BILL STEEN GIVEN TERRIFIC BEATING

Seals Take Kindly to His Offerings, While Browning Is Enigma.

San Francisco, Oct. 21.—Steen was off color yesterday while Browning was so good that he blanked the Beavers, 5 to 0.

In the second inning Steen was bumped for enough hits with an error by Olson to make three runs and put the locals out of reach. Two were out when the Seals got busy. Tennant had filed to Ort and Vitt was a dead one, Casey to Rapps. Williams was safe on Olson's miscue and Mohler followed with a single. Browning's single scored Williams and then Shaw slammed a two bagger into center that rushed Mohler and Browning home. Ryan brought the run getting to a close by winging Shaw out when that worthy tried to stretch his double into a three bagger.

McArdle's walk, his steal and Casey's error of Tennant's grounder on which Mas scored gave the Seals their fourth run.

Two more were put across the pan in the sixth inning. After Vitt whiffed, Williams singled and stole second. Then Mohler walked and was forced at second by Olson and Casey. Then Shaw tripled and Williams and Browning scored. Ryan captured McArdle's fly and closed the inning.

The last runs were put over in the eighth. Ort dropped Vitt's fly and was forced at second by Williams. Mohler singled and Browning's double scored Williams. Shaw's single sent Browning to third, whence he scored on Fisher's passed ball. Score:

MIXED FOURSOMES FOR MINOR TROPHY

Waverly Golf Club Will Open New Course With Handicap Tomorrow.

With the largest mixed foursome turnout in many months the Waverly Golf club will celebrate the opening of the new course tomorrow afternoon in a handicap tournament for the Wirt Minor cups. Mr. Minor has put up two handsome cups for the winning pair, one for the lady and one for the gentleman. The three best scores will decide the winners and the tournament may be had at any time the club directors wish.

The new addition to the golf club course was laid out and seeded a year ago and has not yet been played on. Much care was exercised in making it as nearly perfect as possible and critics have declared it to be one of the finest on this side of the Atlantic ocean. It is naturally adapted for golf and the holes were laid out by a well known expert. More of them have been laid along the river bank, giving the grounds a much prettier setting.

The handicaps have not yet been made out, but the committee is hard at work on them.

The entry list is composed of the following who will continue through the different dates set for play.

Mrs. Thomas Koer and W. E. Mackay, Mrs. Allen Lewis and W. J. Burns, Mrs. Richard Koshler and Thomas Kerr, Miss Kathleen Burns and Thomas Robertson, Mrs. W. J. Burns and J. E. Young

WILLAMETTE PLAYS AGRICULTURE TOMORROW

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Willamette University, Salem, Or., Oct. 21.—Willamette university is preparing for its biggest game, which will be played against the heavy aggregation from the Oregon Agricultural college tomorrow afternoon. The varsity is going into the game to win, and fully expects to hand the Agrics a few surprises in the line of forward passes and other plays, that have been in course of development under Coach Sweetland for several weeks before school opened this fall.

As a result of the splendid weather of the past week Willamette field is in excellent shape and will be dry and fast, favoring the lighter team of the varsity. The good weather also has been instrumental in bringing out a big squad each evening for practice. Spirit is running high at the university, and though it is represented by a strong team, it is expected that a splendid showing will be made by Willamette against them.

This evening a huge bonfire will be built and the students of Willamette will hold a big rally. Enthusiasm is running high. No game in years has raised such spirit here, for Willamette has the strongest team of recent history. Its strength has not yet been measured. Willamette's only game so far this season was with the Hill Military academy of Portland, when the score was 23 to 3 against the cadets, and three touchdowns by the varsity were made in the first quarter or 15 minutes of play.

Theodore Brettenstein, the veteran pitcher, will succeed Gene Demont as playing manager of the New Orleans southern league team next season.

SEATTLE AGAINST CADETS SATURDAY

Hill Team Thinks Queen Anne Eleven Will Be Beaten Off Easily.

All arrangements for the game between Hill Military academy and Queen Anne High school of Seattle have been completed and everything is in readiness for the big gridiron battle at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The game will be played on the professional baseball field, Vaughn and Twenty-fourth streets, which has been leased by the Mulnoman club for the season and remodelled to meet the requirements of football. The gridiron, which is in excellent condition and unusually fast and springy, is laid out parallel to the main body of the grandstand, and close enough to afford the spectator an exceptionally good view of the game from the rainproof shelter of that structure.

The visiting team is scheduled to arrive in Portland this afternoon and will probably be quartered at the Oregon hotel during its stay in the city. Queen Anne has made an excellent showing so far this fall and has defeated all comers by decisive scores. The team is said to be unusually well versed for a prep school team in the intricate plays of the modern game of football. It is husky, fast, aggressive, confident of success and in good physical condition. There is no doubt, therefore, that the Seattleites will treat the spectators to a superior exhibition of up to date football.

Determined on Fight.

The Hill Military academy cadets, on the other hand, although deprived of the services of Phillips, the swift half-back, are determined to give the visiting eleven the fight of their lives. They are not one whit behind the Puget sound eleven, as far as efficient coaching and thorough, intelligent knowledge of the new game is concerned. They are Queen Anne's equal in weight and physical strength, and probably not very far behind in speed and quickness, and they are imbued with the grim determination to win in spite of their somewhat crippled back field. The game, therefore, should be fully as good from the spectator's standpoint, as fast, clean and as

SEMI-PRO TOSSERS PLAY FOR $100 SIDE BET

Perhaps the last game of baseball in Portland this season, unless McCredie's Beavers return for a game, will be the attractions at Twenty-fourth and Vaughn streets next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, between Rupert's West Portland team and Heales' crack Columbia Hardware aggregation. Heales has accused Rupert several times of fearing the Columbia outfit, but "Red" comes back and claims that Heales never did have a team that could compare with the "Rubes." At any rate a $100 side bet has been posted by the managers, and the two clubs, which are about the best of the semi-professionals in the city, will mix it on Sunday. Ed Rankin, the Coast league umpire, will officiate. The lineup:

The Tailor Out-Tailored

A ONE-MAN product has all the faults and limitations of one-man handwork. No matter how good the garment of one tailor may be, it cannot conceivably be as good as the garment conceived by many minds and created by many hands. Think! Can it?

"High-Art" Clothes express the united abilities of a corps of tailors drilled with the precision and to the perfection of a "crack" regiment.

If you are pre-possessed in favor of one-man tailoring, you will cease to be after you have possessed a "High-Art" Suit or Overcoat for Autumn.

Most good-form shops specialize "High-Art" Clothes. The "High-Art" label marks the garments as ours and the shop selling them as yours.
