SAND FOR DYSPEPSIA: BOSTON MAN USES IT

Boston, Mass., Oct. 8 .- "Common sand, sterilized properly, is a better remedy for dyspepsia and indigestion troubles than any medicine. It is the means of digestion of many animals, so why not a man also?" says William A. Graustein, a wealthy milk dealer of Bos-

"Many years ago I used to sit at my desk, incapable of work, dopy and dull. A physician suggested that I swallow a spoonful of sand three times a day until my attacks passed away. I tried the experiment, and it worked. Within two months I was cured. Initiated Into Masonry-Prince Albert to Be Made Duke of York. By Lady Mary Manwaring, (Publishers' Press Leased Wire.) London, Oct. 8.—Just as soon as he

s of suitable age the Prince of Wales will be initiated into the mysteries of Free Masonry. His august grandfather was an enthusiastic freemason and was grand master of the order for Great Briain. When he ascended the throne, the supreme dignity of grand master of English freemasons was transferred to the Duke of Connaught, in consequence of the fact that the then Prince of Wales was not a member of the fraternity. But there is no reason to suppose that His Majesty will in-terpose any obstacle to the initiation of his sons as they severally attain years of discretion. It may be confidently assumed that the ceremony of initia-tion in the case of the Prince of Wales will be conducted by the Duke of Connaught himself. Honors for Young Prince,

The court entourage is naturally indulging in speculations as to His Majesty's intention with respect to Prince Albert, who is eighteen months younger than his elder brother, and will attain his legal majority on December 14th, two years hence. There is no actual precedent that would require his admission to the Noble Order of the Garter on that day, and for the time being nothing can usefully be said on that point.

But it is well to remember that the conferment of a Dukedom upon a minor is perfectly regular, and it is not in the least likely that King George will wait so long before raising his second son to a formal place in the peerage, by making him Duke of York. This is the title that by common con-sent is chosen for this purpose, It may be taken for granted that Prince Albert will receive this honor at an early date, and in quarters likely to be well-informed the date marked out for this purpose is his birthday two months hence.

Too Old for Romance. Only youth is needed to make the marriage of Prince Victor Napoleon Bonaparte and Princess Clementine of Belgium quite romantic. As it is, it is difficult to be gushingly enthusiasto over a pair whose united ages verge upon eighty years. And yet the story of their courtship is sufficiently picturesque and played out, as it has seen, on the steps of a throne-with a quantity of shadowy possibilities in the background—it cannot fail to be in teresting to the colookers. Prince Victor is now in his fortyeighth year-that is to say, three years older than his great-uncle was at the battle of Waterleo. Indeed, his age tells rather cruelly against him in every way. The tightly-buttoned gentle-man, with the aggressive moustache, reminds one much more of his other uncle, King Humbert of Italy, than of the imperious and Imperial Corsican who strode in his day across the map of Europe, altering It at his will. He is the eldest son of Prince Napoleon, the son of King Jerome, the youngest brother of the great emperor. Jerome Bonaparte was obliged to repudiate his American wife, Elizabeth Paterson, and to marry Princess Catherine of Wurtemburg. His children by her-Prince Napoleon and Princess Clothilde-were connected on their mother's side to many of the royal houses of Europe. Prince Napoleon married Clothilde, daughter of Victor Emmanuel, "Il Re Galantuomo," firas sovereign of United Italy. Princess Clothilde, a most high-born and saintly personage, had little in common with the second empire; and when as a child of sixteen, she was brought to Paris, her life was little short of martyrdom. Between her and the Empress Eugenie there could be but a very hollow treaty of peace; but when the second empire fel', and the Empress was obliged to fly from the Tuileries, Princess Clothilde ordered her horses, and drove with all due state down the boulevards on her way to the railway station. She the daughter of the house of Savoy, simply shook the dust of Paris from her royal skirts, as if glad the late Duke d' Aosta are these heirs. Odd Wedding Postponement. Love is said to laugh at locksmiths, but there was a peculiar reversal of the old tag at a wedding which was announced to take place at Burton-on-rent. It appears that shortly before nine o'clock the bridegroom, John Kim-berley, accompanied by his best man proceeded to St. Chad's church. had been waiting several minutes, and were expecting the bride, Miss Agnes Brown, momentarily, when the vicar robed in readiness for the ceremony, hurried into the church and expressed hoped to arrange the ceremony later "I have passed on the suggestion to in the day, as marriages may be any number of friends and the remedy solemnized up to three o'clock in the has been infallible.
