IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Thomas Talbot and Mrs. Thomas Robertson (Miss Kathleen Burns), were the guests honored with an informal afternoon at bridge yesterday by Mrs. Donald Ranney Munro (Miss Grace Warren). Three tables of the game were enjoyed and prizes captured by Miss Hazel Dolph and Miss Clair Houghton. Following the games a number came in to tea when the table, which was graced with daffodils, was presided over by Mrs. Marion F. Dolph and Miss Nana Robertson. Mrs. Talbot is Mr. Munro's sister, who, with her family, has recently removed from the east to Portland.

Mrs. Harvey W. Scott and Miss Judith Scott are making plans for a southern trip, which they expect to take in the near future.

Mrs. Ralph A. Penton is now in San Francisco and is expected home about the first of February. Mrs. Penton left for the east in September and has spent the major portion of the time visiting relatives in New York. On the way home she has visited a number of the other large eastern cities and stopped in Denver, where she was also the guest of relatives. Mrs. Penton's return journey is bringing her home by way of southern California.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McComb are receiving the congratulations of their many friends on the birth of a daughter last week.

Another pretty farewell was paid Miss Ilse Koehler last night when Miss Angeline Kinney entertained in her honor with dinner followed by a theatre party at the Hellie for Miss Mannering. Guests asked to share the evening with Miss Koehler were Mrs. James A. Dougherty, Miss Anita Burns, Miss Millie Weisinger, Miss Maida Hart, Henry Weisinger, Philip Hart, Chester G. Murphy, Kurt Koehler, Hawthorne Dent and Frank Stewart.

Mrs. W. M. Daly, who leaves tomorrow with her daughter, Miss Irene Daly, for Honolulu and Japan, was the guest of honor at a beautiful luncheon presided over yesterday by Mrs. J. E. Wiley on Montgomery street. Pink carnations and delicate greens were arranged in an attractive center piece on the table, about which were seated Mrs. Daly, Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. J. F. Calbreath, Mrs. J. P. O'Brien, Mrs. M. E. Dana, Mrs. J. M. Hughes, Mrs. J. H. Freeman, Mrs. David Dunne, Mrs. F. H. Flynn, Mrs. Joseph Cronin, Mrs. P. J. Flynn, Mrs. R. M. Dooley, Mrs. J. P. Cronin, Mrs. Caroline Trumbull, Mrs. J. N. Sutton, Miss M. McKay, Mrs. J. F. Daly and the hostess, Miss Cecile Wiley. Entertainment at bridge this afternoon for Miss Daly.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Hirsch are in San Francisco where they have taken apartments at the St. Francis.

Interest in the automobile show now in progress centers about tomorrow night which has been set aside as society light. The garages are splendidly decorated for the occasion and tomorrow the dealers' wives will be present to assist in receiving the guests. Special music is planned in many of the show rooms and it is expected that an array of smart private motors, making the rounds tomorrow will quite equal some of the exhibits. For those who have not their own cars, special machines have been provided to carry the guests about from place to place.

Miss Eliza Kohler is the guest of her sister, Mrs. John A. Bauer on Pacific avenue, San Francisco, for a number of weeks.

The Hi Psi Phi of the North Pacific Dental college have sent out invitations for their annual ball to be given at Murlark hall, Friday.

Gains 30 Pounds in 30 Days

Remarkable Result of the New Flesh-Building Protono, in Many Cases of Run-Down Men and Women.

Protono is a new scientific medicine for the building up of weight.

By George, I never saw anything like the effects of this new treatment. Protono, for the building up of weight like a miracle. I had a cough, a cold, a well known gentleman yesterday speaking of the revolution that had taken place in his condition. I tried to think that there was nothing on earth that could make me fat. I tried tonics, digestives, heavy eating, diet, milk, beer, and almost everything else you could think of, but without result.

Any Man or Woman Who is Thin Can Recover Normal Weight By the Remarkable New Treatment, Protono.

I had been thin for years, and began to think it was natural for me to be that way. Finally I read about the remarkable success brought about by the use of Protono, so I looked to try it myself. In the mirror now I think it is somebody else. I have put on just 30 pounds during the last month and never felt stronger or more 'nervy' in my life.

