

WEST'S CAMPAIGN IS MAKING NOTES FOR DEMOCRATS

Prospects in Eastern Oregon Flattering Says Hugh McLain His Companion on Part of Tour.

Oswald West is making a cyclonic campaign in eastern Oregon, and his prospects in that section are very flattering, said Hugh McLain who arrived in Portland last night, after journeying with the West party through Malheur, Wallowa, Baker and Umatilla counties. "He makes a quick conquest and effective address, and can go out among the people and meet and make more friends than any man I ever saw."

"Assemblymen is the issue and there is no other issue in eastern Oregon," continued Mr. McLain. "Nobody is paying the slightest attention to side issues that Mr. Bowerman and his managers are vainly trying to inject into the campaign. What the people of that section are thinking about is assemblymen, and it is on that issue that after every meeting many Republicans walk up and shake hands with Mr. West and assure him of their support." Mr. McLain is the Democratic candidate for railroad commissioner. He is a resident of Marshfield, and has been for 16 years a citizen of Oregon. He was for years connected with railroad construction, having built lines in many of the states of the union. He is in addition a man of strong intelligence and broad information, carrying a vast fund of practical knowledge that would be of value as railroad commissioner. In his rounds through the states he has met a great many people who take the view that one practical man, skilled in the mechanics of railroading would be of great value to the commission. This and other features of the situation give him strong encouragement in further pushing his campaign. Mr. McLain is spending several days in Portland. He contracted a severe cold in eastern Oregon and was consequently obliged to cancel a portion of his itinerary.

J. F. STEPHENS TO MAKE EASTERN TRIP

John F. Stephens, head of the Hill roads in Oregon, will leave for St. Paul, Chicago and New York tomorrow. He will visit his son, D. F. Stephens, treasurer of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, who lives in New York. "Of course, I will stop off at St. Paul and Chicago on my way east, but I have no questions in mind that will be taken up. The Portland union depot question may come up for discussion, and it may not. I am going on a pleasure trip principally to see the babies—my grandchildren." Mr. Stephens will be gone about two weeks. Returning, he will be accompanied by Mrs. Stephens, who has been in New York for some time. In regard to the proposed east and west line through central Oregon, Mr. Stephens stated this morning that instructions have been issued to the engineers in Burns to file the maps with the government land department for approval. The survey runs from Bend to Harney lake.

OREGON EXHIBIT IN GREAT FIELD MUSEUM

An Oregon exhibit of botanical specimens is being prepared for the Field museum at Chicago. The collection is being made by Huron H. Smith, connected with the museum, who has been in this state the past 10 days. The exhibit will contain shrubs, plants, small trees, vines, fruit and Portland roses. In connection with the exhibit Mr. Smith is collecting a large number of photographs of points of interest. This week he is taking pictures in the Portland parks, and places surrounding the city. The increasing demand in Chicago and the east for information about Oregon occasioned the board of directors of Field museum to prepare a large exhibit. Mr. Smith is being aided in his work of collecting specimens by the park board.

FIND HORSES POORLY HOUSED

Building Inspector Visits Larger Stables; 254 Are Below Sanitary Standard.

The first inspection of frame stables in the city was completed this morning by Building Inspector Plummer and his deputies. This inspection was made to secure better protection for horses. The destruction of the Exposition building, in which 188 animals lost their lives, brought the officials to a realization that something must be done.

A. S. Lotspeich, deputy building inspector, had direct charge of this inspection, and in his report emphasizes the poor sanitary conditions in the stables. He inspected 305 stables, and found 254 below standard. Only 51 passed his inspection.

In the matter of exits and entrances, the deputy building inspector found 55 stables that were below standard. The owners of these barns were notified to make changes that will give the horses a chance for their lives in case of fire. The chief trouble is that the exits are not wide enough, and do not open directly into a street or thoroughfare. Especial attention is being given to stables underground, and wider aisles and fire hose are being required.

IMAGINES HE WAS ROBBED AND SHOTS

Believing he had been robbed by T. S. Worley, a bartender, in a saloon at Second and Alder streets, Frank O'Neil aged 42, drew a revolver yesterday afternoon and fired a shot across the bar which grazed Worley's cheek. The latter hurried a glass, which stretched O'Neil on the floor. Worley declares that O'Neil was in the saloon some time before and flashed a roll of bills. He says he advised him to put his money in a safe place, because he was fast becoming intoxicated. O'Neil left the saloon, but came back not long afterward and accused Worley of taking his money. He then drew the revolver and fired.

