

BEST SYSTEM TO PROTECT HEALTH

Dr. Smith Says One Agency, Preferably State Board, Should Enforce Laws.

Protection for the health of Oregon people will only come through putting the enforcement of the state's health laws under one head, is the opinion of Dr. C. J. Smith, member of the state board of health.

Because its members are chosen because of experience, fitness, professional training and citizenship and without political consideration, this agency should be the state board of health, thinks Dr. Smith. His views are shared by other members of the board, and by most of the physicians in the state, who have found that independent health protecting agencies frequently conflict, as was the case when the state board of health attempted to aid the pure milk crusade in Portland, and was defied by the state dairy and food commissioner.

It is believed that the state board of health should be made responsible and given authority to enforce the health laws of Oregon, and that the state health officer, the state dairy and food commissioner, the state bacteriologist and the state veterinarian should be its executive officers.

Wants Legislature to Help.

"If the one board had all the funds used by the two, namely, the state board of health and dairy and food commissioner, the work could certainly be done with a great deal more profit to the state, and would be no more expensive than at the present time.

"We had seriously thought of initiating a bill for this purpose, but as this was quite a good deal of expense and trouble, it was thought best to let the matter go by and see if the legislature would not come to our relief.

"The health laws should certainly be simple, yet the health board, or whomever has it in their power to execute them should be given sufficient authority to at least protect the people from invasions on their health by a class of people who look at it only from a commercial standpoint.

"While we may not be ready for such legislation at this session, education is still advancing, and really the education is more essential than the legislation."

Double Expenses.

Those who are acquainted with the situation declare that there is no more reason why the dairy and food commissioner should be independent of the state board of health than is the state health officer. The maintenance of Simple But Powerful Prescription for Rheumatism and Lame Back.

This was previously published here and cured hundreds. "Get one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound and one ounce of Toris compound. Then get half a pint of good whiskey (or sherry wine if it is preferred) and put the other two ingredients into it. Use a tablespoonful of this mixture before each meal and at bed time. Shake the bottle each time. Good effects are felt the first day. Any druggist has these ingredients on hand or will quickly get them from his wholesale house."

OREGON HIGHWAY TO BE DISCUSSED

Will Be One of Important Topics at the Good Roads Conventions.

Aside from discussions of proposed good roads legislation, the most important subject to come before the Oregon Good Roads convention to be held in Portland, beginning December 12, is the building of the Oregon highway, a part of the Pacific highway.

The plan for building the Canada-to-Mexico highway was the only measure receiving unanimous approval at the good roads convention recently held in Walla Walla, a convention which was attended by delegates from Washington, Idaho and Montana. An Oregon man, who was not even a delegate to the convention, asked permission to introduce the project and to urge the representatives of the three states to do all in their power to further the movement.

No good roads enthusiast in Oregon has opposed the Oregon highway. All concede the value such a road would be to the state in providing a great thoroughfare for tourist travel with feeder roads leading to the places of greatest scenic interest, such as Mount Hood, the sea and Crater Lake National park. Means of procedure have consequently

How Many Women Destroy Their Hair?

(From the London Saturday Review.)

One of the best known hairdressers in London—much patronized by royalty—has the following to say: "Frequent washing of the head with soap and water or prepared shampoos makes the hair brittle and causes it to lose its color and split at the ends.

"Any person desiring abundant, lustrous hair should use a dry shampoo frequently. Mix 4 ounces of orris root with 4 ounces of therox. Sprinkle a tablespoonful of this mixture evenly upon the head; then brush the powder thoroughly through the hair.

"Therox and orris root keep the hair light and fluffy, and beautifully lustrous—it heightens, but does not change the natural color of the hair. Therox is the only thing I know that will produce a growth of hair."

become of the greatest interest. Some of the promoters of the plan for the Oregon highway believe that it would work better with the state-wide good roads campaign to let each county through which the road would be constructed, attend to its building, under the supervision and with the aid of state authorities and the Pacific Highway association.

It is pointed out that a road across the state from north to south will inevitably be built as the result of the good roads movement, since in Oregon the Willamette river makes a natural water grade route for such a road. Each county has now a road extending from north to south along the river. Each county's road joins the roads of counties to the north and south. The permanent construction and improvement contemplated by the good roads campaign would serve the double purpose of giving a continuous highway across the state from north to south and making it a part of the state system, with no extra expense.

On the other hand it is believed that the legislature should be asked to appropriate money enough to build the road, the belief being general that the state could not make a better investment, either from a development or advertising standpoint.

ACQUITTED, HOPES TO SEE DYING MOTHER

(United Press Lined Wire.)
Minneapolis, Dec. 8.—Acquitted of murder, Ray Studendorff is speeding westward to visit his mother, who is reported to be dying at Santa Cruz, California. Just before his case went to the jury Studendorff received a telegram from his sister saying their mother was dying. The defendant broke down when the news reached him. When the court announced his acquittal, the prisoners in the jail where he had been confined, the officers of the court and those who had heard the testimony, made up a purse of $300 and started Studendorff for the west on the first train today.

Studendorff was tried for the murder of John Wilder. He admitted having killed Wilder but was acquitted on a plea of self-defense.

117 Men Wanted

CHAPTER 1

We want 117 men to follow these advertisements for one week.

Have YOU a little sporting blood in your veins? If so, watch proceedings.

In the first place, would you take a chance on a $65 or $150 cash investment and agree to pay $15 or $30 a month for a while if you saw where you might make a thousand and at the worst couldn't lose the principal?

Are you tired of working for money with no money working for you? If so, we've a proposition for you that looks mighty good to us.

It's clean-cut; it's legitimate.

You are not dependent upon any one else. And it's no experiment.

It's of interest to workingmen, professional men, business men. It's worth the consideration of women, executors and attorneys investing for clients.

It isn't a stock-selling scheme. And it isn't any "co-operative proposition."

And our advertisements tomorrow, or at the latest Saturday, will stamp out its mystery.

We will at least have MORE to say tomorrow.
