

NEW COMMUNITY CHURCH IS OPENED

First Institution of Kind in Oregon Launched by Rose City Park Denominations.

In line with the idea of religious unity that is growing all over the world, the residents of Rose City Park have established a community church, the first experiment of the kind, it is said, to be made in Oregon. At a meeting held in the church at the corner of East Forty-fifth and Hancock streets built by contributions from residents, irrespective of religious beliefs, members of the various denominations made addresses ratifying the movement for a "community" or place of universal worship.

Rev. Boudinot Seeley, pastor of the Presbyterian congregation of Rose City Park, which was the first congregation to be invited to that part of the city by the local improvement club, is an enthusiastic believer in the "one church for one community" idea.

In his opening address at last night's session he explained the advantages of the plan and his remarks were supplemented by those of other speakers.

"Where several churches built by different denominations would starve for ten years," said Rev. Mr. Seeley, "one church would thrive. This community is not large enough to afford a number of church buildings. It is a great deal better to have one good church structure than a half dozen poor buildings."

"Of course there are some denominations that cannot conscientiously join a movement of this kind, but for those religious faiths that are similar in their general tenets the plan of cooperation is admirable. They can agree on essentials and let the individual do as he pleases about non-essentials."

Besides the addresses on last night's program there were instrumental and vocal numbers plentifully scattered through it. The program bore the caption "The Firing Line." The different numbers were so arranged as to follow out the idea conveyed by the caption. Skirmishers, scouting, bugle calls to arms and the like were represented by the speakers, players and singers.

Norfolk-Western Capital.

Roanoke, Va., Oct. 3.—At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Norfolk & Western railway today a favorable vote was taken on the proposal of the directors for a new bond issue of $50,000,000 and a $50,000,000 increase in the company's common stock, making the total capitalization $150,000,000 of common and $20,000,000 of adjustment preferred stock. The stockholders also ratified the acquisition of the Big Stony railway and approved the lease of the Norfolk Terminal railway.

Whitts Kidnappers Appeal.

TWO PLAYS FILLED TO BRIM WITH COMEDY AS YOU LIKE IT

Nothing So Funny as Lizzie in "The Lottery Man" at Bungalow.

Nothing so funny as Lizzie in Rida Johnson Young's "The Lottery Man" at the Bungalow can well be imagined. Lizzie is a spinster, the paid companion of a fat feminine hypochondriac. Everything that madame wishes to experiment with in reducing her flesh or in restoring the bloom of youth to her withering beauty is first tried on Lizzie. Lizzie is a compromise between a monkey and a scrambled egg. With her protrusive teeth, her drooping eyes, her ghastly color, her figure, like a broomstick, and a wisp of skimp hair drawn into an indescribable bun at the back—why search longer for the ugliest woman in the world? And Lizzie is the hit of the ripping little farce. A young newspaper reporter in need of money conceives the idea of a lottery in a newspaper and offers himself as the husband of the lucky winner, whoever she may be.

Meantime, the reporter falls in love with a rich and beautiful girl, who is disgusted with the curious and common scheme to which his need of money has tempted him. But Jack is a thoroughbred and sticks by his bargain. When the number is drawn, of course Lizzie wins. Attempts are made to buy her off.

The climax is reached when Jack says, "It's a very solemn thing to marry," to which Lizzie replies, "It's a good deal solumner not to." She plans for a little baby-blue nest in the Bronx with her handsome lottery man. When it is discovered that Lizzie is a thief, having obtained the winning coupon from the cook, all is righted.

Lizzie was played by Miss Vivian Oden, whose fitness for the role is unquestioned. She possesses all the uncanniness of reality, and with her hectic mannerisms she is a scream. She is a new and novel slant on the spinster. Go see her; she alone is worth the $1.50.

William Roselle realized every possibility of the title role, beginning with a smart, rattling clip that never wavered for an instant. His comedy methods are delightful and his personality strong and magnetic. Others in the cast are sufficient unto the play, including Miss Lucia Moore, who played the "New Thought" mother with charm and sweetness.

Army Savants Meet at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 3.—Several hundred delegates, representing the militia organizations of nearly all the states, are attending the annual convention of the National Guard association, which assembled for a three day session in this city today. A leading feature of the program is a series of lectures to be delivered by 10 officers representing as many branches of the regular army service. Included among the topics for consideration are the works of the quartermaster, field firing, the army ration, the work of the medical corps, applied minor tactics, army sanitation and military hygiene, and the relation of the war department to the organized militia.