Patrolman Richards was called to the saloon and placed O'Neil under arrest. He was placed in the city jail on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon and intoxication. When searched the police are inclined to doubt that he was robbed at all. O'Neil, who is a railroad foreman and recently came here from the Deschutes country, pleaded guilty to assault in municipal court today, and was sentenced to 60 days on the rockpile.

ATTENDANCE AT NIGHT SCHOOLS INCREASES

The enrollment at night schools, which opened last night, has doubled in a year. The largest increase was in the trades schools. This is the first year that young women have done night work in the trades. Millinery, sewing, cooking and domestic work are taught. Fully 250 young men and women gathered at the Lincoln high school to take up the high school work. There are more girls than boys this year, the class being organized with 80 more than last year. Several applied for instruction in English. The major part of these were foreigners. School will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

FOOD COMMISSIONER AIDS ENFORCEMENT OF PURE MILK LAW

A fine of $50 for selling impure milk was imposed upon Fred Ulrich, dairyman, by Justice of the Peace Bell yesterday afternoon. Another similar charge against Ulrich was heard last Saturday, and a fine of $25 imposed at that time. He was accused of watering his milk and not taking proper sanitary precautions. The case was brought by State Dairy and Food Commissioner J. W. Bailey.

DARROW AT ASTORIA IN HOME RULE CAUSE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Astoria, Oct. 18.—Clarence Darrow spoke before an audience last night that occupied every seat and all the standing room in the Astoria theatre. He spoke against "the absurdities of state-wide prohibition," by regulation under the proposed Home Rule bill as the most important step to be taken before attempting to eradicate the evils of the liquor traffic.

REGISTRATION SHOWS 13 PER CENT GAIN

The registration books at the county courthouse this year showed an increase of 13 per cent in the number of voters, over the registration of two years ago. The total registration when the books were finally closed yesterday was 37,924. In 1908 the total registration was 33,220. Of the signers this year, 29,049 are Republicans, 6678 Democrats and 3197 are Independents, Socialists and Prohibitionists. Registration reports from outlying districts have not been received yet.

$400,000 CONCERN TO PUT UP NEW BUILDING

Articles of incorporation were filed today for the Willamette Building & Realty company, which will take over the Fleischner property at Third and Morrison streets and improve it with either a nine or ten story office building. The incorporators are F. S. Stanley, Fred H. Rothchild and J. R. Bowles, who hold an option on the property.

VAN DOUZER WILL HEAD DEMOCRATS' JACKSON CLUB

Adopt Constitution and By-Laws and Elect Younger Members of Party to Office in Organization.

At a largely attended meeting of Portland Democrats in the Medical building hall last night, the organization of the Jackson club was perfected by the adoption of a constitution and by-laws, and the election of a full set of officers.

The following officers were selected to serve for one year: President, H. B. Van Douzer; first vice president, M. F. Collins; second vice president, John Montag; secretary, William Neville; treasurer, G. W. Allen. An executive committee was chosen, consisting of the officers of the club and six club members, as follows: M. C. Glover, Robert McKay, A. H. Harms, Robert A. Miller, J. W. McGinn and Dr. A. G. Bettman.

Monthly meetings are provided for in the constitution, and it was voted to hold the first and third Friday evenings of the month, the meetings to be held straight through the year, regardless of whether a campaign is in progress or not.

The Jackson club is essentially a young man's organization, as every officer, including the members of the executive committee, with one or two exceptions, is composed of the younger generation of Democrats. Last night's meeting was primarily a getting together of Democrats. Every man present pledged himself to make an active, energetic campaign for the perpetuation of Democratic principles and the success of Democratic candidates for office.

BIG CONCERN FOR EASTERN OREGON

Beebe and Ladd in $350,000 Corporation to Develop Lime and Gypsum.

The Western Lime & Plaster company having a paid up capital of $350,000, has been organized by Portland capitalists for the purpose of engaging in the extensive manufacture of lime and all kinds of hard and finishing plaster. General Charles F. Beebe is president of the company; Charles E. Judd, vice-president and treasurer; M. B. Wakeman, secretary and W. C. Hay, general manager.

The company has extensive deposits of lime rock near Huntington, in Baker county and gypsum deposits covering about 1000 acres in northern Baker county on the line of the Oregon Short Line's Lewiston branch. Lime kilns with a capacity of several hundred barrels a day are being erected on the company's property near Huntington. At Gypsum in the northern part of Baker county, the company is preparing to begin the erection of a plaster mill with a daily capacity of 400 tons of hard and finishing plaster.

