

REPORT OF FACULTIES MAY RESTORE PEACE

Special Committees of O. A. C. and U. of O. Report Result of Investigation Into Trouble at Corvallis.

Restoration of amicable relations between the student bodies of the University of Oregon and the Oregon Agricultural college may result from the joint report of the faculties of the two institutions.

A statement of the findings of the special committees of the university and the agricultural college appointed by the faculties of the two institutions to investigate the incidents following the football game at Corvallis, November 12, has just been made public.

The statement is the result of thorough investigation and careful consideration of the evidence gathered by both committees. A conference of the two committees lasting the greater part of three days was held at Eugene last week at the request of the university committee and resulted in an agreed statement of fact.

Cause of Delay.
The delay in reaching the ultimate findings has been occasioned by the great amount of time required for the examination of witnesses at the agricultural college and the unwillingness on the part of the university to reach such findings without the benefit of an opportunity to know something of the testimony which has been taken at the agricultural college, and before the return of President Kerr, who was absent attending the meeting of the National Association of Agricultural Colleges at Washington, D. C.

The student body of the university, up to the present time, has withheld consideration of the matters involved at the request of the faculty committee. The desired conference was held last Thursday, resulting in the following agreed statement of facts:

Attitude of Faculty.
1. The attitude of the great majority of students of both institutions was friendly and courteous throughout the day. Decorations of homes and public buildings with intermingled Agricultural college and University colors, social courtesies extended to both students and faculty of the university, careful preparation for the comfort of both team and visitors, all indicated most strongly the friendly attitude of both the Agricultural college and the townpeople.

2. The games were a fine exhibition of clean intercollegiate sport, and the student bodies of both institutions conducted themselves in a sportsmanlike and gentlemanly manner.

3. It appears that the seating of colors was participated in by the students of both institutions, although the greater number of colors seem to have been secured by the Agricultural college men. Persons not members of either student body were active in gathering souvenirs.

Statements Conflict.
4. There is a conflict of testimony as to the origin of the rush made upon the automobile, but the testimony indicating that there was provocation in the way of a challenge from the occupants of the automobile, which is contradicted by equally positive statements to the contrary. It appears that a scuffle took place between the Agricultural college students, who were attempting to take the university colors from the car, and the occupants of the automobile, during which some blows were struck and some injuries resulted to the automobile. The automobile contained Mr. Latourrette, an injured university football player, who was being taken to the gymnasium for medical treatment. It was stopped by a crowd of it and Mr. Latourrette was carried from this point to the gymnasium. Most, if not all, of the Agricultural college students seem to have been unaware that the car contained an injured player.

Tallyho Incident Recalled.
5. A tallyho decorated with university colors, and containing a party of ladies and gentlemen, three of the former students of the university, was attacked by a small party of Agricultural college men for the purpose of securing the university colors. Various indignities were offered by them to the occupants of the tallyho. They persisted in the attack, although repeatedly driven off by the occupants of the tallyho, until they reached the main street.

6. It appears that the hat of a university student, who was on crutches, was taken while he was in the midst of a crowd of students. A student of the Agricultural college protested against the taking of the hat on the grounds that the man was on crutches, but the hat was not returned, and the man taking it made a derisive remark in reply. It appears that the majority of the men in the crowd were unaware of the fact that the man was obliged to use crutches.

7. It appears that there is no evidence to show that a student of the university was pursued through the Occidental hotel by students of the Agricultural college.

8. A group of Agricultural college students cut the hair of Herman Siglin, a university student, formerly a student of the Agricultural college. This took place while he was in the car waiting for the train to start. This was not prompted by any ill will toward the university student, but by the personal grudge against Mr. Siglin.

Blow at Bean Not Malicious.
9. It appears that the rushing at the depot was in the main good natured on both sides, although in several instances personal encounters of an unfriendly nature occurred in connection with the seating of colors. The most serious incident was an injury received by Harold Bean, a university student, during one of the rushes. It appears that in some way he was struck on a spot on the forehead made sensitive by a slight surgical operation two years ago. There is no evidence proving that the blow was intentional or malicious. Mr. Bean was rendered unconscious for a period of 12 or 15 minutes; on recovery of consciousness he gave evidence of intense suffering and continued to suffer during the trip home.

10. An earnest effort was made at the university to prevent sensational newspaper publicity relative to the incidents following the game. An urgent personal request to this effect was made by the university authorities to the papers of both Portland and Eugene. As many as possible of the university correspondents were seen on the day following the game and asked to handle the matter with care. The newspaper reports were in all cases expressions of individual opinion and were in no way authorized by either the university authorities or the student body.

Motive Not Malicious.
11. The Agricultural college disavows responsibility for any statement appearing in the state except such statements as appeared under the Oregon Agricultural college headlines in the Portland Oregonian, Telegram and Journal. The deep sympathy excited by the injury to Mr. Bean seemed to be largely responsible for the precipitation of publicizing the incident. The fact that all likelihood was responsible for the publication of incidents which probably otherwise would have passed unnoticed. The motive of the correspondents does not seem to have been a malicious one.

12. Any incident involving even likelihood was responsible for the publication of incidents which probably otherwise would have passed unnoticed. The motive of the correspondents does not seem to have been a malicious one.

13. Signed by joint committee—For the university: Professors John Straub, H. C. Howe and E. E. DeCoux. For the Agricultural college: Professors R. D. Hottel and G. W. Peavy.