Stirring Scenes in "Brewster's Millions," Witnessed by Large Crowds at Baker Theatre.

"Brewster's Millions" was made very welcome at the Baker yesterday with its irresistible comedy, its stirring and rapid action and its wealth of spectacular scenery. The production is intensely beautiful, and the casting remarkably effective. In this smashing comedy of the money-mad "Monty" Brewster and his accumulating millions the Baker players have attained a finish that would do credit to a traveling organization, so perfect was the attention to detail.

Thomas McLarney made a Monty Brewster that left nothing to be desired. He was forceful and convincing in the big scenes, and yet boyish and ardent always. His gradations from the heights of comedy to tender pathos were indicative of the artistic method of this very excellent actor. His performance yesterday stamped him as capable of doing really big things. As yet he has not been cast for a part that would allow an outburst of the tremendous power that undoubtedly lies within that commanding exterior.

Miss Alice Fleming as Peggy Grey imbued the part with all that unaffected charm and delicate perception that is so delightful in an exceedingly pretty woman. Her manner is fetching, technique perfect, her voice soft and velvety and her gowning chic and graceful. Miss Fleming is already firmly installed as the best leading woman seen here in stock.

Donald Bowles was Archibald Vanderpool, relying largely on his physical characteristics to carry him through, and they sufficed. John W. Sherman brought much sincerity and earnestness to the role of Nopper Harrison. Phil Perry as Joseph MacCloud and Thomas Carrigan as Frank Braddon were good. Lillian Andrews scored as usual as Mrs. Dan DeMille. It is only necessary for Miss Andrews to wear a striped skirt and unusual headgear to reap laughter from her admirers.

Grace Hadsell deserves much for her effort as Janice Armstrong, and Margo Duffell as Barbara Drew was conventionally attractive. Neil Fransen as a gum-chewing stenographer contributed a bit that was excellently done.

Soo Trains Into Duluth.

WILL CHECKMATE EFFECT OF CANAL

Railroads Aim to Control All Portland's Waterfront to Prevent Lowering of Rates.

A campaign for public docks, to be systematically organized and energetically waged, is being arranged by the Chamber of Commerce, the Taxpayers' league and the Federated Trades. The campaign's purpose is to give fullest publicity to the reasons for adopting the public docks amendment at the election to be held November 3.

The fact that the railroads now own nearly all Portland's waterfront, which was made public last week, has awakened advocates of municipal control of the water terminals into new realization of the need for quick work. They are generally convinced that if public docks are not obtained immediately the railroads will, before the Panama canal is completed, own all the purchasable waterfront, as a means of controlling both water and land freight rates.

The point is also emphasized that if the waterfront is allowed to remain in private and corporate control, the hope for a 36-foot channel to the sea will have gone glimmering, since the government now refuses to make appropriations for harbor improvement where the only ones to be benefited are the private interests.

"A vote for the public docks amendment, consequently, is a vote for a Greater Portland," said a leader of the public docks cause today.

"It is easily seen that building of a better city is not possible where a few special interests have control. It is not possible to develop industries and shipping if freight rates either by land or sea are permitted to be extortionate. A vote for public docks, then, is a vote for prosperity; it is a vote against railroad ownership of Portland and for proper utilization of the increased commerce which will be brought to Portland through the operation of the Panama canal, provided we get ready for it."

Jewish New Year 5671.

New York, Oct. 3.—At sunset this evening the Jewish people of the United States, whose number is estimated at 2,000,000 and one half of whom reside within the confines of Greater New York, begin the celebration of the Jewish New Year 5671. With the exception of Tom Kipper, or the great captain of the New Year day, known as Rosh Hashona, is most strictly observed of any in the Jewish calendar. The day is observed by reformed and orthodox alike, excepting that the former observe one and the latter two days. It is a season of rejoicing and many families become reunited during its celebration.

In Memory of Martyred Jurist.

Catlettsburg, Ky., Oct. 3.—A statue of the late Judge John Milton Elliott of the Kentucky court of appeals was unveiled in the courthouse yard here today with interesting exercises and in the presence of a large crowd of spectators. Judge Elliott was assassinated by a disappointed litigant at Frankfort on March 26, 1879.
