

LEARNING HOW TO PLAN CITY

Flavel Shurtleff Jr. Here on a Tour to Get Ideas on City Government.

"If your mayor is a tight-wad and sits on the lid of the city treasury, then you can expect a cessation in the real development of your city," said Flavel Shurtleff Jr., representative of the National Conference on City Planning, while at the Hotel Portland yesterday. Mr. Shurtleff is seeking ideas of city government, particularly those that have reference to park development. He is going from city to city learning the best and the worst and the most distinctive features of each government. When he completes his tour of the cities his findings will be put into a book and distributed among the cities of the country so that each may have the benefits and warnings of the best plans of development and the most effectively administered municipal governments.

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR KIDNEYS

The following prescription is known to be one of the most effective obtainable for quick relief and permanent restoration of the kidneys and bladder: "Half ounce fluid extract Buchu; half ounce Marax compound; six ounces of good gin. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time." Any druggist can mix or furnish the ingredients of this prescription.

He calls the conference a graduate school on city planning, since there are represented at the meeting the nation's foremost experts in engineering, street building, architecture, building construction and park making. E. H. Bennett, engaged by the Civic Improvement League to make a plan for the building of Greater Portland, is a member of the conference and attended its last meeting held in Rochester.

All the papers read and discussed at the annual conferences are put into a book and these are distributed among the cities, the purpose being that as many of the good ideas as possible may be accepted by the cities where improvement is needed.

Mr. Shurtleff will report particularly, as a result of his tour, upon a proposed model-town planning act. His work is financed by the Russell Sage foundation, but this fund has no part in the work of the conference on city planning. While in Portland Mr. Shurtleff has been conferring with Deputy City Attorney Tomlinson on the methods used in Portland for the acquisition of lands to be used for park and other purposes. He noted with satisfaction that Baltimore had made an appropriation for the purpose of carrying on the work of city planning and expressed a wish that every city might do likewise. The mayor of Baltimore, said Mr. Shurtleff, is one of the nation's greatest enthusiasts in the systematic planning and building of cities.

VIEWS OF STUDENTS IN FINE BOOKLETS

The educational committee of the International Typographical union is sending out a finely printed booklet giving the views of students who are taking the course of instruction furnished by the union.

The testimonials range from those of apprentices in their teens to accomplished craftsmen in the sixties, and all speak highly of the course. Modern educational methods are employed, and display or decorative printing is placed on a more scientific basis than it has heretofore occupied. The course is not theoretical, however, as the students learn by working, and throughout the booklet there are many testimonials saying the writers were aided greatly in their every day work by the lessons. One young man notes a weekly increase in wages of 10; a 60-year-old says he has learned more about the higher branches of composition than in his previous experience; a New York journeyman, who was "railroaded" through his apprenticeship, credits the course with giving him an opportunity to learn more than he could have learned through a properly tutored apprenticeship, while an English born student says the I. T. U. course was more valuable to him than his seven year apprenticeship in the "right little isle."

This trade educational course is sold below actual cost. The printers' union defrays all the advertising expenses and gives prizes of from $5 up to students when they complete the course. This is but one of the many features carried on by the typographical union, and it is attracting the attention of those interested in trade education the world over.

ASHLAND VOTES DOWN WATER SYSTEM PLAN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Ashland, Or., Dec. 15.—Ashland turned down both the propositions to bond the city for $170,000 to rebuild the municipal water plant, and the "salary grab," a proposition favored by the city council and mayor to give the councilmen a salary of $25 a month and the mayor $125 per month. The bonds were defeated by 182 votes and the salary proposition by 71. A census of those opposed to the candidacy of Mayor Snell met yesterday and endorsed E. P. Nell as an opposition candidate. The campaign for the municipal election, which will be held December 20, will be a hot one.

WASHINGTON TOWNS MAY REGULATE SALOONS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Olympia, Wash., Dec. 15.—Washington towns may incorporate, after the district has voted dry, and regulate and permit saloons, in the opinion of the supreme court. This opinion is the result of the appealing of the case of Harry Donovan of Murray, who was convicted by the district court of Elbert county. This decision will affect several Washington towns, as the supreme court holds that it is not necessary that a special election be held in the city in order to determine whether saloons shall be permitted.

OREGON GIRL GIVEN PRAISE IN EUROPE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Pacific University, Forest Grove, Or., Dec. 15.—A cause of great rejoicing to Professor Frank Thomas Chapman, director of the music conservatory of Pacific university, was produced today when a communication from Jonas Alberto of Berlin was received in which great praise was attributed to Miss Frances E. Clapp of Forest Grove, because of her excellent work under his instruction.

Miss Clapp is a graduate of Pacific university, finishing two years ago, and the same year she was graduated from the conservatory of the same institution, having taken her entire course under Professor Chapman. To finish, she went to Europe during the early part of last summer, and in this incredibly short time she has been attracting attention of the best musical circles of Berlin. Miss Clapp, while at Pacific, did phenomenal work in her concerts all through Oregon and parts of Washington, and the success she is

COUGHED ALL NIGHT

This Remedy Was Tried—Cure Followed in 3 Hours.

A prominent medical man, who suffered with a severe cough and cold on the lungs, often being kept awake all night and weakened by loss of sleep, finally discovered a simple formula which will cure any cough in five hours by the clock. It is a laxative tonic cough syrup which can be made at home by anyone and the formula is here given for the benefit of those who pass sleepless nights in painful paroxysms. Those who have tried it say it is magical and beats any high-priced, slow-acting cough medicine ever sold. Mix in a bottle one-half ounce fluid will cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then take one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day. Give children less according to age. This will tone up and rid the system of deep-seated coughs every time.

now achieving is not unexpected to her friends and others. Jonas Alberto is the celebrated Spanish maestro whom all musical circles of Europe regard as one of the foremost musicians and teachers of that country, and has been the recipient of many of America's pupils who desire to further their work. Miss Wilma E. Waggoner, mother of Pacific's conservatory graduates and who is at the head of the piano department of McMinnville college, also took post-graduate work under this same artist two years ago and is having marked success.

FARMERS DISAPPEARING FROM INLAND EMPIRE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Dayton, Wash., Dec. 15.—Columbia county has lost over 1000 farmers, it is evident from the census figures just given out. The county has decreased from 7123 to 7043 despite the fact that Dayton has increased from 2200 to 2090 and Starbuck from 245 to 250. The gain in these two principal towns is 1045, and the loss in the county is 88. This indicates that over 1000 farmers are missing since the census of 1900. Figuring five persons to the family, it appears that over 500 farms have been deserted in this county in a decade. This estimate is borne out by reports showing that some school districts which 10 years ago boasted 20 scholars are now desolated as far as school children are concerned. One capitalist here has taken over 10 farms in the decade.

May Macadamize Hood Street

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Hood River, Or., Dec. 15.—An effort is being made by property holders on Oak street, the main business street of the city, to have the same hard surfaced. A petition will be presented to the city council to have this work accomplished as soon as the weather will permit. While the city has creditable buildings, the streets remain sloppy and filthy to the extreme. Work of macadamizing the streets in the residence section has been ordered by the council, but the business district has been neglected.
