

THEEVES MURDER JUSTICE OF PEACE NEAR SOUND CITY

A. A. Galbraith Killed and W. B. Stevens Badly Wounded, Near Bellingham, Wash., in Act of Arresting Thugs.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Bellingham, Wash., Jan. 6.—The sheriff of Whatcom and Skagit counties, with their deputies and a pack of bloodhounds and at least 100 volunteers, are searching the foothill country about Acme for the two thugs who yesterday shot and killed Justice of the Peace A. A. Galbraith and seriously wounded Manager W. B. Stevens of the Key City Logging company, at Acme. Every wagon road and railroad track by which the men could escape from the territory about Acme is carefully guarded, and the hounds are tracking down the fugitives through the hills. Their capture seems certain and the belief of the officers is that it will be accomplished only by bloodshed, as the men are armed and desperate.

Posses Out With Bloodhounds.

Immediately upon receipt of news yesterday afternoon that Galbraith had been killed, Sheriff Van Zandt of Whatcom county and a posse of deputies left the city and arrived at Acme a few hours later. Sheriff Stevenson of Skagit county and his deputies, with bloodhounds, drove from Sedro Woolley, wearing out two relays of horses in their forced journey.

At daybreak this morning the hounds took the trail at Acme and the man hunt commenced.

Judge Galbraith and Manager Stevens were shot as they attempted to arrest two men who had stolen a box of shoes from the Saxon store, near Deming. Stevens discovered the theft and followed the men to Acme. There he informed Judge Galbraith of what had happened and called on him to arrest the men.

Shots Answer Call to Surrender.

Judge Galbraith and Stevens met the thieves in front of the store owned by Frank Zobrist and ordered them to surrender. Instead they opened fire. A bullet struck Galbraith near the heart and he fell, mortally wounded. Stevens fell beside him, badly wounded in the abdomen. The murderer and his companion then ran off into the brush.

Attributed by the shooting, a number of citizens ran to where Galbraith and Stevens lay. Galbraith was carried in to a nearby house and everything was done to staunch the flow of blood and bring him back to consciousness. All efforts were unavailing, however, and he died 45 minutes after the shooting.

Wild excitement prevailed when it was learned that Galbraith and Stevens had been shot. Angry citizens flocked to the scene and threatened vengeance upon the perpetrators. A telephone message was dispatched to Sheriff Van Zandt, who, with Deputy Sheriff Crulshank and Wallace Coleman and all available men, hurried to the scene.

Men's Old Shoes Good Ones.

The robbery that the thugs committed before the shooting is adding to the officers' greatly. The men stole a case of shoes from a store near Acme. They were followed to the latter town by Stevens, who called on Galbraith to arrest them. After the thieves had fired and brought down Galbraith and Stevens, they dropped everything and ran, and among the articles abandoned were found their old shoes, which they had changed for new ones before reaching Acme. These cast off boots gave the hounds an excellent scent. This dog, with a posse of 10, started across the hills toward Park. It is believed the fugitives will try to reach Bellingham.

At Park, at Wickersham and at Deming, guards are posted. A report from Wickersham says one of the thugs is wounded and is traveling slowly. Galbraith's body has been brought to this city.

Description of Murderers.

The bandits are described as smooth shaven men of dark complexion, one six feet tall, about 175 pounds; the other five feet eight inches, stocky built and weighing about 170 pounds. The short man wears blue overalls and a blue coat; the other logger's boots, tan colored trousers and a dark coat. Both wear black slouch hats.

Judge Galbraith was one of the most widely known men in Whatcom county. He came here in the early eighties from Tennessee and took up ranching near where Acme now stands. He had acquired considerable property.

MORE LIGHTS ON ALASKAN COAST

Mariners' Greatest Need Set Forth by President of Steamship Company.

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—Owing to the storms of snow and frequent heavy fogs along the southeastern Alaska coast, that region is one of the most treacherous for mariners to be found anywhere. This condition is accentuated, says J. H. Young, president of the Alaska Steamship company, by the lack of lighthouses and fog signal stations along this coast. Mr. Young was in Washington for the purpose of urging upon congress the need of providing more lighthouses.