General Hay today said that the company would be shipping lime from its new kilns within 30 days, but that it would be probably six months before the plaster mill begins operations. In addition to manufacturing lime and plaster, the company is handling a variety of materials of all kinds including cement of all grades, metal, lath, sand and gravel.

DAIRMEN MEET BUT FAIL IN COMBINE

Representatives of the creamery and dairy men failed to reach any definite results at a meeting held last night where plans for effecting a combine were discussed. The meeting continued several hours. It was proposed to consolidate the creamery and dairy interests under three heads, namely: butter and eggs, milk and cream, and ice cream. All now in the business would add their property to one of the three proposed corporations, receiving in return stock to the amount of the property they appraised. Arrangements were made for other meetings.

LIVELY CONTEST FOR POSSESSION OF 48 ACRE TRACT

County's Claim to Property East of Rockwood Protested by W. S. Chapman, Who Wants Title to It.

Who owns the 48 acre tract one mile east of Rockwood, on the Base Line road, on which the county of Multnomah is now operating a rock crushing plant? The decision of that question has at last been hastened by the action of Judge Cleland of the circuit court, in setting aside a judgment by default against the county, the judgment having been taken by W. S. Chapman, April 19, 1909.

The decision of that question has at last been hastened by the action of Judge Cleland of the circuit court, in setting aside a judgment by default against the county, the judgment having been taken by W. S. Chapman, April 19, 1909. Judge Cleland's decision was made last Saturday after there had been placed before him a sensational affidavit filed by Harrison Allen, attorney for the county. In this affidavit the attorney accuses H. H. Riddell, the lawyer who acted for Chapman, of sharp practice.

Affiant states that Riddell first procured from Judge Gantenbein an order overruling a demurrer made by the county to the complaint of Chapman and that later, he induced Judge Bronough to issue an order defaulting the case against the county, although the county's attorney had never had a chance to appear on behalf of the county. He states that he, as counsel for the county, was never informed by Riddell that Riddell had succeeded in having the motion of the county to strike the complaint off the records set down for trial.

The case has become exceedingly involved by the fact that the property in question has been conveyed to different people a number of times. Yet the county still claims the land and declares that it has had possession of it ever since it was originally deeded to the county in 1849 by John Barnes. John Barnes, an aged man, made an agreement with the county in 1859, by which he transferred a parcel of land to the county on condition that the county should support him for the rest of his life.

Jacob Barnes, who claimed to be a son of John Barnes, filed in 1905, a suit in the United States circuit court for possession of the property. Chapman made the claim that the federal court had decided in favor of Barnes and that Barnes had sold the property to Chapman. The county now holds that the United States court had no authority to make such a decision and that the alleged title of Barnes is sham.

Chief Clerk Shaw, of the county court, says the only title that Chapman has is one he secured by acquiring the property through a sale for taxes, the sale having been made by the county. If this is the case, Chapman could not make the claim hold because the county cannot sell its own property for taxes, county property not being subject to taxation. Chapman asserts in his complaint that the county failed to comply with the agreement entered into in 1859 with the original owner of the property. He says that Jacob Barnes has been in possession of the property ever since that date, the elder Barnes having died in the latter part of 1859.

On the other hand, the county alleges that it has been in possession of the property ever since it was first deeded. The county has its rock crushing plant on the land at present and its claim has the appearance of being based on good grounds. To complicate the case still further, a third party has appeared in the action in the person of Sara J. Henderson, who claims an interest in the land. At the time the conditional gift was made to the county the property was valued at $500. Its value has increased in the past 50 years to more than 10 times that amount.

PORT OF PORTLAND COMMISSION MEETS

The Port of Portland will hold a meeting today at 4 o'clock to decide whether it will be proper to forbid any construction work on the Broadway bridge until the new O. R. & N. bridge has been completed and the old one torn down. City Attorney Grant issued an opinion yesterday in which he questioned the commission's right to interfere in the Broadway bridge matter in any particular way.

MISSIONARY JUBILEE BEING CELEBRATED

Portland's celebration of the Woman's National Foreign Missionary Jubilee at the First Presbyterian church this morning was marked by a series of denominational meetings held in the parlors of the church and in surrounding churches at which the women of the different denominations of the city were addressed by one of the several missionaries present at the session. Before the denominational meetings were held a central meeting was called in the main auditorium of the church, which was addressed by Miss Florence Miller, representative from the Christian Foreign board, and Miss Ella McLaurin, Baptist foreign mission secretary. The afternoon's session includes addresses by a number of the missionaries present as well as a reception and tea to the visitors. A mass meeting will be held this evening at 7:45, at which a general review of the work of the society will take place.

