

MRS. WM. S. BIDDLE

THE next bend in the road is always more alluring, so next week offers hope of success from the drab monotony of the past week with its one brilliant splash of color, the debut of Miss Margaretta Brooke Thursday at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Hunt Lewis. The "Occasional Opera" season which will be inaugurated Friday with Mlle. Pavlova, Mikail Mordkin and the Imperial Russian ballet, is quite the most looked-for event of any for some time. The coming of these two famous Russian dancers with their own company is of such unusual interest that smart society is preparing to give them undivided attention and many box and loge parties with attendant suppers and dinners are on the tapis.

The debut of Miss Margaretta Brooke, daughter of Mrs. E. H. Brooke, Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hunt Lewis was one of the notable events of the season in Portland society. Exquisite in every detail was the affair, which served to introduce Miss Brooke to some 150 of the younger set. Though Mrs. Brooke and Miss Brooke claim Portland as their home, they have lived in Washington, D. C., for the last few years, spending their summers either in Portland or traveling about the continent. Miss Brooke finished at Miss Spence's school in New York this spring, leaving immediately thereafter for Europe with her mother and sister, Miss Genevieve Brooke, who was attending school at the National Cathedral. Mrs. Brooke and Miss Brooke will leave early next month for Washington, D. C.

The Lewis home was filled with white and yellow chrysanthemums in a handsome decorative scheme, while the tables and cabinets were heaped with floral gifts of friends with greetings to the debutante. In the dining room the decorative motif was carried out with Golden Gate roses in artistic elaboration. The guests were received in the drawing room, where they were greeted by Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. E. H. Brooke and Miss Margaretta Brooke. Presiding over the tea and coffee urns in the dining room were Miss May Felling, Mrs. Walter John Burns, Mrs. W. B. Ayer and Mrs. John C. Alsworth. Punch was served by Mrs. Peter Kerr, Mrs. Robert W. Lewis, Mrs. Joseph Manton Bradley and Miss Lisa Wood.

Seldom is so beautiful an array of gowns seen as those that enhanced the beauty of the Lewis home Thursday. Miss Brooke was lovely in white embroidered net trimmed with a girle and bands of pink satin. A debutante bouquet of pink roses completed the girlish costume.

Mrs. E. H. Brooke was distinguished in white satin overhung with coral-colored chiffon, elaborately embroidered with appliques of white cluny.

Mrs. Hunt Lewis wore a stunning creation of pale blue satin draped with hand-painted chiffon.

Miss May Felling was in mauve satin with a pointed tunic of chiffon in shades of violet, with an overdress finished terday was a pretty compliment to Mrs. Nymman. The table was centered with an artistic arrangement of shaggy yellow chrysanthemums and about the board were seated Mrs. Nymman, Mrs. Gay Lombard, Mrs. Louis Tarpley, Mrs. A. B. Rocky, Mrs. George Marshall, Miss Bertha Tongue and the hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Gay Lombard entertained Mrs. Nymman and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Wilbur at the Hall for the opening performance of William Faversham. Mrs. Nymman will probably remain in Portland another week.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Stevens returned Monday from the east. Mrs. Stevens has been in Chicago, New York and New England cities since early in September. After placing Eugene Stevens, her youngest son, in the Groton school for boys, Mrs. Stevens was the guest of Mrs. John Hall of New Haven at "Gray Gables" near Buzzards Bay. During Mrs. Stevens' visit with Mrs. Hall she was complimented with a round of dinners and luncheons. In New York, social courtesies were again shown upon the popular matron, and again in Chicago, she was the motif for numberless informal affairs. Mr. Stevens only recently joined Mrs. Stevens in the east, and together they returned to Portland. They will make their home at the Portland Hotel.

A group of riding enthusiasts gathered at Kramer's new Riding Academy Thursday evening under the chaperonage of Captain and Mrs. William S. Biddle, and went through a mass of bewildering figures mounted on their shining saddle horses. Mrs. Biddle's Thursday evenings are delightfully informal features of the winter season. The class includes Captain and Mrs. William S. Biddle, Walter F. Burrell, Mrs. Gordon Voorhies, Dr. J. N. Coghill, Mrs. William H. Warrens, Rodney L. Ollan, Miss Caroline H. Plandorf, Chester G. Murphy, Miss Malda Hart, Frederick H. Strong, Miss Milla Westinger, Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward Grelle, Dr. and Mrs. George S. Whiteside, Miss Evelyn Wilson, Dr. G. E. Bruere, Miss Dorothy Holbrook, Frank Stewart, Miss Anita Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ladd Corbett, Lieutenant Seamen, Lieutenant Schfield, Miss Lisa Kohler, Miss Meta Buehner, William L. Brewster and Jordan Zan.

The advent of a daughter in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Webster Talbot is bringing an avalanche of congratulations to the happy parents. The daughter was born Thursday, and will be christened Prudence.

with a broad band of violet satin. Mrs. Walter John Burns was in rose-colored moire veiled in a tunic of chiffon.

