

WRESTLING OF BRITISH RALLIES

Winston Churchill, Home Secretary, Attacked Repeatedly and Finishes Speech Under Police Guard.

London, Nov. 29.—Wrestling violence at election rallies continued throughout England and Ireland today.

Winston Churchill, secretary for home affairs, was attacked several times and when he spoke at Sheffield it was necessary for 200 policemen to form a guard to protect him.

The central issue in the election is the virtual abolition of the house of lords. The conservatives are vainly endeavoring to drag in the question of tariff.

The liberals will not attempt to eliminate absolutely the house of lords. As a concession they are willing to let the chamber exist without the power to veto any legislation enacted by the people's representatives—the house of commons.

The answer, substantially, of the Tories is that the abolition of the lords is really being attempted by the Irish nationalists with money furnished them in the United States.

The principal concession that the liberals have announced is willingness to make a reduction of the members of the peers from 600 to 200; that the peers be allowed to elect 100 members to the newly organized chamber and that remaining members be elected generally.

STUMBLES OVER PLANK; NOW SUES FOR $5235

Having stumbled over a gang plank and broken four ribs, along with internal injuries, Victor Olson has begun suit in the circuit court against the Western Transportation & Towing Company for $5235 damages.

WANTS COUNTY TO PAY DOCTOR BILL

Should the county pay a doctor bill for a judge or other public officer who is taken sick in the line of duty, counting the votes of the people? The county commissioners do not think so.

JONES WILL ACT WITH POINDEXTER

Washington's Senators to Waste No Energy Thwarting Each Other.

Spokane, Nov. 29.—There will be harmony and unity of action between the two senators from Washington, Jones and Poindexter, in spite of the fact that one is a Republican and the other is a Progressive.

The nomination of Poindexter was figured at the time to mean the political extinction of Jones, both being from the east side.

But Jones is willing to forget the past, and stepped off at Spokane this week on his way to Washington to wave the olive branch of peace and bury the hatchet.

He called into conference with him O. C. Moore, law partner of Judge Poindexter, and when Jones and Moore parted, harmony was written over their faces in large letters.

PENDLETON "BOYS" TO SEE PRESS CLUB SHOW

Members of the Press club of Pendleton and other friends will journey from that eastern Oregon city to Portland in a chartered car, on December 19, to attend the entertainment to be given at the Hellig theatre on that night by the Portland Press club.

Officers of the Pendleton organization have written to the entertainment committee of the "big brother" newspaper club of this city, asking that ticket reservations be made for them.

It is expected that newspaper men from many of the towns of this state and southern Washington will be on hand to applaud the Portland Press club's debut as a purveyor of amusement and already plans are being made by local newspaper men to entertain them.

Following "A Night Off" which is the title of the society vaudeville and revue to be given by the Press club, the out of town newspaper writers will be the guests of the local organization at supper arrangements will be made to have a "spread" served at a down town grill and the affair promised to be an enjoyable prologue to the evening's entertainment.

STATE AID ROAD LAW WIPED OUT BY ASSOCIATION

Report is hard to say, for each had 13 signatures.

Two "Majority" Reports. The report brought in by Chairman F. W. Dawart of Spokane was recognized by the chair as the majority report, however, it recommends the amendment of the present state aid law so that the half mill for state aid be placed in the state treasury to the credit of the county, and cannot be drawn upon by any other county.

The "minority" report differs little, says that it would repeal the state aid law entirely, and enact a new one. The "minority" booted the committee session at midnight, going into one of their own. Both recommended the appointment of county engineers instead of their election.

The morning session was occupied by a discussion of credentials and the fight was again made bitter. A. L. Butherford of Seattle introduced a resolution making the convention a mass meeting giving all the power of vote, but this was defeated by a substitute of Dewart of Spokane, appointing a resolutions committee. This fight took the entire morning.

This afternoon was occupied by the fight on the recommendations of the legislative committee, long drawn out and bitter.

