

SEAT TO A POINTS TO A POINTS OF OREGON REFORMS

In Address Before People's Forum George E. Chamberlain Shows How This State Sets Example for Others.

"Oregon, the Fool of the Family," was the subject of an address delivered by Senator George E. Chamberlain before the People's Forum at the Hotel Irving last night.

Senator Chamberlain reviewed the history of the constitutional system from the time of the constitutional convention and the commencement of the national government in 1789 to the present time.

From 1800 until 1834 the presidents had been nominated in congressional caucuses, composed of the members of the national congress, who met in party divisions and nominated the candidates for their respective parties.

Even then, the speaker said, the people charged that the caucus was usurping the right and privilege of the voters of the country.

The effort of the people of the country to shake off the growth of the convention system and the abuse of the caucus was shown by the speaker.

The initiative and referendum, the keystone of the Oregon system, was the keystone of popular government, the speaker contended.

Senator Chamberlain paid attention to the assembly. He contended that the assembly was the fruit of an effort to get back to the old convention system.

While all of the rooms of the theatre are not yet complete, the auditorium is in readiness for the audience, and the building will be in comfortable shape from the standpoint of heat and ventilation.

RUNAWAY GIRLS CAUGHT IN WOODS

After braving experiences from which many men would shrink, Ethel Still, Tilly Hugel and Rosalie West, three eastern Oregon girls who fled from the Boys' and Girls' Aid society home at East Twenty-ninth and East Irving streets, were captured Saturday night in the wilds near the headwaters of Bull Run.

Footsore and weary, the girls walked into the cabin of R. F. Shelley, chief forest ranger, near Marmot after finding Bull Run. Mr. Shelley telephoned to Superintendent Gardner of the home, who brought them back to the city.

At the home of a dairyman on Sandy road, the first stop on their proposed return to eastern Oregon, Wednesday night they accepted the charity of a farmer near Gresham, telling plausible stories to explain their predicament in both cases.

BRIDGE BOND CASE COMES UP OCT. 20

In Supreme Court City Attorney Will Show Why Issue Shouldn't Be Enjoined.

The city cannot deliver the first $250,000 issue of the Broadway bridge bonds until October 20.

The city attorney Grant received this morning from the supreme court an interpretation of the order issued at the instance of the Kierman-Dunway obstructionists, last night, it said that injunctions made by Dunway were not fradulent, but were written in by Dunway by the court's permission in order that the mandate might be intelligible.

"I am going to take off my coat and go after those people," said Mr. Grant, warmly, the subject matter of the Kierman-Dunway suit, the subject matter of their representations whereby the temporary restraining order was granted, in Kierman-Dunway case, nothing more nor less.

"I don't want even to seem to be in contempt of court, but I do say that Dunway gets more consideration than he is entitled to. At the present time there are three important cases before the circuit court which Dunway is having postponed from time to time, merely upon his representation that he is too busy to appear.

At 4 o'clock there will be a meeting for women and girls in charge of Mrs. Lutes, Dr. Drake and Miss Smith. At 7:45 there will be an interesting evening service with special music and addresses by several of the workers.

PULLS REVOLVER ON HER HUSBAND

W. J. Scott Tells Divorce Court Wife Once Snapped Trigger but Chamber Empty.

Charging that his wife, Louise E. Scott, made several attempts on his life, Walter J. Scott this morning filed an answer in the circuit court to her suit for a divorce.

Mrs. Scott pointed a loaded revolver at her husband June 10, this year, but that she pulled the trigger, but that fortunately the hammer was snapped on the only empty chamber of the weapon.

Prior to that, the cross-complaint alleges, Mrs. Scott had often threatened to kill him and after this demonstration of her intentions, he says, he was obliged to take the revolver from her and hide it.

Later on in the same month, the husband alleges, he found a large sharp knife under his wife's pillow. He says she threatened to kill him with the knife. Mrs. Scott asks the court to dismiss his wife's suit and to grant a divorce based on the cross-complaint. He also asks to be decreed the owner of a house and lot in Portland and a lot in Missoula, Mont. He says his wife occupies the house in this city and refuses to let him dwell in it.

DEMOCRATS AD OPT COUNTY PLATFORM

Candidates for Office in Multnomah Meet and Agree Upon Common Statement.

Democratic candidates for county offices have adopted a common platform and intend to make a strong bid for election in November.

The undersigned nominees of the Democratic party for the office of state representative beg leave to present to the voters of Multnomah county a few reasons why they ask their suffrage at the coming election.

"We stand for the enactment of such laws as will make for the prosperity of the state and its people. We neither stand for nor represent any special interest which tends to increase the power of our legislative bodies and pledge ourselves, if elected, to do all in our power to prevent such waste and extravagance and also to reject legislation which tends to increase the office holding body with which class this country and state is already abundantly blessed."

"We will vote for no bill with an emergency clause unless upon the face of it the bill itself shows that it is for the benefit and protection of the public peace, health or safety."

"If elected we promise the voters that we will favor a resolution submitting to the people an amendment to the constitution of the state providing for an exemption from taxation of all household goods and personal property, including mechanics' tools, farm implements, etc., to the extent of $200."

"We emphatically endorse Statement No. 1 and heartily subscribe to our direct primary law. This law is passed in the party form of government. In our minds the greatest menace to this law is the present tendency towards destruction of party lines."

"We expect the votes of the Democrats, because this is a Democratic ticket. We ask the votes of the independents because in their beliefs and principles, they are at heart Democratic. We urge the suffrage of all voters who believe in political parties as well as individuals."