Mrs. W. B. Ayer was in softest green satin, with a black chiffon, bordered with marabout.

Mrs. John C. Alsworth was in black liberty satin with west embroidery. Mrs. Peter Kerr was in coral chiffon, mounted over marquisette of a deeper shade.

Mrs. Robert Lewis wore a handsome black lace.

Mrs. Joseph Bradley was gowned in light blue mervellous, veiled with a tunic of chiffon, finished with Chinese embroidery.

Miss Lisa Wood was in a two-toned gown of Nile green satin, hung with green chiffon of a lighter shade.

Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett and Miss Lesley Smith left Monday morning for Boston and New York. Thanksgiving will be spent with Mrs. Corbett's son, Hamilton, who is at Harvard. Mrs. Corbett and Miss Smith will return to Portland during the holidays.

Miss Mildred Grindstaff entertained a few of her friends at 500 Thursday afternoon when prizes were won by Miss Ruth Small and Miss Louise Williams. An artistic cluster of white chrysanthemums on the mantle lent added charm to the living room where the game was played.

Captain and Mrs. William S. Biddle were hosts at a pretty dinner Wednesday night at their Marshall street home in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Wood (Miss Rebecca Baird Biddle). Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hawley Hoffman (Miss Caroline Burns), Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kerr.

Mrs. Gay Lombard was hostess at a pretty arranged luncheon at the Hotel Portland Saturday in honor of her house guest, Mrs. Howard S. Nymman of Washington, D. C. Covers were laid for Mrs. Nymman, Mrs. Morris Whitehouse, Mrs. Frank Gilchrist Owen, Miss Bertha Tongue, Mrs. James Dougherty, Mrs. Elizabeth Freeman, Mrs. Ralph Wilbur, Mrs. George Marshall, Miss Blanche Burke, Mrs. G. Walter Gates and Mrs. Russell Sewall. On Monday Mrs. Ralph W. Wilbur entertained with a handsomely appointed dinner for Mrs. Nymman when her guests numbered eight. Mrs. George Marshall was dinner hostess Wednesday complimentary to Mrs. Nymman. The table, which carried a charming arrangement of autumn flowers, was encircled by eight guests.

Mrs. G. Walter Gates' luncheon yesterday was a pretty compliment to Mrs. Nymman. The table was centered with an artistic arrangement of shaggy yellow chrysanthemums and about the board were seated Mrs. Nymman, Mrs. Gay Lombard, Mrs. Louis Tarpley, Mrs. A. B. Rocky, Mrs. George Marshall, Miss Bertha Tongue and the hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Gay Lombard.

land. Their visit promises to be the inspiration for much informal entertaining.

A group of Portlanders went over to the barracks for the informal hop a week ago Friday, including Miss Malda Hart, Miss Barbara Crocker, Miss Angela Kianey, Miss Helen Wentworth, Miss Muriel Williams, Miss Ada Burke, John Banks, Chester G. Murphy, William Burke, Carl Wernicks and J. Fiske.

The exhibition of local arts and crafts work at the attractive shop of the association, on Seventh and Salmon streets, offered an unusually charming bit of diversion on Friday and Saturday. All of the specimens were new work wrought since April, the time of the last exhibit. Miss Cecile O'Reilly presided at delightful studios both afternoons. A handsome silver desk set was exhibited by Mrs. Lee Hoffman and Miss Marjorie Hoffman had a number of attractive pieces of jewelry. Mrs. Elizabeth Freeman showed a silver cigarette box, silver bowl, rings and hat pins. Miss Alice Robbins' work was a silver bonbonniere and copper fernery. Miss Florence Knowlton exhibited jewelry, as did Miss Helen Harmon, George Scott and Frank Higgins. Exquisite hand-bound books were the work of Miss Cecile O'Reilly and charming work in leather was entered by Mrs. Ralph W. Wilbur, Miss Lily Fox, Miss F. G. Crocker and Mrs. T. T. Geer.

Miss Genevieve Thompson gave a matinee party yesterday afternoon at the Hall theatre, complimentary to

A Special Selling of Large Sizes—Tailored Suits 43 to 51 Bust Measure

We specialize in the larger sizes in Tailored Suits—styles that are made over special models—that are becoming to women who wear large sizes. Waist length is shorter and cut much fuller for the abdomen. The skirts, too, are fuller. And then they're shown in the very newest materials—manish worsteds, mixtures, chevrons, serges and broadcloths. Coats of most models are about 34 inches long, somewhat longer than in our regular sizes. And the linings, too, are the best—of guaranteed Skinner satin or of silk. The woman who wears a large size—who finds it difficult to get a suit that is modeled correctly for her figure, will not only appreciate our showing, but will recognize in this sale her opportunity. Most of the suits in this group are perfectly plain tailored—a few of them are trimmed.

Two Special Groups in Women's, Misses' Dresses
