

ARISTOCRATS OF CATDOM MEOW TO FELLOW FELINES

Two Hundred Tabbits at the First Annual Exhibit Show Marks of Owners' Love and Care; One Valued at $1000.

Cats—more than 200 of them—cats from Oregon, cats from Washington, cats from Minnesota, California, Colorado, house cats, tabby cats, gray cats, black cats, Manx cats, Maltese cats, Persians, Siamese, Angoras, smokes, orange-colored cats, short-haired cats, long-haired cats, sad-eyed cats, green eyed cats, blue, black, brown, yellow and yellow-eyed cats, manx cats, lady cats, meowing cats, scratchy cats, nice cats, mamma cats, papa cats, lorseone cats, little cats, big cats, cats of medium size, hungry cats, purring cats, happy cats, sleepy cats, wide-awake cats—but all perfectly dear and gorgeous cats—these are some of the furred pets that are on exhibition at the first annual show of the Oregon Cat club, which was opened in the Meier & Frank store today.

With the opening of the doors of the store this morning came the cats. They were in boxes, baskets, hamper cats, blankets, buckets, shawl-strap cats, in arms and on shoulders. They arrived with mistresses and masters—but mostly mistresses—and great was the flurry thereupon. Cat-calls and feline shrieks of wrath and indignation echoed and reechoed, swarming through the building like cries of perishing souls. And the cat show was on.

Being allied with the American Cat club, the Oregon society is holding its show under the rules of that organization. Mrs. W. F. Janney of Medford will be the judge. The show will continue until Saturday night. During the week days it will be open from 9 o'clock until 6 o'clock, and on Saturday it will be open until 9 o'clock at night. Admission is free.

Some of the Notable Ones.

One hundred and seventy-four exhibitors are exhibiting more than 200 cats. There is "Flying Fox," the cat that won the coveted sweepstakes at the San Francisco cat show. He is valued at $1000 and is owned by a Portland exhibitor. Also there is Captain McMan's "silver" cat from Hood River, Or., upon which a like price is set. Not to be forgotten is "Mike," the performing cat owned by the firm of truck No. 4 and Engine No. 7 at Third and East Pine streets. Of aristocratic cats there are scores, many with their hand-worked pillows, special drinking bowls and never without their neck ribbon. Ribbons of blue, and of pink, and of red, and of green, and black, and yellow, and crimson, and orange decorate the meowing tabbits.

Woman is supreme at the cat show, although there is a spattering of men. Many of the cages have been decorated with evergreen, filmy var-colored cloths and pictures of pets. And if you don't think there is rivalry, go, as did hundreds of persons today, to the cat show.

PRECEDENT SET BY GOVERNOR IN REQUISITION CASE

Refuses to Issue Requisition For Alleged Forger—Crime too Small; Praise for Judge McGinn.

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., Jan. 19.—In refusing to issue a requisition upon application of Deputy Sheriff Archie Leonard of Multnomah county for the return to that county for prosecution for forgery of Ed Murphy, held at Great Falls, Mont., Governor West said this morning that it would be the practice of the chief executive hereafter not to issue a requisition for the return of any criminal to this state for prosecution unless the crime is of sufficient magnitude or of such serious consequence to the public welfare of the commonwealth as to merit the expenditure of funds to return the criminal to Oregon. This is a departure from the usual practice, for it has been the custom in this state to issue a requisition for the return of criminals who have committed only slight crimes.

Governor West said he had information that Murphy had a wife and child in Portland, and he was more in favor of having the man brought back to Portland where he could be given a chance to earn and to return the money he secured by forgery than to bring him back and prosecute him at considerable expense to the county and state.

"I heartily endorse the practice of Judge Henry McGinn of the state circuit court for Multnomah county in paroling those indicted for light offenses, or who have committed an offense for the first time. I think Judge McGinn is right, and I would like to see other judges of the circuit courts adopt his system. Had I issued a requisition for the return of Murphy Judge McGinn would probably have paroled him and the expense of returning him would be for nothing. Judge McGinn, I believe, would do right in paroling him."

SANDY, OREGON.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Sandy, Or., Jan. 19.—The Keller brothers, who left here before Christmas after going in debt deeply and borrowing money, were caught by Harlow Douglas. They had taken a quantity of silverware belonging to Mrs. Douglas. Goods were found in their possession which they admit having taken from George Ketch's store. They are now in jail in Portland, but the case will be taken to Oregon City.

Emmett Donahue has rented Percy Shelly's blacksmith shops and will put men in to run it, because he has so much repair work from the livery barns.

The foot of snow we had last week is disappearing rapidly. Nearly everything was frozen up, including Dr. Lupton's automobile.

Casper Junker has purchased the building containing W. J. Wirtz's furniture store of Henry Parret. He has sold his hotel and saloon to George Wolfe of Dover, who will take charge as soon as Mrs. Addie Hart's time expires.

