

SAYS LAFFERTY SOLD OUT SILETZ CLIENTS' CLAIMS

Homesteader Charges Candidate for Congress With Bad Faith When Acting as Attorney for Settlers.

L. W. Waller, of Monmouth, one of 25 Siletz homesteaders who employed A. W. Lafferty as their attorney to secure title to the lands upon which they had filed, charges Lafferty with having sold them a number of parcels, or some other third party, after he had gained their confidence. Waller, himself, did not sell his claim, but all his companions did, according to the relation of the story by A. J. Winters, of the Winters Hardware company of this city, a brother-in-law of Waller.

According to the story of Waller, Lafferty at first told the homesteaders that he could get title to their claims, and the Siletz men agreed to pay him $700 each for the work done by the attorney. Later, Lafferty reversed his decision, and told the homesteaders that they had no title to the land, and advised them to sell their claims for $500. Some sold for $500 and some refused, and finally Lafferty put the price up to $1000 a claim. Then all sold with the exception of Waller and three others. Again Lafferty boosted the price to $1500 and all sold but Waller. Then Lafferty offered Waller $2000 and finally $2500 for his claim. Still Waller refused to sell.

Waller was in Portland recently when he talked bitterly of the treatment Lafferty had accorded his clients and said that it was his belief and the belief of practically all of the Siletz homesteaders engaged in the transaction that Lafferty, while acting as their attorney, had deliberately sold them out to some third party.

Waller could not understand why it was that Lafferty told the homesteaders in the first place that he could certainly secure title to their claims, accepted their retaining fees, and then later told them it was impossible for them to secure title.

It can not be understood why it was that Lafferty, acting as the attorney for the homesteaders, advised them to sell their claims, arguing that they could not secure title, and attempting to influence them to sell out for $500, when, as shown by the offer made to Waller, the claims were worth $2500.

As a result of the mixup Waller and the other Siletz men who employed Lafferty to represent them, are pretty sore at the congressional candidate, believing that he was not square with them, and that he sold them out, even while acting as their attorney and after having accepted their retaining fees.

HOTEL MAN MOURNS LOSS OF PHEASANTS

Thieves or hunters broke into the poultry yard of Schamoni, the proprietor of the Germania hotel, at 715 E. 10th, Or., 10 nights ago and stole five high bred Chinese pheasants which the owner had been carefully growing for two years for pet and ornamental purposes. Mr. Schamoni is a keen pheasant fancier and feels the loss of the birds keenly.

The missing birds were of a covey of 24 birds which have been the admiration of scores of Portland autoists during the past two years. The raiders cut a large hole in the wire screen and made off with five of the handsomest birds, the loss not being discovered until 10 o'clock the next day, when it was revealed to Mr. Schamoni by a Portland autoist. He does not know whether it is spite work or whether some hunter cut the wire in hopes that the birds would escape and provide shooting.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Eddyville, Or., Nov. 4.—Eddyville grange has been organized by State Deputy Cyrus H. Walker, with a good charter list. The officers are: Master, S. T. SPIRITED CONTEST IS ON AT BAKER

Aspirants for Offices Under Commission Form Wage Hot Fights.

Baker, Or., Nov. 4.—With the city election only a few days away, great interest is being taken in the race for commissioner of the three departments created by the new charter, which provides for the commission form of city government. The chief interest centers in the majority contest and hard fights are being made by W. H. Shoemaker, member of the present city council and progressive candidate for mayor; W. L. Palmer, a reliable business man, and Judge Thomas C. Burke, who is speaking to large crowds on the streets and explaining the provisions of the charter. R. D. Carter and Joe Truesdale are not making much of a fight for the place.

The fight for commissioner of department No. 2 is not so spirited and it looks as though Dan Kelly, a local implement dealer, would win, although his record as fire chief is being used against him. He is being supported by the Catholics and local order of Knights of Columbus. Frank Grabner, present fire chief, is working hard for the

Vote for Clark County 334 X—Yes

Ten thousand legal voters of the state of Oregon have asked for the creation of Clark county, Oregon—32x49 miles square—from the northwest corner of Grant county, and over 80 per cent of its own voters want it, and asked for it by petition.

This territory is naturally divided from the rest of Grant county by high ranges of mountains, through which there is but one dirt road to the present county seat, and this road is the next thing to impassable when traveled on in the winter.

Our people were unable to get a bill through the legislature, after several trials, and now we turn to the people of Oregon for our just rights—representation with taxation. Heretofore it has been taxation.

Grant county's total expenses last year were only $23,324.25, but this year the territory in the proposed Clark county pay over $31,790 (16 mills on $1,964,987). It is almost an impossibility to get money for improvements on this side of the mountains. Vote
