The great scarcity of canned salmon of every description in practically all world's markets is causing packers to take advantage of every situation in order to get additional supplies of fish. As a usual rule there is only nominal packing of fail-caught salmon along the Columbia river, but the present season will find all the larger canneries operating and every one of the cold storage plants.

Salmon Prices Are Advancing. With the entire pack of 1910 salmon to date out of the hands of canners and with many of the orders unfilled owing to the lack of supplies, speculators are holding their goods for higher prices. In this market it has already forced the price of Alaska pinks to $1 a dozen for one-pound talls in a jobing way and a still greater advance is due within a short time owing to the scarcity of offerings even by second hands.

The fall pack of silversides along the Columbia is being nominally quoted at $1.25 a dozen, compared with $1.10 at the opening of the season a year ago, but it is unlikely that more than a small per cent of the pack will be offered at this figure. A higher price is therefore expected. This price is trom canners to jobbers.

Canners have named 7714 cents a dozen for dog salmon, otherwise known

Canners have named 77½ cents a dozen for dog salmon, otherwise known as chums. This compares with 57½ cents a year ago. Considering this high value it is expected that packers will pay more than 5 cents a fish for this variety. That was the price agreed upon at a meeting of the packers recently.

The salmon season, that oness today The salmon season that opens today will remain open until May 1.

No Trade in Hops. Although there are rumors of hop trading no deals can be confirmed by tuyers. Samples are being taken generally and the quality of the crop is first class. Yields are far below original estimates and in few instances as good as a year ago.

Cantaloupe Market Poor. Owing to the enormous supplies offering from California as well as local points, the cantaloupe trade here is in very poor shape and has been in this condition during the entire week. The breaking of the market at Seattle forced additional supplies of California "cants" on the trade here. Up to that time the local trade was good.

Chickens Clean Up. Chicken supplies along Front street were generally cleaned up at the close of the week and prices are in most instances maintained at the figures quoted in The Journal.

Eggs Situation Good. Situation in the egg market is good and the movement at this time is all the trade could wish for. Sales are being made from 30c to 32c a dozen for local stock according to quality.

Sales Are Being Made Very Low Owing to the Enormous Offerings; Concords Down to 20c Basket Today.

The local grape market is in poor shape and prices are being shaded. Enormous supplies continue to come from California, and just at present they are showing excellent quality.' On this account there is scarcely any demand for local sweetwater stock, and sales are hard to make even as low as 250 a crate.

California tokays are in fine shape, and while generally quoted at $1.25 a crate, supplies are being purchased for less. In fact the grape market at present is entirely a buyer's affair, and his money talks very loud.

Black Prince are generally quoted from 75c to $1 a crate, but few sales are reported beyond the lower figure, and in fact it is hard to move supplies there.

Owing to the glut of other offerings a lower price is now in effect for home grown Concords. Four-pound baskets are today being quoted at 200 22146 and the concords. New York, Sept. 10.—The stock market displayed a rather firm undertone for shorts under existing conditions. It cannot be denied that the market, as a with this day in recent years as folwhole, has shown a disposition to ignore adverse news and although the favorable crop reports did not stimulate activity on the upside, the presence of an extended short interest should be reckoned as more or less of a steadying factor. Portland Union Stockyards, North Portland, Or., Sept. 10.—This was a dull day in the livestock market. Receipts were small and little stuff was offering. There was a good demand on every side, and especially for hogs.

On the basis of hog prices at South Omaha yesterday, this market should now be at $10.50 for best stuff, or 10c above the present high level. No first class hogs arrived in the yards during the past 24 hours, therefore quotations on that grade may be considered nominal.

only a handful of cattle came into the yards today, and little of this was good stuff. However, quotations all through the cattle market remain on very good basis.

Sheep arrivals were quite fair, but all supplies were taken up at good figures.
