

WEATHER SUMMARY GOOD AD. FOR CITY

Highest Temperature in 1910
Is 97, Lowest 21; Snowfall
Only Four Inches.

In the annual meteorological summary issued by the local weather bureau for the year ending December 31, are given some interesting facts in regard to Portland's weather and river conditions for 1910. The summary is a new feature gotten out by District Forecaster E. A. Seala, and in addition to miscellaneous data it includes comparative data of the monthly and annual mean temperatures, precipitation, relative humidity since the weather bureau was established, as well as temperature extremes and extremes of wind and precipitation. There are also tables giving the daily river readings for the year, and the mean monthly readings of the Willamette since the records were first kept. Among the miscellaneous data are the following:

Barometric pressure, sea level: Mean, 30.07 inches; highest, 30.73 inches on January 4; lowest, 29.12 inches on January 23.

The last killing frost in spring occurred February 4, and the first killing frost in the fall occurred December 20. No thunderstorms occurred in Portland during the year, but thunder and lightning were noted in the vicinity on several occasions.

A light fall of hail occurred on April 8, and also on December 8.

The total snowfall for the year was 4.2 inches. This is 11.5 inches below the average for 39 years. The entire amount fell during January and February, none occurring during the latter part of the year. The last snowfall occurred on February 23, and the greatest fall in one day was one inch on February 13.

The average amount of sunshine received during the year was slightly below the normal. The deficiency occurred during January and February and from August to the end of the year. During March, April, May, June and July there was an excess of sunshine.

The total amount of precipitation for the year was 6.47 inches less than the normal. The longest period without precipitation was 35 days, from July 21 to August 14, inclusive. During the 64 days from June 23 to August 14, inclusive, only traces of rain occurred on two days; this being the longest dry spell since 1899, when a similar period of 16 days occurred. The longest period of rainy weather was 22 days, from February 9 to March 2, inclusive.

The mean temperatures for the various months and for the year differed from their respective normals as follows: January, -1.5 degrees; February, -2.0 degrees; March, +5.9 degrees; April, -2.6 degrees; May, +3.2 degrees; June, -1.0 degree; July, +0.3 of a degree; August, -2.2 degrees; September, -0.6 of a degree; October, +1.8 degrees; November, +1.2 degrees; December, +1.6 degrees, and for the year, +0.9 of a degree. The greatest departure was in March, which was exceptionally warm.

The highest temperature of the year, 97 degrees, occurred on July 10, and the lowest 21 degrees, on January 5.

The highest water in the Willamette river at Portland occurred on March 5, a stage of 19.6 feet being recorded. During the annual rise in the Columbia, which occurred in May, the highest river stage at Portland was 19.1 feet on the 15th and 16th.

JACKSON CLUB WILL DEBATE FREE TRADE

The debate to be held by the Jackson club, the local Democratic organization, tomorrow night, promises to be a stormy one, for the subject will be "Free Trade Versus Tariff for Revenue Only." The Democrats are as far apart on this subject as the Republicans are. H. B. Van Duser, the president, and R. E. McKay, the secretary of the club, are expected to lead the free trade forces on the floor of the club, in an endeavor to put the club on record. They will be assisted by E. D. Wainman, A. D. Cridge, William Ades and possibly others. The opposing forces will be captained by Bert E. Haney, the new state chairman, and it is likely that George H. Thomas, G. W. Allen, Dr. A. G. Bettman and F. J. Phelan will be found lined up on that side of the question.

The club members among its members nearly all of the influential Democrats and a warm discussion is looked forward to.

Cob pipes, plenty of tobacco and a box of cigars with some music thrown in are expected to make the evening an enjoyable one. A monthly smoker is one of the features of the new organization.

