

HUSBAND DRUNK ON WEDDING NIGHT

Sarah Clark's Story Wins Divorce Decree and Maiden Name.

Default divorce cases, which have been averaging 10 or 12 each week, dropped to four in number in the circuit court today, three separation decrees being granted by wives and one by a husband. Two of the wives complained of the drinking habits of their mates, one told of being deserted, while Russell O. Yates told Judge Cleland how Catherine Yates growled at him and pulled his hair.

T. E. Buehler's fondness for some of the girls at La Grande, Or., was caricatured by Mrs. Belle Buehler, who exhibited one of the letters written by her husband to Lena Edmunds. Mrs. Buehler said Lena was no friend of hers, and she thought her husband made poor choice in the affinity line. Mrs. Brown, who was not further identified, was also stated to have been too friendly with Buehler.

Buehler is a railroad man and married at La Grande in 1894. The wife said he spent his money for his own amusement and she saw little of it. He went on spree, and she finally decided it was no use trying to live with him.

Sarah Helen Clark testified that Edward J. Clark came home intoxicated the first night after they were married, and this soon became a regular experience. She estimated he has been drunk three times a week since their marriage in 1907. Clark hangs around the poolrooms and saloons, she said. She was given permission to resume her former name of Williams.

Annals E. Masters said William Masters was too lazy to work much and in 1897 he left her, after they had been married 11 years. He never wrote to her and she does not know what became of him.

Russell O. Yates, who married Catherine Yates in 1908, said his wife had a violent temper and when she "got mad" she threw things at him. Sometimes she threw hooks and other times she pulled his hair. She scolded him so much he gave it up and declared the affair a failure.

Charging she was deserted by her husband, Mrs. Lolla Wagner has begun suit in the circuit court for divorce from J. A. Wagner, to whom she was married in Salem in January, 1902. Her husband left her, she says, four years later.

BODY OF UNIDENTIFIED MAN FOUND IN WOODS

The decomposed body of a man was found yesterday afternoon one mile off the Harmon road, a short distance back of the City park. Nothing could be found on the clothing to establish identity. From all indications the man had spread his overcoat on the ground and lay down to sleep.

He was about 35 years old, smooth shaven, weighed 140 pounds, was five feet and eight inches tall. His clothes were of a good quality. In the pockets of the clothing were found 30 cents, six keys, a spool of thread, a pair of men's hose, a box of snuff and a towel. Coroner Norden was notified. He had the body moved into the city. Kenneth Grow, 528 Morrison street, and Vincent Fennell, 545 1/2 Morrison street, found the body.

Stephen Craig Capitol Policeman. Washington, Nov. 25.—Stephen J. Craig of Portland has been appointed by Senator Bourne a member of the capitol police force in this city, succeeding Charles J. McDonald of Portland, resigned.

DROPS DEAD ON WAY TO HOME

Stricken With Apoplexy, Mrs. Anna Marks Expires Before Doctors Arrive.

Stricken on the street while walking to her residence after an evening of pleasure at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Anna Marks, a pioneer of Portland and wife of a prominent retired merchant, died shortly before midnight last night.

Mrs. Marks and her husband, Morris Marks, had been at the residence of their daughter, Mrs. Sol Goldstein, who resides at Twenty-first and Lovejoy streets. In front of the residence of G. O. Gammon at 778 Northrup street, Mrs. Marks was suddenly attacked with apoplexy and sank to the sidewalk. Her husband called help, and she was carried into the Gammons residence. Dr. Sanford Whiting, of 113 Johnson street, and Dr. Harry P. McKay, of Twenty-sixth and Bertha streets, were summoned, but she died before their arrival.

Mrs. Marks was born in Germany 55 years ago and came to Portland in 1870. She was a member of both Israel congregation and identified with various charitable societies and other Jewish organizations. In addition to her husband, she is survived by two daughters and a son—Mrs. Sol Goldstein, Mrs. S. E. Werthelmer and Meyer Marks.

Funeral services will be held from the late residence at 431 Northrup street at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Rabbi Wise officiating. Interment will be made in Beth Israel cemetery.
