

"THE CITY" MOST WEIRD STORY

All Elements of Crime Play Part in Fitch's Production at New Heilig.

By E. I. Hypocrisy, blackmail, dishonesty, theft, degenerate and murder—such are the ingredients of Clyde Fitch's latest and greatest play, "The City." Charged with sensationalism, gashed with horror, the brutal and brutish climaxes staggered the big audience and left it shocked and stupefied. During the tension of the tremendous second act, the audience held its breath gasping and smothering with emotions.

It is not a police nor a cheerful story. But truth, they say, is never well-bred, and being naked is shameless. The central figure is a degenerate youth maddened by drugs, an illegitimate offspring of the most eminent citizen of Middleburg, N. Y., and the village dress-maker of spotted reputation. With such a motif, the play contends that the city is not to blame because weak characters go wrong. The city strips men of their masks and forms a crucible for their regeneration or their demoralization, according to the stuff of which they are made.

Advantages of Villages.
"We can hide our hypocrisy in a small town. Men grow to old age, never suspecting their own dishonesty and crooks at heart pass for men of integrity because they have never been tempted as the great city tempted them."

George Rand Sr., is the father of the drug-crazed Hannock, who continually bleeds the former for money, not knowing the nature of his claim. The senior Rand has a legitimate family also. Upon the death of the father, George Rand Jr., is told the truth. The family moves to New York, Hannock accompanying them as Rand's secretary. Rand is up for the nomination of governor of New York with brilliant prospects for a whirlwind victory. Hannock's blackmailing comes to the notice of Rand's campaign manager, and his dismissal is requested.

In the terrible contest between Rand and Hannock which follows, it develops that Hannock has that morning married his half-sister, Cicely. The innocent girl enters and rather than let her know the secret, Hannock shows the only mark of manhood in him by silencing her forever.

Death of Cicely.
The death of Cicely brings the family, all of whom are more or less compromised in various festerings of city life, to their senses, and the audience is left uncertain as to the working out of their futures.

The best performance was that of Geoffrey Stein as the broken, sodden and brutalized wreck, Hannock. The character accomplishment was so near perfection as to bear the unkindness of reality. Marie Masironi as a doll and man about town, was excellent; his portrait was intensely exact. Norman Hackett, always a favorite with Portland audiences, sustained a trying role with characteristic force. Miss Ethel

Martin is a velvet-eyed beauty, who played the highly-colored sister admirably. Miss Susanne Willis as Cicely was wonderfully pretty and petite, but not equal to the big scene in the second act.

FORT STEVENS MAY BE MADE CENTRAL POINT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Fort Stevens, Or., Oct. 21.—Sweeping changes are contemplated in the disposition of the troops at Fort Stevens, Columbia and Canby. In pursuance of a War department plan recently adopted, it is expected that the centralization of troops advocated will result in all companies being stationed at Stevens, it being the best defended and strongest strategic point.

The recent completion of Manila Harbor fortifications will probably result in one or more of the Fort Stevens companies being ordered to that place at a very early date.

WORLD'S FLYING MEN ASSEMBLED

International Meet at New York Expected to Eclipse All Predecessors

New York, Oct. 21.—An international aviation meet, the first big affair of its kind to be held in America, will begin tomorrow and continue for a week at Belmont park, the magnificent race track and grounds on Long Island, within easy access of this city.

With the most daring aviators of Europe and America engaged in daily contests, with the latest models of heavier than air machines, striving to excel in power, speed and endurance, with the Coupe Internationale d'Aviation heading the list of trophies, with over $50,000 in cash prizes and a daily attendance expected to reach 100,000, the International Aviation Tournament, as the meet is officially designated, is expected to mark the highest point yet gained in the science of aeronautics.

The international meet was inaugurated by the French Aero club, the parent aeroplane organization of the world. It was first held on the great Bethany Plains, near Rheims, last year. Speed was then the greatest aim sought by flyers. For that reason it was decided that the pilot who won the speed contest would have the right to demand that the next international meet be held in his country. In an untired biplane of his own make Glenn H. Curtiss of Hammondsport, N. Y., won the event and thereby secured for the United States the international meet of this year.

Among the noted aviators who will take part in the events of the week are Claude Grahame-White, James Radley and Alec Ogilvie of England, Alfred Le Blanc, Count de Lesseps, Hubert Latham, Jacques Faure and M. Labouchere of France, and individual entries from Italy, Germany and Holland.

The American contestants will include John Moisant, J. Armstrong Drexel, Charles K. Hamilton, Walter A. Brookins, Ralph Johnstone, Captain Thomas S. Baldwin, Charles F. Willard, T. C. Shriver and several others who are almost as well known.

It is expected that more than 1,000,000 spectators will attend the contests. Principal interest centers in the rivalry between the Wright brothers on one side and all the other contestants on the other. The coming tournament will be the first in which the Wrights will have pitted their skill against others in the aeroplane world. The Wrights' exclusiveness heretofore has been attributed to their claim that foreign and American aviators have infringed their patents.

Want Mine Workers Enjoined.

Fort Smith, Ark., Oct. 21.—Arguments were heard in the federal court here today on the application for a permanent injunction to restrain the United Mine Workers from interfering with the operation of the mines of the Enterprise Mining & Coal company at Prada, Ark. The differences between the mining company and the miners' organization are of long standing, and have led to frequent conflicts. In its application for an injunction the company alleges that threats have been made to destroy the mine and to do bodily harm to the nonunion miners now employed there.

Asthma! Asthma! Asthma!

WHO WILL DARE SAY IT CANNOT BE CURED AFTER READING THIS LETTER

Here is a letter that reads like a miracle, but makers of HYOMEI have taken special pains to investigate and we know it is absolutely true. Read it!

"In doing the right thing it is better to do it late than never; therefore I write what I should have written years ago. During my sea faring life and exposure to all kinds of weather I contracted a very severe case of asthma.

"I tried a great many remedies but to no lasting good as my asthma steadily grew worse until I had to sleep in a reclining chair for months to get any rest. I at last, (without any faith in good results) concluded to try HYOMEI.

After using two or three days I could go to bed and sleep as well as ever. I continued using HYOMEI until I had used up nearly two bottles and have never had any trouble from asthma since. It was five years ago that the cure was made.

"I write this merely in a sense of right and justice, and from no solicitation on your part. Respectfully yours, W. P. DeWolf, Connecticut, Ohio, R. F. D.

No. 4, July 31, 1910."

HYOMEI (pronounce it HIGH-O-ME) cures asthma because it gets where the disease is. It isn't a medicine that you take into the stomach; it is a highly antiseptic, soothing, healing balsam which you breathe through a little inhaler directly over the inflamed and irritated membranes.

Get an outfit today; it costs only $1.00; open the box, take out the inhaler and bottle of HYOMEI, pour a few drops of HYOMEI into the inhaler and breathe it—that's all you have to do. A few minutes a day will do. It's just as easy to breathe with a HYOMEI inhaler as without one. Extra bottles of HYOMEI only cost 50 cents.

HYOMEI is guaranteed to cure asthma, catarrh, deafness caused by catarrh, croup, sore throat, coughs and colds, or money back. Pretty liberal guarantee, isn't it? but Woodard Clarke & Co. will stand back of it. Sold by Woodard Clarke & Co and druggists everywhere. Mail orders filled, charges prepaid, by Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.