Hawaiian Coast Is Nature's Wonder

Scene on shore line of "Paradise of Pacific."

H. P. Wood, secretary of the Hawaiian promotion committee, writes Misses Roche & Thompson managers of the "Aloha" excursion which sails direct from Portland, February 1, 1911, about the beautiful sea coast of Hawaii. He says in his letter: "In marked contrast with the first snowy view of the 'Paradise of the Pacific' is the magnificent scenery along the wonderful Hamakua coast which gradually grows in detail as the good ship 'Queen' plows toward it. Here the long slopes of Mauna Kea reach down towards the sea, terminating in a rocky precipice from 50 to several hundred feet in height, which extends in almost unbroken line for 60 miles or more along this side of the island. Above this rocky seawall a wide plateau sweeps back to the mountain, and the light green coloring early identifies the hundreds of acres of luxuriant sugar cane from the darker green of the forests higher on the slopes. As the vessel approaches still nearer, hundreds of exquisitely beautiful cascades are disclosed leaping down the rocky walls into the ocean, and here and there a little cove is tucked away in a fold of the shore line, in which one may make out the graceful fringe of cocoanut palms, and perchance a group of native fisherfolk houses."

PORTION OF GILTNER ESTATE DISTRIBUTED

A partial distribution of the estate of the late Jacob S. Giltner, which estate amounted to $129,155, has been made in the county court. The cash on hand and notes have been divided among the four children and four grandchildren. Attorney Roscoe R. Giltner, and Frank F. Giltner are administrators under the will. The division comes at this time in the nature of a holiday present.

The distribution was finally completed yesterday and sanctioned by the court. It is as follows: Roscoe R. Giltner, $25,750; Frank F. Giltner, $27,500; Mrs. Martha G. Cook, $27,500; Mrs. Emma G. White, $27,500; and $27,500 was equally divided among the four children of the late Paris D. Giltner.

Appraisal of the estate shows it to contain the following: Money on hand, $22,158; bond by the Chapman & Timber company, $22,250; Columbia county property, $25,800; Portland real estate, $12,035; two promissory notes worth $7,535; and household goods valued at $1750.

UNIONS REPRESENTED IN COOLIE SMUGGLING CASE

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Vancouver, B. C., Dec. 22.—The trades and labor council is about to take an active part in the inquiry into Chinese immigration. When the commission resumed work yesterday at the detention shed Gordon Grant, in company with J. H. McVety, presented himself as counsel for the labor organization and wanted to submit a list of names of witnesses who, the council thought, might be of work in the inquiry. He assented to the request that he first communicate the nature of his information privately.

The witnesses are believed to be political leaders who had the naming of immigration officers.

Yip Sang, uncle of Yip On, the suspended interpreter, looked in casually and was making his exit when he was recalled and asked to give some information of the intentions of the interpreter, who is suspected of being an arch-conspirator. The witness on the stand is Acting Chief Landing Walter Pagan and it is the intention of crown counsel, Mr. Cressen, to search the records of each liner carrying Chinese immigrants from as far back as 1907, and it may result in the knowledge that Yip On not only was responsible for the admission of many, but was the cause of the rejection of some, for personal reasons.

OHIO DEMOCRATS MEET IN COUNCIL

Pomerene and Hanley Chief Candidates for Toga—Others, Including McLean.

Columbus, O., Dec. 22.—The round-up here today of the Democratic members-elect of the lower branch of the legislature, to discuss plans for organization and other matters preliminary to the opening of the legislative session next month, is expected to help considerably in clearing the atmosphere surrounding the United States senatorship. Though the meeting of the house members is not intended in any way to settle the senatorial contest, the feeling prevails among the politicians that the present opportunity of getting together for discussion will result in something more definite on which to base senatorial predictions than anything that has existed heretofore.

Two Chief Candidates.
At the present time, notwithstanding the confident claims of the rival campaign managers, it appears to be a toss-up whether either Pomerene or Lieutenant governor-elect, or Edwin W. Hanley, the Dayton lawyer, is most likely to be the successor of Charles Dick in the United States senate. Some politicians are of the opinion that the present opportunity of getting together for discussion will result in something more definite on which to base senatorial predictions than anything that has existed heretofore.

Among Those Mentioned.
Former Congressman John J. Lentz, Colonel James Kilbourne of this city, and Virgil P. Cling of Cleveland are among those whose names are being mentioned or less frequently in connection with the senatorship. But none of these has so far graduated from the "also mentioned class" and the probability is that none will enter actively into the fight unless the contest between Pomerene and Hanley becomes so tangled that a compromise candidate appears to offer the only solution.

McLean as a Dark Horse.
As between Pomerene and Hanley the indications are that the winner, if either wins, will be the one who conducts the best campaign. Neither appears to have any advantage as far as personal popularity is concerned. Hanley is supposed to have the backing of most of the leaders of the state organization, while Pomerene has the advantage of a wider acquaintance throughout the state and also has the prestige that comes from his recent successful candidacy for the office of lieutenant-governor.

Rumors are still current that John R. McLean may enter the race for the toga, though the general opinion is that he has about abandoned his aspirations in that direction, especially as the reports of his emissaries sent here recently to seek for McLean sentiment are understood to have been of none too rosy a hue.

An 89-mile railroad in North Carolina in the construction of which no wood was used, recently was completed and opened for service in 15 months from the time work was started.
