INSURES LIFE FOR BENEFIT OF STORE

Spokane Man Carries $225,-000 Life Insurance to Protect Stockholders in Department Store.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal) Spokane, Wash., Oct. 8 .- Frank Culbertson, first vice-president of the Spokane chamber of commerce, who made a fortune in mining operations in the Coeur d'Alene district in northern Idaho, has taken a life insurance policy for $100,000, naming as the beneficiary the department store of which he is president. He now carries $225,000, of which $125,000 is in endowment policies, the first maturing next year. Others follow at the rate of $5000 and $10,000 every 12 months.

The policy, which is the largest ever issued in the west under the head of corporation insurance, is to protect the company's business, stockholders and creditors in the event of Mr. Culbertson's death.

Mr. Culbertson, who has the distinct tion of carrying more life insurance than any other individual in the Inland Empire, was born at Ironton, Ohio, in 1858. There he entered a wholesale gro cery house, remaining until 1882, when he went to St. Paul to engage in business for himself. He came to Spokan in 1885 and was soon attracted to the Coeur d'Alene mining district, where he successfully managed the Tiger-Poorman mine, in which he and S. S. Lidwere heavily interested. They opened the prospect at the grass roots and developed the property to the 1800feet level, selling the mine in 1899 to Charles Sweeny, former president of the Federal Mining & Smelting company. Two years afterward Mr. Culbertson ent to California, remaining three ears in San Francisco, Los Angeles and other cities. He returned to Spo kane in 1904 and organized a department store, which is among the largest of its kind in this part of the country.