CRIMINAL LAWS COVER THE CASE

If Guilty of Misdeeds State Food Commissioner Bailey Is Liable.

"If the charges made against J. W. Bailey, state dairy and food commissioner, are confirmed, then the law is broad enough to make him accountable for his misdeeds."

In this way Attorney John F. Logan answered a doubt expressed by District Attorney George J. Cameron as to whether the law was so framed as to make punishment for Bailey possible in case the charge of petty fraud made against him by deputies in his office are proven.

Since the statute (section 1807 of the Bellinger & Cotton code, provides that officials who appropriate public money shall be held criminally liable, the district attorney expressed a thought that the law might not recognize as money the warrants Bailey is said to have drawn on the state pure food fund in his own behalf.

Crime Punishable. Mr. Logan pointed out that in this section the punishment is prescribed for any official who appropriates "any money whatever." The use of the word "whatever" means, said Mr. Logan, that the use of money or its equivalent or representative is made equally punishable. The word was inserted to meet

Mrs. E. H. Harriman of New York, widow of the late financier. As a result of her activity the directors of the Day and Night Bank of New York have decided to change the bank from a state to a national institution and drop its present name. The new name will be the Harriman National Bank. Although this name was chosen in honor of E. H. Harriman, who died in 1909, its selection was due to the close personal interest that Mrs. Harriman takes in its affairs. She, together with Joseph W. Harriman, a distant relative of the financier, control the institution. The Day and Night Bank was the first institution of its kind in the country, and many have since been established in other cities.

DOOR MAT WOMEN

By DARRA MORE. IT WAS a family reunion. Dora and Nora had been separated by great distances for 15 years. Dora is 47 and Nora 45. Both married early in life and both have large families.

In their youth they were so much alike in feature and figure that they were the marvel of their friends, and were usually referred to as the "Wilson twins."

But now Dora and Nora would never be recognized as belonging to the same family, even though the most distant relationship. Nora is the type of the devoted and self-denying mother and wife, the kind that makes over her clothes from year to year, so that Ralph may belong to a "frat" at college and eat the tail-end of the porterhouse steak because husband and the children enjoy the more desirable portions, and who sits up late at night stitching and planning and saving, to the end that husband and the children may be happy and well cared for.

Result, Nora grew into a worn and battered looking "rump," toiling for others, who accepted her on her own valuation. She is their drudge, their slave, that's all. Father spends his time and funds in pleasures with others. The children pursue their various ways without a thought of the little tired mother at home. They never ask her to join them in their diversions, because—well, "Mother is such a stay-at-home, and she isn't smart looking or up-to-date." In other words, her children are ashamed of her.

Dora stands for all that Nora missed. She is a handsome woman, fresh looking, carefully groomed and radiant, radiating an air of peace and poise and distinction that gathers about her a host of admiring friends. Her children and husband adore her and exhibit her. They are proud of their wife and mother. Her wishes are considered first, her judgment, rebus supreme. She is the queen of her household, and the recognized leader of her set.

When I complimented Dora on her success as a wife and mother, she replied: "I have been selfish, and when I feel selfish, I mean the sort that makes the best of yourself for the sake of others. That is the key-note of my married life. I have taken care of myself as well as my family. We shared alike in economy as well as in affluence. We all had as good clothes as we could afford, and as good food as our income provided. Children owe little duties to parents as well as parents to children, and husbands have their duties to wives, as well as wives to husbands."

All of which argues that a little selfishness in wives is a good policy. Think it over, you of the door-mat type, that very hair splitting technical distinction that might sometimes be used in order to evade duty in investigation.

Mr. Logan further pointed out section 1892 where it is provided that an officer of the state who accepts fee or compensation to which he is not entitled, or which is not provided for by law, shall be made criminally liable. Here, again, said the lawyer, is a point that Bailey cannot defend himself against.

Work Resumed at Siuslaw. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Marshfield, Or., Jan. 24.—The harbor improvement work at the mouth of the Siuslaw river will be resumed soon. The work was stopped for a time because of the bad weather. The condition of the mouth of the river has been such that boats could not enter and leave at all times of the year, but when the jetty work is completed the harbor, it is stated by those in charge of the work, will be such that vessels can enter at all seasons. The work is being paid for by government appropriation and by the port commission bond issue.