UPPERCUTS EXCITE CHURCH AUDIENCE

A fight in a Finnish church near Raleigh and Eighteenth streets interrupted a revival meeting in progress there last night, and nearly created a panic among the women in the audience. The combatants were Lauri Sappanen, aged 22, of 327 North Seventeenth street, and another Finn, whom he says he does not know. Sappanen declares the other man struck him first for an unknown reason, and he replied with several well directed blows. He finally got him down in an aisle and was pounding him energetically when Patrolman Ace Welch arrived.

They Haven't Paid License Fees for Seven Years; Ordinance Is Good.

A statement of the yearly license fees due the city from steam railroads operating here is being prepared today by City Auditor Darbur for the city attorney's office. When this memorandum is complete complaints will be lodged against the various companies for failure to pay. The auditor estimates that these roads owe the city $3000, and he has notified them to this effect. No attention has been given this notification, and the matter will not be taken into consideration. License fees have been paid by the railroads for the past seven years. City Attorney Grant recently gave the city auditor an opinion, stating that the city had a right to collect this back amount, and that the ordinance requiring the fees is as good today as it ever was.

WORK FAILS TO START ON ELECTRIC ROAD

Announcement is made that as the payroll and bills of the Astoria, Seaside & Tillamook electric railroad company are overdue and no money is forthcoming from the Philadelphia source of supplies the local offices will be closed and no more liabilities incurred at this end. M. C. N. Bennett, the engineer in charge at Astoria, is leaving, after striving since May last to reconstruct the plans and scope of construction. Little local capital is involved, although Astoria people have given time and some money toward securing rights of way. A pretense was made of beginning construction on January 1, 1910, but no actual work was done. Mr. Bennett has confined himself to securing plans and surveys for a modified and extended line.

PLANS OF HIGH QUALITY, SOME EXCELLENT ORGANS AND SEVERAL PIANOS AT LITTLE PRICES, TO MAKE WAY FOR STEAM FITTERS AND DIGGERS, READ EVERY WORD AND INVESTIGATE AT ONCE.

Plano of High Quality, Some Excellent Organs and Several Pianos at Little Prices, to Make Way for Steam Fitters and Diggers, Read Every Word and Investigate at Once.

Before cold weather sets in we are compelled to make some important changes in our heating accommodations. Rather than take the risk and bother to store the pianos in the rooms where men will do some digging and other work, we are going to sell them. We shall make prices so low that they'll move out at once. Over fifty instruments are marked at further reductions from the already extremely low prices at which they were marked in our piano exchange and bargain room.

There is a really elegant Behr, Eron piano in the lot. If it had a modern case it would be worth at least $450. We are marking it less than half that price—$218. Cash or bring $18 cash and pay balance at $6 a month. We'll sell a nice-toned little Goble upright, very modern case, worth $275, for $175. A $400 large-sized Vox upright for $175, also a nearly brand new, very fancy case, Bush & Lane piano, $175.

An elegant mottled walnut $500 Kimball, in every way as good as new, though used in one of Portland's finest homes for nearly four years, is now priced $295—payments $8 a month buys it, and a mottled mahogany Estey Upright is $320. A Kingsbury is but $125 and an elegant Decker, $500 style, is $200, and an Emerson is only $150. A Fessie Upright is now $127; a French Upright $175.

SEVERAL PIANO PLAYERS FOR LITTLE

Several Piano Players and other player pianos that have been taken in part payment for our later and greatly improved Autopianos can be had for $250, $300 and $350 less than their established retail prices. A two years' free library is also given free with each of these pianos. This is the biggest reduction in piano prices we have ever been able to offer.

ORGANS AND SQUARES MUST GO, TOO.

Several square pianos, for a mere song; we must have them out of the way. Pay us $40 or even $1 a month. Eight parlor road organs—Kimball and Mason & Hamlin and Burdette—at one-third retail value; also a number of chapel organs, splendid for school and church. We have some priced less than $20 now. The sale has just started in our exchange and bargain room and these pianos won't last long at these low prices, probably Thursday will find them all in new homes. We advise early selection. Arrangements can be made by telephone to see them in the evening. Eilers Music House, the reliable place for all the different makes which are shown, impartially side by side. Retail department 353 Washington street at Park (Eight) street. "The always busy corner."
