

Topics of Interest in the Realm Feminine

IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Henry Fairbanks of New York, who was Miss Frances Lewis, is making much of the social situation...

THE REAL FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH

By Darra Mora. In the coming of Miss Ellen Terry to Portland, there is a flood of admiration for those women who flock to the beauty doctors...

A Menu For Tomorrow

BREAKFAST: Baked Apples with Cream. Rice. Roasted Crackers Baked Sweet Potatoes. Whole Wheat Muffins. Coffee.

AMERICAN SALVATION ARMY LEADER DIES

Adjutant W. Stacey and wife, division officers of the American Salvation Army, now located at 347 First street, are grieving because of the death of Major Marian Smalley...

PRESS CLUB SOUVENIR GOING TO PRESS SOON

Material for the handsome souvenir publication of the Portland Press club will be presented to patrons of "A Night Off" when that amusement enterprise is re-opened at the Helms, Monday night...

Happy, Happy Use TIZ

A Marvel for Sore Feet, Acts Right Off. Good-bye sore feet, aching feet, swollen feet, sweaty feet, smelly feet, tired feet.

Good-bye sore feet, aching feet, swollen feet, sweaty feet, smelly feet, tired feet. You've never tried anything like TIZ before for your feet. It is different from anything else you have tried.

Advertisement for Dr. Green's Men's Health medicine, featuring a portrait of Dr. Green and text describing the product's benefits for various ailments.

Advertisement for On Wo Tong Chinese Medicine, featuring a portrait of the doctor and text describing the effectiveness of their treatments.

URGES ST. JOHNS TO BUY FIRE ENGINE

Another plea for a fire engine and a paid department was made to the St. Johns council last evening by Councilman Downey. He declared the city had reached a state of growth where adequate fire fighting equipment and firemen were an absolute necessity.

Advertisement for Fleming-Winters Orchestra, featuring a circular logo and text listing members and contact information.

ATHENA GIRL INJURED; MAY HAVE LOST REASON

(Special Dispatch to the Journal.) Athena, Or., Dec. 7.—Zada Van Winkle, a prominent young woman of this city was severely injured Wednesday evening in a runaway accident and grave doubts are felt for her ultimate recovery.

Advertisement for 'I Am the Man' tonic, featuring a portrait of a man and text describing the product's benefits for various ailments.

Advertisement for 'CURE MEN' medicine, featuring a portrait of a man and text describing the product's benefits for men's health.

Advertisement for 'MUSEUM OF ANATOMY FREE TO MEN', featuring a portrait of a man and text describing the service offered.

Advertisement for 'The DR. TAYLOR Co.' featuring a portrait of a man and text describing various medical services and treatments.

Advertisement for 'MEN CURED $10 IS OUR FEE' featuring a portrait of a man and text describing the cost and effectiveness of the treatments.

Advertisement for 'Pacific Coast Medical Co.' featuring a portrait of a man and text describing various medical services.

Mrs. C. H. Lewis on Wednesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Henry Fairbanks of New York and Mrs. John Couch Lewis called for crowds of women in smart gowns, handsome furs and beautiful millinery...