Splendid for Old People. When the human system declines the accumulated poisons in the blood cause rheumatic pains in the joints, muscles and back. These warnings should be promptly relieved and serious illness avoided by using the following prescription, which shows wonderful results even after the first few doses. It will eventually restore physical vigor. "One ounce compound syrup of Sarsaparilla; one ounce Tonic compound; half pint of high grade whiskey. This to be mixed and used in tablespoonful doses before each meal and at bedtime. The bottle to be shaken each time. Any drugist has these ingredients or will quickly get them for you. Any one can mix

Etiquette of Reception

There are many ways of showing special honor to a guest. In order that all one's friends may have the opportunity to meet some pleasant person who is visiting her, a hostess often issues invitations to a reception. If it is to be a formal reception the invitations may be engraved. In this case they would take this form:

Mr. and Mrs. John Weir
Thursday, January Twenty-sixth
From Eight till Eleven o'clock.
75 Euclid Ave., Portland.

This invitation should be sent to all friends of the family and music should be provided at intervals during the evening, and a table ought to be set with dainty refreshments for the entertainment of the guests. At such a reception hostess and guests would wear evening dress as a matter of course.

A more usual and more pleasant form of reception is given in the afternoon. The invitations are issued in the name of the lady of the house, and it is quite proper for her to send simply her visiting card with "From four to six" written upon it, and the words "To meet Miss Jane Clay," or "Mrs. Elbert Potter," as may be.

The person receiving such an invitation does not send any acknowledgment, but should she be unable to attend the reception she will send her card, so that it may be received by mail on the day and hour.

The hostess with the guest of honor will stand near the door of the drawing room. If the reception is very large guests will be announced as they enter by a butler, if there is one, or else by a man hired for the purpose.

Caterers who provide luncheons and spreads for receptions also provide men to open carriage doors, open the street door and close it after guests arriving and departing and to announce guests at the door of the drawing room.

The hostess gives her hand to the incoming visitor and presents her to the guest of honor. The visitor exchanges a few words of greeting and pleasantness and then passes on into the room where young ladies preside at either end of a beautifully set table.

The refreshments usually consist of dainty sandwiches, salad, perhaps, creamed oysters or chicken bouillon, chocolate or coffee or lemonade. A very delicious lemonade is made by the addition of ginger ale to lemon juice, a few sprigs of mint added to give a pleasant flavor.

Guests do not linger long at a reception, from 20 minutes to a half hour being the usual time.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Kueltnier have been visiting with their daughter, Mrs. Frederick Leinenweber.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

Quickly and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much of a good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is a laxative, stimulant, expectorant and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 oz. Pinex (50 cents' worth) in a pint bottle and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pinex is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated pine extract, and is rich in gaulic acid and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this form.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which is why it has been imitated often, but never successfully. Some of the best known Portland druggists, such as Lane-Davis Drug Company, (Wholesale) and others, think so well of the above recipe that they guarantee it to give satisfaction or refund the purchase price.

MAN'S WORLD WELL STAGED, WELL DONE

Helen Ormsbee Gives Best Bit in a Play Marked by Much Ability.

Rachel Crothers, author of "The Three of Us," has written another intensely interesting and able drama in "A Man's World," which opened for a too short engagement at the Hellie last night. Not only is the play written around a theme and in a manner to challenge attention—and attendance—but it is acted most admirably by Mary Mannering and a company that with one or two exceptions is indeed excellent; while the Shuberts have staged it in a fashion that is astonishingly good—probably influenced thereto by Miss Crothers herself. It takes a feminine mind to see and insist upon the artful bits of staging that characterize this play.

There isn't space to present Miss Crothers' plot here, if there were inclination—suffice it to say that what starts out to be a triangle soon develops into a quadrangle while at intervals, thrown sharply across the action of the drama, is a fifth personality, the pitiful one of a dead woman. Don't judge from that that "A Man's World" is unduly morbid. It is not. It is the story of a woman who has set her ideals on what should be a common sense basis. Whether it is or not, Miss Crothers doesn't attempt to answer in her play, excepting that when it is over she is glad that Frank Ware, the woman portrayed by Miss Mannering, sticks to her views and sends the man she loves about his business—which doesn't happen to be that of marrying her.

