APPLE SITUATION NOT SATISFACTORY TO ANY INTEREST

Everyone Is Dumping Supplies Upon Portland and Therefore Most Prices Are Low; Some Exceptions Shown.

The local apple situation is far from being satisfactory to either grower or receiver.

Considering that Portland is a primary market, the showing of prices is quite good, but few realize this.

The main trouble with the Portland apple market at this time is the heavy shipments being sent in this direction. Everyone who has a few dozen apple trees in this territory sends the product to Portland. Those who have a greater acreage and are in a district where there is an association, do not send the best stuff to this market. It is the less than carload shipper who glut the Portland market, therefore he must take the prices offered.

While it is true that a lot of extra early winter Bananas apples have sold here recently at $3 a box, this price is an exception, and there are but few lots of apples in the country that will bring such a figure at this time.

There is a limited demand for a select apple here, and a price as high as is obtainable elsewhere can be secured, but once let this demand be supplied and prices will drop rapidly, no matter what the quality. Good variety choice winter Bananas apples are being offered today at $1.25 to $1.50 a box or more than the usual discount from extra select.

Demand for Spitzberg apples locally is quite good, and select stock brings from $1.50 to $2 a box, and extra select might bring more if offered. However, none of the latter grade has been seen here recently.

Demand in the local apple market at this time is almost entirely confined to the red varieties, the sale of Winter Bananas at high prices being an exception and a sort of fact that quickly subsides.

Choice King apples are quoted from $1.50 to $1.75 a box, and fancy at $1.75 to $2.00. Gravenstein range from $1.75 for extra fancy, with fancy at $1.75 to $2.00. Extra fancy Nonesuch sell around $1.50, and extra fancy Jonathans around $1.25. Northern Spies of fancy quality range around $1.25, and extra fancy from $1.50 to $1.75.

More Razor Clams Offering. There were quite liberal supplies of razor clams in the local wholesale market today, the catch at the coast increasing. Prices remain as previously listed.

Potato Market Steady. Considerable steadiness is noted in the potato market here. Local growers are not offering any more freely and prices are holding around $1.25 to $1.40 for best.

Good Call for Hens. Hens remain in active demand and top prices are realized. Only a limited supply is shown, and prices are holding around $1.75 to $1.85. Geese are not quite so firm.

Sweet Potatoes Plentiful. Sweet potatoes are now plentiful in the local market. Shipments from the south have increased and price here has not advanced in sympathy with California rise.

Fine Hops Displayed. Conrad Krebs, owner of the big yards at Independence, is exhibiting some of the best hops ever seen here. The quality is said to be extremely fancy.

Peach Movement Is Fair. Movement in the peach market is fair. Few sales are made above $10 and this is only for extra select. Only a limited supply of these coming at this time.

Holding Cheese Steady. In their effort to hold back, as much as possible, importations of cheese from the east, cheese makers are not quoting an advance such as the market at present justifies.
