

GOOD TIME FOR WOOLGROWERS

Plenty Entertainment on Tap When Their Convention Opens.

Portland will be requested to throw on its entire wealth of illumination during the convention week of the National Woolgrowers' association. At a meeting of the arrangement and entertainment committee at noon today in the convention room of the Portland Commercial club, it was decided to begin a campaign for this purpose at once. The woolgrowers will meet in Portland, January 2, 4, 5, 6 and 7, and during the time there will be, it is estimated, at least 6000 visitors in the city, all attracted here by the convention, the midwinter sheep show and the Angora goat exhibit, two features closely related to the convention.

It was reported today that in the past few days 15,000 invitations were sent out to woolmen all over the United States who it is believed will be interested in the coming convention. While it is not expected that every one of them will find it possible to attend, it is thought that at least 8000 will come to the Oregon metropolis. Many will bring their families to spend the holidays here.

Kept on Move.
B. S. Josselyn, president of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, is chairman of the entertainment committee, the membership of which is composed of 270 active business and professional men of the city. Tentative plans have already been drawn up and according to those the woolgrowers, sheep and goat men will be kept on the go every moment during their stay in the city.

Wednesday afternoon, January 4, the woolgrowers will be invited to see the sheep show which will be held in Armory, where the convention is also to be held, and later in the day the delegates and friends will be taken out for a trolley car ride over the entire city. In the evening the women will arrange for a reception in the large hall room of the Armory.

Thursday evening the visitors will enjoy a smoker and vaudeville performance in the Armory. Friday night there will be a theatre party. Saturday evening has been set aside for a "Seeing Portland" trip from the headquarters of the Elks, the Commercial club and the Portland Press club will be thrown open to the visitors.

Other features that will add to the interest in the convention will be a conference of stockyard men booked for the same time at the Portland Union Stockyards. Many of the sheepmen will be interested in this conference as well as a number of the Angora goat growers.
Another feature recently added to the list of attractions will be a fancy sheep dog show. This will be in charge of John Shepherd and will include an exhibition of what sheep dogs can do when it comes to guarding and herding flocks. This, it is believed, will be one of the most interesting features of the entire show. D. O. Lively is chairman of the arrangement committee.

DAN QUIXOTE DIES AT AGE OF ABOUT 115

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Eugene, Or., Dec. 6.—Dan Quixote, or "Indian Dan," as he was known, said to have been 115 years of age, died a few days ago in Indian Town near Florence, on the coast of Lane county. According to statements of reliable white men who knew him 50 years ago, he must have been over a 100 years old, but whether he was 115 or not is not certain. Dan said he never knew his exact age, but he thought it was 115 years.
Dan belonged to the Umpqua tribe of Indians and had grown to manhood many years before Oregon passed from the possession of the Indians. With the coming of the white man his people sold their land and were moved to the reservations. When the Siuslaw valley was opened for settlement Dan gave up his tribal relations, and with his aged squaw remained near Florence and tried to adopt some of the customs and habits of the white man.

WEALTH OF KLAMATH SHOWS GREAT INCREASE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Klamath Falls, Dec. 6.—The rapid increase in the wealth of Klamath county is best evidenced by the increment in the assessed valuation of the real and personal property. This year the assessment roll shows a valuation of $22,382,651. Last year the valuation was not more than half this amount. The levy for the year will be made in January. It will include a substantial amount for good roads. The new county judge, W. S. Worden, and the newly elected commissioner, C. G. Merrill, are both on record for extensive road improvements. The levy will also include several mills for the special court house fund. This fund was begun two years ago, and now contains some 40 odd thousand dollars. It will be the aim of the county administration to begin work on the new court house next spring, either on the old site, or on the one proffered by the Klamath Development company.

SMUGGLERS COME THROUGH CANADA

Uncle Sam's Sleuths Compelled to Meet Old Foe in New Quarters.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, Dec. 6.—The customs guards thrown around Atlantic ports of entry to catch smugglers have forced those who carry on the illicit commerce to seek entry to the United States with the dutiable goods through Canada. The treasury department was recently notified that a score of persons carrying dutiable articles had entered this country through Canada, and the activity of the department has resulted in closing the "open door," so that today a customs net is thrown along the Canadian-American border, and it is reported that many arrests will be made.

The attention of the federal officials was called to the Canadian smuggling traffic by the Canadian steamship companies in a report on increased passenger traffic to Quebec and Montreal. Investigation by American secret service operatives showed that Americans purchasing large amounts of jewelry and other valuable articles were returning home by way of dominion ports.

It was reported that fashionable dressmakers were using the Canadian route to get their Parisian models, some of the dressmakers having tourists wear the gowns while crossing the northern line. One of the practices of the American-Canadian smuggler is, on the arrival in Canada from Europe, to go temporarily to a hotel, soak off the steamer labels from their baggage, and then proceed to the United States, telling no customs agents that they have been sojourning in the dominion for a short time.

In order to strike fear into the hearts of the smugglers, United States judges throughout the state of New York have announced that the next smuggler convicted will be sent to prison.

FIFTEEN SMUGGLED CHINESE ARRESTED

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, Dec. 6.—Fifteen Chinese are held at Angel island while officials of the immigration and customs bureau combined are investigating an alleged plot to smuggle Chinese into this country.

The Chinese were arrested by accident by a band of deputy customs inspectors who were watching for contraband opium which it was reported was to be smuggled in. The boat loads of Chinese were steered into the path of the waiting deputies.

A search was instituted to see where the boats had come from. From the time of their arrival and the direction in which they were going, it was supposed they had left the liner Manchuria.

Officers on the Manchuria denied this and the denial was strengthened by the fact that four deputy inspectors of customs were on the steamer at the time the Chinese were supposed to have left it. Eight of the 15 captured Chinese were women, disguised as men.
Luther C. Steward, commissioner of immigration, has ordered his first assistant, H. Edsell, to make a thorough investigation. Edsell and the customs bureau are cooperating.

CONTROVERSY AMONG CERTAIN LABOR UNIONS

(United Press Leased Wire.)
St. Louis, Dec. 6.—Intervention of high officials of the American Federation of Labor is expected to avert a threatened disruption of the building trades division of the labor organization. Members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and of the International Association of Steamfitters have been asked to vacate some unions in accordance with instructions of the building trades convention here. Many members, however, assert that this action means the suspension of these two unions, thus greatly reducing the revenues of the division.

Fire Department for Orenco, Or.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