$70 ENGLISH APPLE NOT BIG IN OREGON

In a letter from his sister in St. Mary's college, Holywell, North Wales, C. B. Fye, in charge of the permanent exhibit of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, is told that Hereford, England, too, grows some big apples, and high priced ones. But big as they may be, Mr. Fye says, they are small compared with some of the apples received at the permanent exhibit, which information he has forwarded to his friends in old England, who felt quite proud over the apples referred to in the letter from St. Mary's college.

This wonderful English apple was sold at auction, after some remarkably brisk bidding, bringing 14 pounds, or $70. It was of the Gloria Mundi variety and weighed 27 ounces. It was grown at the King's Acre nurseries, at Hereford. The proceeds of the sale of the apple were devoted to a Covent Garden charity and the price can therefore hardly be considered a fair one upon which to base apple values.

Mr. Fye has written to his sister telling her that while that Gloria Mundi was a good one, the chamber has had on exhibit several apples of different varieties that tipped the scale at 32 ounces and measured 17 1/4 inches in circumference.

NOBLEMAN DIES OF STARVATION

Believed Yahn White Was Norwegian of Royal Blood; Had Considerable Wealth.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Eugene, Or., Jan. 15.—Yahn W. White, said to be a Norwegian nobleman, died in a local hospital here yesterday at the age of 73 years. While he is said to have several thousand dollars in Eugene banks, he is thought by the physicians to have died from starvation after existing on popovers and buttermilk for several weeks. The man was considered by his friends to have been demented from miserly motives. He is the man who applied to the police at Albany some time ago for assistance, and when his clothing was searched several certificates of deposit for large sums of money were found. Notifying the officers of Eugene, directions were received to send the man here, but he escaped and went to Springfield, where he lived in a barn for several weeks in a semi-starved condition.

White worked for the Booth-Kelly Lumber company until a few weeks ago, when he became too weak to work. He was confined to his room in a local lodging house, refusing to be fed, and

For Your Hair Here Are Facts We Want You to Prouve at Our Risk.

Marvelous as it may seem, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. Of course it is understood that in none of these cases were the hair roots dead nor had the scalp taken on a glazed, shiny appearance.

When the roots of the hair are entirely dead and the pores of the scalp are glazed over, we do not believe that anything can restore hair growth.

When Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will do as above stated, it is not strange that we have such great faith in it and that we claim it will prevent baldness when used in time. It acts scientifically, destroying the germs which are usually responsible for baldness. It penetrates to the roots of the hair, stimulating and nourishing them. It is a most pleasant toilet necessity, is delicately perfumed and will not gum nor permanently stain the hair.

We want you to get a bottle of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not relieve scalp irritation, remove dandruff, prevent the hair from falling out and promote an increased growth of hair and in every way give you entire satisfaction, simply come back and tell us and without question or formality we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for it.

We lend our indorsement to Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and sell it on this guarantee, because we believe it is the best hair tonic ever discovered. It comes in two sizes, price 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at The Owl Drug Co., Inc., corner Seventh and Washington streets.

was finally taken to the hospital a few days ago, but he was then too weak to assimilate nourishment.

The man had one friend, A. M. Newman, a tailor, in Eugene, who knew something of his history and is now endeavoring to locate his relatives. Newman says the old man had papers that showed his noble lineage beyond a doubt.

PROF. A. RICHARD
Bruxelles, Le 7 Novembre, 1910.
Mr. R. A. Thompson,
Portland, Oregon, U. S. A.

Dear Sir:—I have been practicing as an eye specialist for many years, have kept well posted on new methods, etc., but never have I seen anything to equal the instantaneous method perfected by you while in Berlin.

Having seen this system demonstrated upon several of the worst cases of eye strain in my practice, I am convinced that this is the simplest, easiest and most accurate method of eye testing discovered.

With this new method you are master of the situation. It is not only new, but a century ahead of the profession. I wish you would mail me a copy of your lecture on "Eye and Nerve Measurement" and I will remit on receipt of same.

Yours truly,
PROF. A. RICHARD.

Commendation from such a distinguished specialist is most gratifying, particularly so because it comes unolicited.
