayer for Interview Granted.
On the homeward voyager, Thursday, aboard the Mergant, Dr. Crippen begged his captors to permit him to see Miss Leneve.

"I may never see her again," he pleaded. "She has been my only comfort in the last three years."

Dew exacted a promise from the prisoners that they would not try to converse. On an upper deck, accessible only to the officers of the liner, the accused man and the girl met. Both were overcome with emotion and Crippen could scarcely speak a word of greeting. With his hands within earshot, he briefly bade her good-bye. Miss Leneve was led fainting to her stateroom and Crippen spent the rest of the day in moody stances.

Miss Leneve Only an Accessory.
At the hearing before the magistrate today Crippen was charged formally with the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore Crippen. The prosecution announced that it would proceed against Miss Leneve only as an accessory after the fact, being convinced that she knew nothing of the alleged murder until after it had been committed. Miss Leneve also was charged with having assisted, maintained and harbored a fugitive from justice.

After a formal presentation of evidence, the prisoners were remanded to jail until September 8, when they will be asked to plead.

As they were escorted from the courtroom a great crowd outside the building attempted to rush the guard surrounding the prisoners.

Woman Will Not Speak of Crippen.
After her return to jail Miss Leneve refused to see her father unless he promised to speak on casual subjects only and not refer to the Crippen case. She refused to be questioned by him regarding her relations with Crippen.

Finally her father consented and saw his daughter for a few minutes. Miss Leneve was the more agitated of the two, and plainly showed that she wished the ordeal over.

Dew also furnished evidence that Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve contemplated a double suicide. He produced a scrap of paper on which Crippen had written: "Shall we wait until tonight about 10 or 11 o'clock?" This was supposedly written at the time Crippen wrote the farewell message to his companion.

Attorney Newton represented Crippen and Miss Leneve, while Barrister Travers Humphrey represented the crown.

EMPIRE OF KOREA
CEASES TO EXIST;
MIKADO IS LORD

Japan's plans in regard to Korea at the time the Russo-Japanese convention respecting the status quo in Manchuria was negotiated and signed.

Although the annexation of Korea was regarded as assured several weeks ago, the announcement of the annexation caused the Tokio newspapers to issue extra editions today. The general tone of the press is that Korea has fulfilled her destiny as a nation and that Japan is ready to crush out any revolt on the one hand and to aid the Koreans financially and commercially on the other.

How Japan Turned the Trick.
The Japanese policy of meeting force with impetuous resistance was never shown to better advantage than in the annexation of the Hermit Kingdom.

Viscount Teruchi left Tokio for Seoul in the middle of July. He moved rapidly and after a short time had suppressed the vernacular papers and issued orders for censorship of the press. The public was permitted to know little of what was taking place at Seoul.

The situation at Seoul was similar to that at Tokio in the early days of the Russo-Japanese war. A number of correspondents, including several sent out especially for the purpose from Europe and America, have spent idle weeks here waiting for an exciting climax that apparently will not occur.

Newspaper Men Shut Out.
The correspondents have received the most cordial welcome but have learned little. Viscount Teruchi's instructions were explicit upon points of entertainment of the journalists and the suppression of news.

Two months ago the impatient Koreans, and the correspondents incidentally, were excited to the highest degree. Action on the part of Japan at that time certainly would have resulted in an uprising. With every day's delay the excitement of the Koreans diminished and the action today that would have caused instant revolt two months ago may pass without serious opposition now.

It is probable that the correspondents, too, will leave Korea in disgust.

HAWAIIAN NEWSPAPER
DISCLOSES IN PART
PLAN OF MALCONTENTS

(United Press Special Wire.)
San Francisco, Aug. 29.—The suppression of the Seoul Press, a semi-official organ of the Korean court and one of the most moderate newspapers in Korea, followed the reprinting from the Hawaiian Gazette of the following articles, received here today by the United Press.

"Bloody war has been predicted between Japan and Korea on the day that the former issues the proclamation of annexation of the Hermit Kingdom. Both Japanese statesmen and Korean peasants realize that this absorption of the old oriental kingdom by the island neighbor cannot be accomplished without bloodshed, and the predictions are felt but not spoken by the Japanese government."

"Not only do the Koreans realize that the annexation of their country will be the next move on the oriental diplomatic checkboard, but they are preparing for it and the local Koreans are falling into line."

"The Anti-Japanese League of Korea is at the head of this militant movement, the extent of which is not known, and probably not appreciated. The local branch of this organization is sending or will send 300 men to Korea to take a leading part in the expected conflict, and these men will start for the Orient as soon as all plans are settled."

"This information was received by the Hawaii Shimpoo, which is probably the Japanese paper of Honolulu most intimate with affairs relating to the mother country."

"Not only are the local Koreans sending a portion of their number home, but the Koreans of San Francisco and California in general will also send a complement of 300 men and many more are expected to go from Mexico, where there is a large colony."

"There are about 5000 Koreans in the Hawaiian islands, according to the latest available statistics, and it is probable that out of these much more than the number announced will rally to the rescue of Korea's freedom."

"According to the information received by the Shimpoo, the Koreans will go from here to London across the American continent and from there to Transiberian railways."

"It is understood that the Japanese government itself has been closely watching the movements of the Korean elements in all the oriental quarters of foreign cities, and is well advised as to their plans. It would be impossible for the Korean patriots to return to their own country via Japan, as the chances are that they would not get much farther than Yokohama."

"Funds are now being raised by the local Koreans to send their complement home."

Melrose Abbey.
Until the moon rose I lingered where
Thy ruin, Melrose, stands aghast,
And lo, the wind as through a Doric
colonnade,

Made music sweeter than a mavis there,
For it had in its spirit, sad and fair,
Haunted the roofless nave, or trode the wood
Among the graves that none appears to head,
Or sat and wept behind her veiling hair,
Yea, wept until my heart's forgotten
tears
Welled up for beauty that is passed away,
And also welled for beauty born of death;

For, Melrose, though the mighty weight
of years
Hath worn thee to a shadow old and gray,
Thy Beauty's shadow, breathing
Beauty's breath.

A COLD SETTLED IN HIS KIDNEYS.
This happened to C. E. Crumm, Street Inspector, Paris, Ill. After detailing his symptoms: backache, loss of sleep, burning having to arise frequently, a burning sensation of the bladder, passing "brick dust" in substance, dizziness with specks before the eyes, he says: "I got a bottle of Foley Kidney Pills and took just as directed. They seemed to take right hold, and before many days my backache had left me, the action of my kidneys and bladder became normal, and I was able to sleep all night, got up fresh and ready for work.