The Sandy drug store is being remodeled and will be nicely finished up. R. F. Dittler was a Troutdale caller Tuesday.

George Ketch spent Monday and Tuesday in Portland.

Mrs. E. M. Douglass, who is at the Portland Sanitarium, is slowly recovering from a severe illness.

After being closed for repairs and a slight change in crew, Proctor & Strouss have opened up.

STATE WINSHARD FOUGHT POINT IN ROSENBERG CASE

Can Go to Trial on First Degree Murder Charge and Present Plea for a Less Severe Verdict.

After an argument lasting two days in the case of Dr. J. J. Rosenberg, on trial in the circuit court for causing the death of Vera Hall, Judge Morrow overruled all objections shortly before noon today, and ordered the attorneys to proceed with the case. The judge held that the state has a right to go to trial with an indictment charging first degree murder, but submit testimony warranting a lesser penalty.

It was on this point that the two day legal battle took place. Attorney George Stapleton, Ralph Moody and J. E. Hedges represented the physician, while Deputy District Attorneys Fitzgerald and Collier appeared for the state. The physician's attorneys contended that the state must elect one theory and stick to it. It was further contended that a first degree verdict must be returned or an acquittal, and that a lesser finding could not be asked. While Judge Morrow indicated his opinion that there was merit in this theory, he said he was bound by decisions of the supreme court of Oregon, which are to the effect that the state can return an indictment charging the highest crime, present a case upon its merits and then ask for the penalty for a lesser crime.

Describes Daughter's Last Day. James Hall, father of Vera Hall, was the first witness. He said his daughter was unusually happy the afternoon of July 24, 1910, when she left her home at Oregon City to come to Portland. He further said he did not see her until she was brought home a corpse. He knew Elmer Erickson had been her sweetheart for about three years. Albert Erickson, brother of Elmer, said he became acquainted with Dr. Rosenberg on a South Portland street. Erickson was conductor, and the physician was a patron. Erickson said he told his brother to take Vera Hall

PSEUDO COUNT TRIED AT TOURS FOR SWINDLING

"Count" and "Countess d'Aulby," in the prisoners' dock in the Correction court at Tours, France. The "Count" was on trial charged by the Duchess of Choiseul-Praslin, formerly Mrs. Charles Hamilton Paine of Boston, with a swindle of $200,000 through the sale of spurious paintings. The "Count," who is the son of an English tailor by the name of Dalby, ascribed the swindling charge to his accuser's jealousy and introduced several letters alleged to have been addressed to himself by the duchess. These letters which were concluded in the most endearing terms created such excitement at Tours that public sentiment heretofore in favor of the duchess, swung completely about and warmly championed the d'Aulbys. The public prosecutor in summing up, said that he considered the "Count" a high flying swindler and adventurer, who lived luxuriously by throwing dust into the eyes of his victims. d'Aulby was found guilty and sentenced to one month's imprisonment. The charge against the "Countess" had been dropped.

to Erickson on the fatal Sunday afternoon. The testimony of Elmer Erickson was somewhat of a surprise to those following the case, and was different from what he has told. This morning he said the reason the girl was taken to the physician was on account of her nose bleeding. It was to stop this flow that the trip was made. He waited in an outer office, while the girl went into the private office, he said. Soon the physician asked him to step inside and they began efforts at resuscitation.

When this failed, Erickson said that Dr. Rosenberg told him his "wife" was dead. Until then, the physician thought the girl was his wife.

Objects to Coroner's Knowing. The mother of Vera Hall was notified at Oregon City by telephone and the girl was taken home. Erickson further said that Dr. Rosenberg suggested that the coroner be notified, but he (Erickson) objected, suggesting that the body be taken home, and that publicity would thereby be avoided.

Thomas J. Meyer, undertaker at Oregon City, said he prepared the body for burial. When he took charge, he said, the girl's clothing was still on and he had considerable difficulty in removing the corset, as it was very tight.

The father of the dead girl broke down several times while on the witness stand. The mother of the girl will be heard this afternoon.

Scramble for Los Angeles Bonds. Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 17.—Representatives of a number of foreign capitalists are in Los Angeles seeking a chance to bid on the Owens river project bonds. A meeting with Mayor Alexander is scheduled for this afternoon. A New York syndicate has options on the remaining bonds and the foreigners will probably find no opportunity to bid.

BROKEN SEWERS ARE MANY; LOSS UNKNOWN

As an aftermath of the big rainstorm that deluged the city for two days, the city engineer's office was kept on the run all this morning answering complaints from all over the city on account of broken sewers. No accurate estimate of the damage can be made at this time, but it is probable that it will amount to several thousand dollars. Among the large sewers broken on account of the increased pressure in the mains, due to the heavy downfall, was the 14 inch tube at Front and Harrison streets.