$100 FINE ON WOMAN CONFIRMED ON APPEAL

Circuit Judge Gantenbein has affirmed the decision of the municipal court in the case of Viola Lee, convicted of keeping a disorderly house and fined $100. The same fine was imposed, the defense making only a perfunctory fight.

BOY HURT BY TAXI ASKS $1500 VERDICT

Frank Jones, a 9-year-old boy, brought by Jennie E. Jones, his mother and guardian, has begun suit in the circuit court for $1500 damages against the Portland Taxicab company because of an accident on August 29, when he was run down by a taxicab at Fourth and Washington streets. It is alleged his left leg was permanently injured.

REAR END STRIKES HITCH IN DEAL INVOLVING FARM

However, County's Poor Not Likely to Lose Home if Litigation Results.

Another snarl over the sale of the old county poor farm property has developed by the refusal of B. M. Lombard and those associated with him to sign an agreement previously signed by the county commissioners as to the terms upon which the county may continue to occupy the poor farm property, pending the completion of buildings at the new farm.

W. C. Bristol, an attorney for the Lombard interests, has returned to the commissioners the copy of the agreement submitted to them. He had previously sent in a draft of an agreement, but the commissioners did not like the wording of certain parts of it and altered the language, although there was no change in the amount to be paid or the dates.

The substance of the agreement was that after November 5 the county should pay Lombard a rental for continued possession of the poor farm buildings amounting to $355, being a rental to May 5, 1911, and that the county should vacate not later than August 5, 1911, at the latest. Lombard obtained title to the property last May, but agreed to let the county remain in possession until November 5 without charge.

In the draft sent to the commissioners by the Lombard interests it was found there had been inserted a clause "merging each and every agreement, verbal, written or otherwise in this instrument." The commissioners, and Judge Cleaton abled at this provision, regarding it as involving danger to the county as to other transactions regarding the poor farm.

Without this clause, it appears, the purchasers are not satisfied. The commissioners are resting on their oars, waiting the next move. If the Lombard interests begin an action to eject the county from possession there is no likelihood that such a case could be tried for months to come, and the poor farm patients are therefore not likely to be thrown out for some time.

JURY LOCKED UP ALL NIGHT RETURNS VERDICT

After being locked up all night and until noon today, the jury in the case of the Associated Creditors' Adjustment company against C. M. Kagy and wife returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $425 and $10 attorney fees. The case was tried before Judge Kavanagh.

The case arose out of the sale of a piece by the Bush & Lane Piano company to Kagy. After he had paid $100 cash and been given credit for $100 for solution of a puzzle picture, Kagy refused to complete the payments and alleged the sale was made by misrepresentation. As the original purchase price was $425, the plaintiff is given the full sum claimed for the piano, but its attorney, who claimed $75, is punished with a $10 fee.

CANADIAN COLONISTS MAY COME TO STATE

Colonists who poured into Canada during the past few years are beginning to look toward Oregon. A letter received by the secretary of state a few days ago from a number of these colonists seeks information regarding opportunities to take up homestead lands in Oregon, and it has been turned over to the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

The letter says that these people would like to move into central Oregon, where 20-acre homesteads are to be had, and Secretary Giltner of the chamber will give them the desired information.

SMALL WOOD MADE GENERAL MANAGER

Business Increases and Open River Co. Creates a New Office.

So gratifying is the encouragement given the Open River Transportation company by merchants in the inland empire that the company at a meeting of its board of directors yesterday afternoon decided to engage a general manager in addition to the superintendent, who heretofore has had charge of both the business end and operation.

W. S. Smallwood, assistant secretary of the company, and traffic manager of the chamber of commerce transportation bureau, was selected for the place and he will assume his new duties December 1. He will also retain his position with the transportation committee of the chamber, but an assistant will probably be given E. Washkoren, the other expert employed by this bureau.

Mr. Smallwood will be general manager and Captain W. S. Buchanan will remain as superintendent of operation as at present.

The new general manager has had much experience in the transportation line and is thoroughly familiar with conditions on the upper Columbia river and the Snake, where the company operates the steamers J. N. Teal, Inland Empire and Twin Cities. The Teal plies between Portland and Celilo and the other two operate between Celilo and Lewiston on the Snake and Priest Rapids on the Columbia.

