However, More People Than Ever Before Patronized the Stores Earlier This Year-Due to Efforts of League.

The "early shopping cry," designed to Pelieve the store clerk of the nerveshattering eleventh hour rush and also to save the shopper from the dangerous store managers.

Early in the season the consumers league opened its annual campaign to awaken the shopper to the need of starting early. Posters were sent out and displayed in various stores. The league had the hearty encouragement and cooperation of the stores in their Some of them offered special ents to early shoppers and prac tically all of them called the attention of their patrons to the advisability of buying at a time when there was not an urgent need for making a hurried se-lection and when the clerks could devote more attention to patrons. early shopping campaign than at any previous time" declared Mrs. H. R. Tal-bot, president of the organization yesterday. "We have had the unreserved ald of the store managements, and I tnow people are learning the advantages

Clerks this year approached the last days of the Christmas buying in better cal condition and are well prepared to withstand the final crush which comes today and will come every year, despite all of the educational work of the league and stores. Most of these buyers come from the laboring classes, least those whose funds are not so plentiful that they can lay by a sum money for Christmas purposes. Many of them received their checks or pay envelopes this afternoon or evening and a rush on the part of the women to the stores follows.

Again, in the crowd thronging stores and streets today you will find those who had forgotten some person or persons and who join the current entering and leaving the stores, muttering imprecations on their own carelessness.

Christmas Atmosphere Everywhere. In another class there is the inevi-table procrastinator, the person who will not complete his or her buying until the last moment. Still another ele-ment is the harried business man, who has finally torn himself away from office cares to snatch something for wife and family. Usually he does not take long to decide what he wants and he not haggle about prices. The tired clerk summons a smile for him.

The Christin plain upon Portland streets for at least two weeks, but today it fairly bursts upon one in the crowded sidewalks, and the street cars filled to the vestibules the street cars filled to the vestibules at all hours of the day. The street merchant's during the police under a decision of the municipal court which permits them to remain in one spot for half an hour—are also displaying their wares from cart and box, disposing of wreaths, flowers, toya, tinsel and other articles of the season.

Here and there can be seen a father toiling under the burden of a Christmas tree, picked up around Front and First streets, and wearing a smile at the thought of the Christmas joys of the little ones, which dissipates any contemle ones, which dissipates any contem-lation of the speciacle he presents. Down in the market district of the town, there is also the rush of prepara-tion for the Christmas observance. The markets have hung out their tempting arrays of turkeys and boliday meats and have put up decorations of the seasons. Those who have been wise enough or fortunate enough to care for the gift purchasing earlier are tranquilly in-specting the fowl and meats, the Christ-mas dinner their only remaining care. Turkeys are, of course, the piece de resistance of the average Christmas din ner, but they come rather high and chickens are popular. One market dis-plays a number of possums at $3 each and is selling a number of these southern delicacies.

ATTORNEYS ASK THAT FINES BE SET ASIDE

A few attorneys practicing in the municipal court have joined in asking the circuit court to allow them a writ of review in several cases in the lower court in which they seek to overthrow fines and sentences imposed. This action is taken upon the ground that no complaints have been filed against the persons accused. The charter provides that complaints shall issue against all persons brought before the municipal court. The work there has been so heavy, that the city attorney has been unable to make complaints in each case.

Attorneys M. O. Wilkins and H. C. King have been active in arranging the suit for the writ of review. They have gone over all records taking the name ere a fine of more than $50 was imposed. They propose to have the case reheard and say they have the law that will cause the city to turn this amount to the person so fined. They say they have claims in such cases aggregating $10,000. The request for a writ review is based upon the fine given Augustus Franso.

Considerable criticism has been made out the methods used by Attorneys Wilkins and King in obtaining the names. Nicholas Beutgen, clerk of the municipal court, refused Wilkins access to the books, whereupon Wilkins charged the clerk with being afraid to have his books examined. There are many minor cases in the municipal court in which it is deemed needless to file complaints and the great majority of attorneys practicing there are satisfied with the old way of filing the com-plaint on the judge's docket.

When You Think

Of the pain which many women experience with every month it makes the gentleness and kindness always assectated with womanhood seem to be almost a miracle. While in general no woman rebels against what she regards as a natural necessity there is no woman who would not gladly be free from this recurring period of pain.

Dr. Pierce's Favorito Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well, and gives them freedom from pain, it establishes regularity, enbdues inflam-mation, heals ulceration and cares to-
