Ars Asking Double What Deal- Nebraska Market 15 to 25c Supplies Are Increasing but Prices Here Lower in Response Arbuckle Quotes Another Rise ers Can Pay, Therefore the Trade is Tied Up; General Outlook Is for $1.25.

Potato growers are getting extremely excited over prospective price advances and some are now said to be holding for $2 per cental.

Dealers are offering no higher than $1 per cental for immediate delivery even for selected stock at country points, therefore holders are asking twice as much as the market will give. It is stated that $1.75 a cental has been paid at country points during the past few days for late delivery for seed purposes, but so far as known no transactions above $1 have been closed for actual consumptive demand.

It is now a certainty that California will be compelled to seek elsewhere for its potato supplies shortly after the turn of the year. After the holidays it is expected that every California potato firm of importance will have a representative at Portland in order to keep in closer fouch with the Oregon situation.

It is now generally agreed among the ithin sight of the price to be demanded many growers.

"As long as our growers keep their eas not higher than $1.25 per cental ey will be safg," said a well known it interest. "but when they talk of they are simply getting out of the sht road. The east has a good crop potatoes—a very good average one might say—and it is not likely therefe that values there will climb very gb. Colorado and far eastern potato owers have a 75c freight rate to the arific coast, therefore it is a very good inble to say that potatoes here will go $1.25.

"California must purchase potatoes elsewhere this season and from what I know that state will take all we can offer providing we don't get out ideas to a famine basis. Where California dealers will purchase the busk of their needs, of course I cannot say, but if this state holds its prices proper the demand will come here as long as we have potatoes to offer."

The following shows the potato drop of the far western states for the past two seasons and likewise the total crop of the United States. Figures are furnished by the bureau of statistics, department of agriculture and are in bushels:

the yards overnight and this consisted of 73 head of hogs. The strength in the eastern hog markets is sure to have an affect here. It cost $8.70 to bring Nebraska hogs to the Pacific northwest, therefore the difference between the present price and that packers are forced to pay for the bulk of their requirements. South Omaha, where the local packers secure practically all of their imported stock, was 15c and 25c higher today and has been unusually firm recently. The bulk of the sales were from $7.35 to $7.60 today and it cost $1.10 per hundred pounds to bring the supplies to the coast.

J. C. Davis of Shedd, Or., was the only shipper in the yards today. He was offering a load of hogs.

Cannerymen and cold storage operators are paying 5½c a pound for steel-heads and to for silversides at river points, and are very anxious to buy at these figures. Practically all the steel-heads are either going into fresh consumption or are being placed in the ice houses for shipment east.

"This has been an unusually good fall season for gilinetters along the Columbia," says Mr. Christensen, "and many operators have earned as high as $1,200 during that time. The season is the best I have ever seen from a wage point of view."

Practically all the canneries have ceased operations for the year with the exception of Megler, who is still canning at Brookfield, and is taking all offerings of silversides.

Buenos Ayres, Argentina Dec.

6.—General rains have fallen throughout the southern wheat beits, and this will be of great benefit to the late sown wheat. Weather in the province of Buenos Ayres is cool, but there is a fear of frost. Harvesting has started in the southern districts of this province, being 10 days earlier than usual, owing to the warm weather, which ripened the grain faster than normal.

Wheat is down a cent a bushel in the local market on account of the extreme weakness abroad and the lower foreign cables. Rains in Argentina have affected values abroad, and these in turn have brought about a slashing of quotations here. Exporters are today quoting 80c for club, basis of track delivery, and 83c for bluestem.

Millers are quoted 81c for club and 82683c for bluestem. California is taking some bluestem wheat at this time, and this, together with the demand from home millers, has advanced the differential between that and other varieties generally.

ential between that and other varieties generally.

The hay market is extremely weak everywhere today. Eastern Oregon is today offering more alfalfa hay than ever before. Interests there are so eager to ship in this direction that they are offering to consign. One party at Vale is said to have offered 1000 tons on this basis and was turned down by local interests because of the already oversupply in sight here.

AT WALLA WALLA, WN.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Walla Walla, Wash., Dec. 6.—With the fflings of articles of incorporation of the Inland Paper company in this city, Walla Walla adds another business firm Walla Walla adds another business firm to her list. This company, according to the articles filed, is to manufacture and deal in paper and paper goods.

The incorporators are R. D. Ball of Walla Walla and C. D. Bruun and F. C. Wasserman of Portland, and they are named as trustees of the company until

The capital stock is put at $20,000, di-ided into 200 shares of $100 each. It is understood that the new paper firm will be almost entirely a wholesale cern, although it will maintain a reof $1 in Addition to Similar Movement December 1; Retailers Forced Upward.

Still another boost was given coffee prices in this market foday.

The advance of $1 quoted by Arbuckle for the first of the month has been followed by still another rise of like amount today. This put the price of Arbuckle package brand to $20.13, or the highest on record for that brand. This same coffee was selling retail a few years ago at two packages for 25 cents.

Popular brands of roasted coffee that were formerly seiling at 18 cents a pound wholesale are now quoted at 23 cents, with a tenefoncy to climb above that figure almost any minute. Therefore retailers have been forced to put this coffee to 29c a pound in order to make their usual profits.

The strength of the coffee market is even more pronouced at this time than when the advances started. Crop advices from Brazil are scarcely encouraging to lower prices, and the spot market there is in exceedingly strong hands. In other words, the situation today resembles that of 1858, when the crop was cut in half and the price advanced from 7½c to 22c within a single season in the New York future market. The past season has been unusually disastrous for coffee growers. The season has been wrong since it started. The long drouth was not broken until rather late in the year, and then the rainfall was more injurious than beneficial.