All the action takes place in an old New York house in Washington Square. It is perfectly staged and the "atmosphere" is there to a remarkable extent. Those stuccoed ceilings and white marble mantels that infest the vicinity of Fifth street; the furniture one finds in the furnished rooms of the neighborhood given over to talent trying to find a market, the faded and marred wall paper, are as familiar as the Washington arch and the snow covered shrubbery that you catch a glimpse of through the windows of Frank Ware's fourth floor front.

There is not a character in the play that is not to be found walking by the fountain in Washington Square any winter—summer—morning. Miss Mannering gives a broad and intelligent portrayal of the novelist-idealist, Helen Ormsbee as Clara Oaks, the struggling miniaturist, is unbelievably good—her company, Charles Wynette is admirable as Bohm, the kindly young German musician, and Arthur Berthelet and Alphonse Ethier play their roles intelligently. Anne Crowe is the only jarring note—and she's a very loud jar. Only occasionally does she exhibit any ability and then but for a minute. There's a small boy—Mark Short—who acts with the accustomed but always astonishing cleverness of stage children, and a Frenchman nicely done by Claud Bogel.

P. R., L. & P. BUYS 25 MILES OF RAILS

Rails for approximately 25 miles of track have been ordered by the Portland Railway, Light & Power company. They are to be delivered soon and will be used during the year, some for new construction, but the greater percentage to replace the light rails laid during the earlier days of the system. The rails will weigh 60 and 72 pounds, the heaviest used for streetcar work. During the past year the company has been replacing miles and miles of light rails, and this work will be continued until every line in the city has been standardized. The heavy rails give a smoother surface and practically eliminate the danger of derailments.

Vice-President F. L. Fuller, who placed the order, stated this morning that the rails will begin arriving soon. The quantity will represent a weight of about 3000 tons.

VETERAN OF ARMIES OF THE WEST IS DEAD

Silas H. Hicks, a veteran of the Civil War, died yesterday at 204 Occident street. He was born February 17, 1845, at New Carlisle, Clark county, Ohio, and married Mrs. Annie J. Reeves, November

J. 1870, in Fremont county, Iowa. Later he moved to Brighton, Iowa, where he lived for several years, and came to Oregon 20 years ago, taking up residence at Pendleton. The funeral services were held at the undertaking parlors of Dunning & McIntee, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Interment will be at the G. A. R. cemetery. Friends and comrades are invited to attend.

Silas H. Hicks was a private in Company B, Nineteenth Iowa Volunteer Infantry, enrolled August 8, 1862, and was honorably discharged July 19, 1865. His services were with the Armies of the West at Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Chattanooga and Atlanta, and he was with Sherman in his march to the sea. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie Hicks; Robert I. W. A. Lester L. Besse and Bertha Hicks, all of Portland; Mrs. Ella M. Reagar of Pendleton, Or.

Beauty Hints

BY MADAME MARIE
A MASSAGE CREAM WORTH TRYING
Here is a home-made massage cream that should be on every woman's dresser: Get three ounces cerol at the drug store and dissolve in pint of boiling water, stir until cool and smooth. Wash the face, neck and arms and dry carefully, then apply cream, massaging in well. You will find this inexpensive cream works wonders with muddy or sallow complexions, and clears the skin and pores of impurities, giving it a rosy-tinted hue of health.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.
Helen: It is wasting time to massage for scrawiness or underdevelopment. You should try the Vaucraire method, which builds up from the inside. This feeds starved and shrunken tissues, rounds out the form and makes a figure plump and symmetrical. The following recipe can be made at trifling expense: Get an ounce of true galled from your druggist and put in a syrup made by dissolving a cup and a half of sugar and water to make a pint. Two teaspoonfuls before meals is the dose.

J. V.: Shampooing with eggol is not sufficient. You should use a good hair tonic to tone the scalp and hair follicles. An excellent tonic can be prepared at small cost if you get an ounce of botanin at the drug store and pour in a bottle containing a half pint each of alcohol and water. Massage the scalp at night with a little of this and you will be truly surprised at results. After using a short time the hair regains its luster and grows in thick, long and fluffy.