Mrs. Wheeler's Invitational included Mrs. George Wentworth Jr., Mrs. William B. Gilbert, Mrs. Frank M. Warren Sr., Miss Frances Warren, Mrs. Donald Andrew Shindler, Mrs. F. Bradley, Miss Ruth Small, Mrs. Curtis Strong, Mrs. Robert Strong, Mrs. L. E. Feeley, Mrs. Robert Ellis, Mrs. E. C. Shevlin, Mrs. H. J. Marsh, Mrs. A. C. Pantoni, Mrs. J. J. Pantoni, Mrs. Robert McDonald, Mrs. Francis B. Chamberlain, Mrs. W. H. Foulkes, Mrs. Warren E. McCord, Mrs. J. R. Sharp, Mrs. John C. Robinson, Mrs. Walter H. Mathewson, Mrs. Charles F. Switzer, Mrs. Walter H. Merrill, Mrs. J. T. Ross, Mrs. J. Ernest Sadler, Mrs. H. J. Chapman, Mrs. J. C. Cell, Mrs. Otto Wright, Mrs. W. A. Jones, Mrs. C. L. Russell, Mrs. C. E. Dant, Mrs. M. H. Houser, Miss Ruth Pringle, Mrs. J. Pringle, Mrs. T. L. Elliott, Miss Henrietta Elliott, Mrs. H. Scott, Mrs. W. E. Herring, Mrs. S. G. Reed, Mrs. George L. McPherson, Mrs. Henry Story, Mrs. S. T. Hamilton, Mrs. H. E. Northup, Mrs. A. A. Dekum, Mrs. J. R. McCowan, Mrs. J. B. Gray, Mrs. W. Shivers, Miss Lillian Dosh, Miss Camille Doose, Mrs. Robert Collier, Miss Grace Collier, Miss Alice Collier, and Mrs. George Waggoner.

Mrs. J. W. Cook entertained with luncheon today, complimenting her niece, Miss Portia Knight, who is the traveling companion of Ellen Terry. Miss Knight is a Salem girl, the daughter of Colonel N. D. Knight, who won her theatrical spurs in London. She is known as Heleen's Hall girl and a graduate of Swarthmore. Her sister, Sylvia Knight, is also making her theatrical career abroad.

Invitations have been issued for the debut dance of Miss Jean Mackenzie, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. A. J. Mackenzie, at the Masonic hall Tuesday, December 20.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Leald, who have been traveling in the east for several weeks, are expected home Sunday.

Russell Hawkins returned yesterday from several months in the east.

Mrs. William MacMaster will compliment Miss Jean Mackenzie with a dinner next Friday.

Mrs. John Elbert Wheeler presided at a pretty tea Wednesday in her Portland Heights home, when about 70 women called. A color motif of pink was artistically carried out in the rooms with beautiful pink draperies, except the dining room, where pink roses were used. Receiving with the hostess were Mrs. Fletcher Linn, Mrs. H. C. Campbell and Mrs. Forest Fisher. Mrs. W. B. Mercereau and Miss Elizabeth P. Sawyer presided in the dining room.

Charges Fraud in Damage Suits For $1,400,000

(Continued From Page One.) from $40 to $80 an acre to $200 and $500 an acre. The property had been widely advertised and there was $22,000 in the Hilberna Savings bank held in escrow as security for the payment of the bonds of the companies. In addition there were still unsold approximately 3000 acres of irritable land, worth $300 an acre, about 6000 acres of non-irritable land worth $10 an acre. There were many other assets besides the land.

Valued at $3,000,000. The total debts of the company consisted of $245,000 of bonds, $5900 of expenses, $50,000 on the construction fund and commissions due to the plaintiff to the amount of $1,500. The companies possessed properties and assets of more than $1,000,000, over and above the liabilities. There were also options to purchase land amounting to about $127,000.

Coe charges that when it became apparent to Furnish that he was making good in the management of the project, Furnish conceived the idea of manipulating the project and the contract so as to injure the plaintiff, destroy his business reputation, defame his character and make it impossible for him to fulfill the terms of the contract.

Furnish swore Coe to disregard the strict terms of the contract, the plaintiff charges, and advised him that one provision which stipulated that 25 per cent of the gross sales should be used for paying the expenses of sales and management was not practicable.

Coe followed instructions. This, Coe says, Furnish advised him to do in order to pass the sale of the lands regardless of the terms of the contract or the expense. J. H. Raley, attorney for the companies, had also advised him to do this, being a co-conspirator with Furnish, Coe charges.

Coe had taken this advice, he says, and embarked on a strenuous campaign for the sale of the lands. Then, in furtherance of the conspiracy, Coe alleges, Furnish neglected to keep the project in good condition, allowed the ditches to become defective and dry, and thus discouraged prospective settlers who came to see the lands. As a result of this the project was the name of being a mere selling scheme and not of being a bona fide irrigation project, so Coe charges.