"The volume of traffic has shown such an encouraging increase during the past year," said Mr. Smallwood this morning, "that the company deemed it necessary to appoint a general manager, so that Captain Buchanan may devote his undivided attention to the operation of the steamers."

"Traffic has increased remarkably during the past year and we look for a very large percentage of increase this year. Improvements on both the upper Columbia and the Snake are contemplated, that when completed, will give a splendid channel to the very heads of navigation on both streams any time of the year excepting when large quantities of ice may form, which is very seldom."

TENNESSEE HAS 2,184,789 AND MINNESOTA 2,075,908; GAINS ARE 8.1 AND 18.5

Washington, Nov. 29.—The census of the state of Tennessee was announced today by Director Durand as 2,184,789. Simultaneously the population of the state of Minnesota was announced as 2,075,908.

Tennessee's gain is 8.1 per cent and the state will not get an additional congressman under the reapportionment. Minnesota's gain is 18.5 per cent, which entitles the state to one additional representative in congress.

FEELS REMEMBERS HIS BENEFACTRESS

To Cross Continent to Pay Last Tribute to Gypsy Who Predicted Him Rich.

Sania Monica, Cal., Nov. 29.—It was reported here today that Joseph Feis, the Philadelphia soap manufacturer, will cross the continent to attend the funeral of Dolores Cortes Down, the Gypsy queen, who died recently.

According to the friends of Mrs. Down, the woman once told Feis' fortune, predicting the enormous wealth he later amassed. He is said to have wired a request that the funeral be postponed until his arrival.

PUNCHES FIGURE IN ROBBERY CASE

Regarded as Damaging Evidence Against Man Being Tried for Blowing Safe.

In Judge Morrow's department of the circuit court Deputy District Attorney Fitzgerald and James Cole, special prosecutor, are slowly lining up the evidence by which they hope to convict Frank Wayne of being one of the men who blew the safe of the First State bank of Gresham on January 4, 1907.

Much of the time this morning was consumed in reading to the jury testimony given by Wayne three years ago before Mr. Cole, then United States deputy district attorney, when he was charged with robbing the Sellwood post-office. In that examination he refused to answer questions concerning the Gresham bank robbery on the ground of incriminating himself.

His answer refusing to testify was refused admission in the present case by Judge Morrow, on the ground of the prejudice it might cause against the defendant. The most damaging evidence so far produced relates to the making of two punches for Wayne by a fireman about three weeks before the vault of the Gresham bank was blown.

Two punches found at the scene by Deputy Sheriff Leonard cannot be positively identified, but were said by witnesses to closely resemble the punches made for Wayne.

E. Schweiler, a dairyman, told of discovering the attempt to rob the bank while on his early morning rounds. He observed the blinds drawn and the door damaged, and went to investigate. He saw the vault door had been blown and notified an officer of the bank. They investigated far enough to learn that the robbers had been frightened away before they obtained any of the money in the vault.

ANCIENT LEADERS SAY "NO USE" TO PRESIDENT TAFT

Items of Original Program Remain; New Ones Added—Little Hope of Short Session—Last Chance of G. O. P.

Washington, Nov. 29.—President Taft is meeting with difficulties in endeavoring to complete his annual message to congress. The president, it is said, hoped to pass a number of important measures before the Democratic majority took control of the lower house, but Speaker Cannon, Senator Hale and others told him there was no chance of success and that probably only the appropriation bills could be passed.

During his recent visit to Panama Taft prepared a long program which included such measures as the ship subsidy bill; reapportionment, and decrease in the membership of the house; Federal licensing of corporations, and permitting of suspended employees of the government. Leaders opposed this plan, and it is now believed that the president will not try to force through a lengthy list of bills.

The president spent the day working on the message, and a cabinet meeting postponed to today was again postponed to allow him further time.

Incidentally it was learned today that the president's order to observe economy in the framing of appropriation bills had resulted in the cutting off of $14,000,000 in appropriations.
