You are welcome to shop at any hour that suits you best. You'll receive good attention at all times. But you'll help our employes by shopping in the morning. This editorial appeared recently in The Daily Journal: "A large mercantile firm publicly advises people to do their Christmas shopping early in the day, so as to get the benefit of the services of 'untired' clerks. It is a good suggestion, and it is not very easy to understand why more women do not act upon it. The advantages of shopping early are so great and so manifest that it is a little curious that this advice is not more heeded and followed."
"Not only are the salespeople 'untired' in the early part of the day, but the stores are not crowded. There is more time to show and select goods, and more satisfactory choices can be made. The ladies will do as they please, of course, but this advice to shop early in the day is really good advice."