Raley had spent much in excess of the fund named by the terms of the contract, so Coe alleges, but many thousands less than Coe had earned as commissions. All the money spent by Coe had been spent to exploit the lands of the companies, and this fund included many thousands of the private funds of the plaintiff.

Demand Accounting. Knowing all these things, Coe alleges, Furnish and Raley made a peremptory demand upon him, July 2, for an immediate accounting of the business of the companies. They insisted, Coe says, that he either make an immediate accounting or that they would proceed to a strict enforcement of the terms of the contract.

alleges, and insisted that unless an adjustment were made that the contract would be canceled. Raley, apparently a lawyer, but in fact an agent of Furnish's, persuaded him to sign a new contract.

As a result of this new contract, H. L. Moody was elected president of the Inland Irrigation company. Furnish had represented that Moody was a man of the highest integrity and high standing in every way. The fact was that he was a tool of Furnish and a puppet. Coe charges that Moody had been engaged in business dealings of such a questionable nature for years, that when he found out that he was in and reputation he did not desire to have his name used in connection with that of Moody.

Financial Standing Attacked. As soon as Moody was elected president, Coe alleges, he went away from the state and would not attend to the business of the company. He refused to carry out the terms of the contract at once began to attack the standing and character of the plaintiff.

Coe says that Furnish and Moody attacked his financial standing, as well as that of the Columbia Land company, and disseminated the agents and employees of the company.

About this time, Coe set out, he went to the orient for a rest, and Furnish and Moody began to circulate false and slanderous statements about him. They circulated rumors that he was a defaulter, Coe says, that he was an absconding debtor, that he was not in the orient, but was concealed in Portland; that he was a bankrupt; that he had abandoned his contracts and was not able to carry them out; that the Columbia Land company was insolvent; that Coe had collected vast sums of money without the knowledge or authority of the companies and had misappropriated these sums to his own use and that he had defrauded the purchasers of the lands.

Repudiated Contracts. Before leaving Portland Coe says that he had told Furnish of his plans for carrying on the business of the companies, and that he had done this believing in the honesty and friendship of Furnish and Moody. He had used this information, Coe says, and had gone to the banks and the men named by Coe and circulated the defamatory rumors to these men, in an attempt to ruin the financial standing of the plaintiff and cause him to be unable to carry on his plans for the fulfillment of the contract.

After doing all these things, Coe says that Furnish and Moody repudiated the contracts and have refused to allow him to carry them out, to a successful conclusion, doing so in an effort to injure him and defraud him of his dues resultant from his work as selling manager for the Furnish properties.

Coe asks that Furnish be forced to pay him $200,000 actual and $300,000 punitive damages in the suit filed against Furnish individually, and he asks for $800,000 damages from the Inland Irrigation company, the Furnish Ditch company, Furnish & Moody, because of the cancellation of the contracts held by the plaintiff with these companies and men.

NEW PASSENGER

(Continued From Page One.) of Villa avenue will in no manner or form interfere with traffic on the highway, the railroad engineers having solved this problem by providing for a tunnel underneath the roadway. According to the plans this tunnel will be 24 feet in the clear, and about five feet under the surface of the road.

To Build Strong Tunnel. The tunnel will be supported by an arch of steel and concrete. Villa avenue follows a slight depression on top of a ridge which makes the tunnel scheme perfectly feasible.

In seeking a franchise on the Barr road it is safe to speculate that the company will also seek a franchise over Halsey street, since the Barr road is practically a continuation of that street. Halsey street would bridge the line to the river at a point about midway between the new railroad bridge and the projected Broadway bridge so that from that point no great difficulty would be encountered in getting to either of the bridges.

Advertisement for 'Hay's Hair Health' featuring a portrait of a man and text describing the product's benefits for restoring hair to its natural color and beauty.

Advertisement for 'DR. GREEN CO.' featuring a portrait of Dr. Green and text describing various medical services and treatments.

Advertisement for 'Intense Suffering' featuring a portrait of a man and text describing the symptoms and relief of dyspepsia.