

CONSECRATION OF PERRY AS BISHOP

Rector of St. Paul's, at New Haven, Elevated to Preside Over R. I. Diocese.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 6.—With imposing ceremonies, Rev. James DeWolf Perry, late rector of St. Paul's church in New Haven, was consecrated bishop of Rhode Island in St. John's Episcopal church today, in succession to the late Bishop McVieker. The venerable Bishop Tuttle of St. Louis, presiding bishop of the American Episcopal church, was the consecrating bishop, assisted by Bishops Nelson of Atlanta and Lines of Newark. The decorations of the church were most elaborate, and it was filled to its capacity when the services began with the procession of bishops, clergy, laymen and choristers. Professor Henry B. Washburn of Cambridge Theological seminary, master of ceremonies, came first. He was followed by the bishop's crozier borne aloft by a chorister. The choristers came next and then the procession of bishops and clergy. The rite was brought up by Dr. Perry and his presenters, Bishop Brewster of Connecticut and Bishop Greer of New York. The service began with the holy communion, read by Bishop Tuttle from in front of the altar table and inside of the rail. Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts preached the consecration sermon. The orders of election, canonical consent of the churches and bishops and the testimonials of the bishop-elect were read, and then followed the various ceremonies prescribed by the ritual of the Episcopal church for the consecration of a bishop, concluding with the administering of the sacrament to all of the participants. The new bishop was born in Germantown, Pa., October 3, 1871. He was graduated from the Germantown academy in 1887, and received the degree of Bachelor of Arts at the University of Pennsylvania in 1891. He spent the next year in postgraduate work at Harvard, and then entered the Cambridge Theological school, from which he was graduated in 1895. The following year he was ordained a priest in the Episcopal church. He occupied the pulpit of Christ church, Fitchburg, from 1897 until 1904, when he became rector of St. Paul's church, New Haven. Of its telephone line the Silver Lake Herald says: "If all the horns, whistles and other instruments of noise—Gabriel with his trumpet included—were attached to the phones here, so far as hearing over the line was concerned, it would transmit no sound. The line at this end is simply the bluntest of the bum in Oregon."

IN MEMORY OF CHARLES SUMNER

Tributes Are Paid on Centenary of One of Most Noted Statesmen.

Boston, Jan. 6.—Eighteen hundred and eleven was the natal year of many Americans who were destined to win distinction, some of whom established a reputation which extended beyond their own country into Europe. Of these notable Americans whose centenaries will be celebrated during the present year, the three of widest reputation were Charles Sumner, Horace Greeley and Wendell Phillips, all natives of New England. The first of the centenaries falls on this date, which is the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Charles Sumner, who has been classed among America's greatest statesmen. Born in Boston, January 6, 1811, Sumner became a graduate of Harvard in 1830. The next year he entered the Harvard law school, where he studied under the renowned Judge Joseph Story. He spent the years from 1837 to 1840 abroad, studying in London, Berlin, Paris and other European centers, and becoming acquainted with the leading public men of Europe. His studies and tastes led him toward politics and the law. He became interested very early in the anti-slavery movement. On November 6, 1850, in Faneuil hall, soon after the passage of the fugitive slave law, he delivered a speech on that subject which led to his election to the United States senate. No Compromise With Slavery. In the senate it was with difficulty that Sumner found an opportunity to speak upon his "one idea." On August 25, 1851, he made his celebrated speech for the "Repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law." In 1856 he delivered his speech in the senate on "The Crime Against Kansas," the speech for which he was assaulted by Senator Brooks. For four years thereafter Sumner was absent from his seat in the senate. He returned in 1860, and in the notable session of that and the following year he was a strong opponent of any form of compromise. Record as Reconstructionist. In other phases of Sumner's public career he filled an important place in the history of his country. But these have almost been forgotten in the light of his career as an anti-slavery advocate and statesman. From 1861 to 1872 he was chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, and in that position he contributed materially to the literature of international law. His great speech on the "Trent Affair," delivered in the senate in 1862, is classed among his ablest productions. When the war was concluded, Sumner ardently supported the policy of conciliation and amnesty. His death occurred in Washington, March 11, 1874. Centenary Observances. The New England Suffrage league and various other organizations of Boston have made elaborate preparations for the observance of the Sumner centenary. Beginning with a meeting in Faneuil hall tonight, with Archbishop O'Connell and other noted men as speakers, the celebration will be continued over tomorrow. A feature of tomorrow's program will be public memorial exercises at the Bowdoin school, which stands on the site where Sumner was born. New York, Jan. 6.—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is holding a celebration in this city today in honor of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Charles Sumner. Under the auspices of the association public exercises will be held tonight in the meeting house of the Ethical Culture society. The principal address will be delivered by Moorfield Storey, leader of the Massachusetts bar, who was Senator Sumner's private secretary.

COOS CITIZENS AFTER MORE GOOD ROADS
(Special Dispatch to the Journal)
Marshfield, Or., Jan. 6.—A big good roads meeting is to be held at Bandon during January, the date to be decided upon soon. E. E. Oakes, president of the Bandon chamber of commerce, is furthering the movement. It is planned to have speeches by County Judge John Hall, Surveyor A. N. Gould and F. F. Eddy, who were the Coos county delegates to the state good roads meeting at Salem. Farmers and others interested will be invited from all parts of the county to be present. Coos county during the past year expended about $200,000 on good roads and the desire on the part of the people for improvements of this nature is stronger than ever before. At the meeting to be held at Bandon the delegates to the state meeting will tell what they learned at that gathering and suggestions will be made regarding what should be done in this county. Springfield is on the eve of a building boom.

TO SAVE AVIATORS' LIVES WITH LAW
California Senator Advocates Physical Examination and Other Safeguards.
(United Press Leased Wire.)
Sacramento, Jan. 6.—Regulation of aviation and aviators is provided for in a bill which Senator Hare of San Francisco is preparing. The recent deaths of Hoxsey and Moissant and the approach of the big aviation meet in San Francisco have caused Hare to look into the question of preventing accidents. Although a rough draft only has been prepared, it is stated that the measure will prescribe certain conditions for aeroplanes before flight. Certain technical conditions also must obtain. The bill will provide that an official examiner of aeroplanes be authorized. It is possible that a section directing that all aviators must undergo some sort of physical examination will be included in the measure.
