NEW GOVERNOR OF IDAHO ON A VISIT

W. B. Hawley Meets Old Time Friends and Recalls Early Days.

Any one who happened to look in on the parlors of the Portland hotel this morning might have supposed, with no little reason for the supposition, that a frontier day reunion was in progress. In fact there was such a reunion on a small scale. The figure that would have "Histon, Wis., Nov. 17.—In Senator attracted first attention would have been that of a tall, robust man of weather beaten countenance and grizzled hair, topped by a vast black fedora hat, such worn by the sheriffs in western

> The man is Governor-elect W. B. Hawley of Idaho, who is in Portland on a visit to his young son, a student at Combla university.

During his brief stay here Mr. Hawley has been visited by many old friends whom he had not seen in three decade before. An old miner, who had been with the future governor in the gold rush to Florence, Idaho, in 1862, was one of the callers. Mr. Hawley remembered them all, no matter how far back memory had to stretch. There was a pleasant smile and a cheery word of greeting for each one.

Mr. Hawley is a Democrat, the first one to be elected to the governorship of Idaho in eight years. He says he doesn't know what the issue was in the ondiation of Aldrichism in the senate of dof Cannonism in the house, and continuous in a stern warning to the Republican arty to renounce in the legislative and state-wide prohibition. I stood for the cecutive departments the servants of lorgan and the system.

The elections otherwise are deeply with the circular county local option idea. Yet the wet and dry vote was about equally distributed, as near as I could learn. The people, however, are satis-fied with its general purpose, I believe. The state legislature will undoubtedly amend the primary law at the coming session, but there will be no radical changes.

"Idaho will, in the near future, be one of the most populous states in the west. No other state has so great a diversity of resources. The people are beginning to realize that publicity is necessary to bring homeseekers, and accordingly, the commercial bodies of the leading cities are carrying on a camthe leading cities are carrying on a campaign of advertising.

Joint rates to and from Portland over the Adrian-Connell cutoff of the Northern Pacific have been published by the Spokane, Portland & Seattle rallway and the Northern Pacific, to be-come effective December 1. The rates will be about the same as those now quoted by way of Seattle, but a great advantage will be found in the reduced distance over the new routing.

The Adrian-Connell outoff will bring the Big Bend country more than 100 miles nearer Portland in that freight to and from this city need not be hauled over the Cascades to the Puget sound cities and thence to Portland.

By the new routing traffic will go south over the cutoff from Adrian on the Washington Central railroad to Connell on the Northern Pacific, and thence to Pasco, whence it will come to Port-land over the North Bank line.

It is believed the new rates will mean the diversion to Portland of a large amount of the wheat now being shipped amount of the wheat now being shipped out of the Big Bend country by way ing to other divisions of the federation of the Puget sound cities. Rates are and leaders say the situation is seriof the Puget sound cities. Rates are also duoted on potatoes, onions and mill and feedstuffs.