"During the past two years," said Mr. Young, "our company lost five ships on this coast, with a large amount of freight; but fortunately very few human lives. Other companies lost ships also, and a number of vessels went ashore which were not a total loss, but which were sold and salvaged. Senator Piles has introduced a bill, upon the recommendation of the lighthouse board, calling for lights and signal stations to cost $3,000,000.

"Nobody, I believe, questions the necessity of this appropriation, but unfortunately for us, we are so far away from the seat of government that matters of great vital interest to us are often ignored or dismissed as of merely passing interest. It is a matter of very deep concern, however, to the people of Alaska, and one effect of it is felt in the very high insurance rate of 12 per cent, which, of course, has to be added to our expenses, thereby raising the freight rates. With vessels in our service worth $2,500,000, this is a very serious item.

"We have had some relief since the establishment of the lighthouse board as a bureau, many minor lights having been put out this year. This policy has never before been tried by the United States government, but it is proving to be of material assistance to mariners. Officials I have seen here are fully alive to the need of extensive improvements, as some of the most important lights and signal stations are yet to be established.

"We are looking for a very heavy movement to Prince William sound next year. The quartz discoveries around Valdes are of value, and in my opinion, are more important and extensive than the first discoveries at Tonopah and Goldfield."

Mr. Young, who is also vice president of the Copper River & Northwestern railroad, was formerly an official of the Southern Pacific, with residence at Berkeley, Cal., and prior to that he was a resident of Salt Lake City. Few men have a wider acquaintance among railroad and mining people than he.

NATIONAL LECTURER FOR GRANGE COMES

Mortimer Whitehead, well known as national lecturer of the Grange, will arrive in Portland tonight to attend a meeting of Evening Star Grange tomorrow. Mr. Whitehead is making a tour of the Pacific coast states and will speak to several of the principal granges in Oregon during January. The lecture tomorrow will treat of the work of the grange along educational lines with special emphasis on the uplift efforts being made among farmers to insure better methods of cultivation and marketing of crops.

Littleton to Speak at Columbus. Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 6.—Arrangements are complete for the Jackson day banquet to be given in this city tomorrow night, under the auspices of the Franklin County Democratic club. The principal speaker of the evening will be Martin W. Littleton, congressman-elect of the First New York district.

Curry County Still Dry.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Marshfield, Or., Jan. 6.—Although Curry county was voted wet at the last election the sale of liquor under license has not yet been started. It seems that those who would engage in the liquor business have so far not been able to secure sufficient signatures to their petitions for licenses in the Curry county town.

Several orchards are being planted near Lakeview.

MEN'S SUITS MADE-TO-ORDER

In addition to every Suit or Overcoat ordered during my special sale, I will give ABSOLUTELY FREE an ENGLISH SILK RAINCOAT

$42.50 Suits or Overcoats now $27.50
$45.00 Suits or Overcoats now $30.00

Special Reductions on Full Dress and Tuxedo Suits

With one big shipment of Woolens direct from Huddersfield, England, that went astray and was sent to Portland, Maine, now on hand, and a second shipment of Spring and Summer Cloths arriving unusually early, I am obliged to adopt some such plan of diminishing my line of Fall and Winter Woolens.

Much of this cloth is in staple colors and of such weight that it will do finely for a spring and summer suit. Grays and blues predominate. I anticipated a mild winter, so I bought only such materials as could be worn the whole year round.

MR. MAXWELL
Cutter and Manager

Importer of Foreign Woolens

While I was in England last summer purchasing my woolens I was also able to secure several hundred choice English Silk Raincoats. At the outset I was able to get them at a reduced figure, but when they found the shipment did not reach me until the 29th of December still further price concessions were made in order for me to accept the coats.

Here is what I will do during this sale for one week: I will give absolutely free one of these English Silk Raincoats with every Suit or Overcoat made to order. You can select a coat for yourself, your wife or any member of the family.

I do not have to brag of my reputation for making clothes. The years I have been in business in Portland and the thousands of suits that I have made is enough to testify to my integrity in doing business. Bear in mind that my store is one of the largest tailoring establishments in Portland and carries the largest stock of imported woolens in the city. All garments are cut by me personally, and every detail is carefully watched and all our goods are made on the premises under my personal supervision.
