

SCHOOL BOOKS TO BE PURCHASED BY COMMISSION, PLAN

Charges That Oregon People Pay More for Books Than Those of Other States Rouse the Legislature.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Salem, Or., Jan. 28.—Charges made in the house that the parents of Oregon pupils are paying from 20 to 60 per cent more for school text books than in other states will lead in an attempt at this session to reform the mode of contracting for the books. A change in the board of text book commissioners will also be asked.

The teachers of the state at the convention held early in the winter at Portland demanded that they be given representation on the text book commission. In the bill providing for free text books and introduced by Representative Ralph Clyde of Multnomah, provision was made compelling the governor to name at least three educators on the text book board. Later this and other clauses referring to the commission were withdrawn.

"I did this," explained Clyde, "in order to insure the passage of the text book provision. I had strong intimation that if I did not withdraw the clause relating to the commission that body would fight my bill and that it would go down to defeat in entirety. My intention is to bring up the subjects relating to the commission in a distinct bill."

Saton Takes Stand. During his talk in the house on the bill, Clyde declared that with the aid of "certain interests in Oregon" the price of school books was far above what it should be. In this statement he was backed by Representative Allen Eaton of Linn, who conducts a book store in Eugene and is familiar with the prices of books in this state and elsewhere. "I took this attitude for one reason because it was charged that I would oppose any change in text books because of my personal interests," said Eaton afterward.

"Naturally, if the price of books were reduced my profits would be smaller. But I see abundant room for reform on this subject in Oregon. The school book trust at present appears to be in absolute control. I do not err when I say that the prices here for the same books are from 30 to 60 per cent higher than elsewhere."

The text book commission at present consists of five men appointed by the governor. The statute governing them provides that they shall next meet in February of 1913 and make contracts for school books for the six years following and every six years thereafter. There is now no provision as to whom shall be appointed by the governor and the teachers and other educational interests are demanding that they be given fair representation.

REPUBLICANS OF SPAIN PLOT FOR FALL OF ALFONSO

(Continued from Page One.) In the summer of 1909 after a military court had convicted him of participating in the Barcelona riots of that year. A revision of the case will certainly mean a decision that Ferrer was judicially murdered. This will do Ferrer no good but it is bound to start such an outcry against King Alfonso's government as, in its present deplorable condition, it simply cannot stand.

Premier Canalejas commands a majority in the chamber of deputies and can prevent Deputy Soriano's demand for the Ferrer revision if he likes, but if he does this he will have to concede that he wishes to shield former Premier Ferrer under whose administration Ferrer was killed—in short that he is as much a reactionary as the ultra-reactionary Maura himself.

Monarchy Cannot Escape. Whichever way it goes, the Republicans will be satisfied. If the Ferrer revision is granted they count on a scandal which will upset the throne. If it is refused, King Alfonso will be convicted of cheating the country by pretending to give it a liberal government which is really reactionary. And they do not think the throne can long survive that, either.

It is true that the Republicans want the Ferrer records overhauled, but they would not have insisted on it if Premier Canalejas had convinced them that the present business in his "Church and State" campaign. But they are satisfied that he does not, and for his lack of good faith in the "Church and State" matter, they are making a weapon of the Ferrer case to kill him.

Canalejas Willing But Helpless. "I believe the Premier would really like to do something toward limiting the Church's power," said Senator Soriano, in an interview to the United Press, "but King Alfonso and the Clericals back of him will not allow it. At any rate, he is accomplishing and will accomplish nothing. Everything he has done has been ineffective. It is bound to continue so."

"And you consider the King also responsible for Ferrer's death," I wanted to know. "No," said Senator Soriano, "not for Ferrer's death. That was Maura and Minister of the Interior Clerva. But for the failure of the fight against the church, the king is responsible—yes."

"Well, what," I said, "is to be gained by a reversal of the death sentence against Ferrer—since it has already been executed for a year and a half?" "Nothing will be gained for Ferrer," answered the Republican leader, "but it will be a Spanish Dreyfus case and the present Spanish government is not strong enough to survive a thing like that."

"What will happen?" "It will drive Canalejas out of office—at once." "Will he not immediately be succeeded by someone else?" "No one else can last. There are only two men in Spain who can lead the two monarchial parties—Maura the Conservatives and Canalejas the Liberals. Maura is already impossible. If there is any question about it this Ferrer scandal will settle it. That leaves only Canalejas. When the Ferrer scandal has finished him, too, there will be no one left at all."

"And what then?" "A governmental overturning—a republic."

"How soon?" "I don't know, but not long. The crisis is very near."

Says Spain Is Republican Now. "Spain is republican, though not a republic now. We control the municipal administrations of the big cities. We have majorities everywhere. A large majority of Spaniards are already republicans, in short."

"They don't win elections everywhere, however. But that is because the Conservatives and Liberal election officials don't count their votes."

And will Premier Canalejas agree to the Ferrer revision or not? "The Premier seems to have answered that question himself, some time ago. If I had been in Senator Maura's place," he said, "the verdict against Ferrer would have been the same. But whether or not he exercises clemency is another matter. Perhaps I should. I'm not sure."

One of the most surprising things about Senator Soriano is the boldness with which he talks—propheying revolutions, the upsetting of governments and the fall of thrones. Most Spaniards are very cautious about this, while the present regime endures. But Senator Soriano thinks the present government so hard pressed and the Republicans so strong that he does not believe the former will dare to precipitate trouble by acting until it is literally driven into doing so.

GOOD ROADS WIN THIRD VICTORY; 1 BILL IS PENDING

Barrett of Umatilla introduced the bonding bill and of course voted for it, after making an ineffectual attempt to amend it by depriving county courts of jurisdiction over the highway bonds, but after abutting property owners offer to pay part of the cost. Others opposed to the highway commission bill were Burgess of Umatilla, Merryman of Lake, Oliver of Union and Patton of Marion. Calkins of Lane and Abraham of Douglas were the only senators voting against the highway commission bill who voted against the bonding act.

Fight on Bonding Bill. The only fight of consequence over the bonding bill came on the amendment of Barrett of Umatilla directing county courts to give preference in road building to all roads where abutting property owners give bond to pay 10 per cent of the cost on completion. Joseph of Multnomah wanted to make it 33 1/3 per cent, and Barrett of Washington further amendment fixing the percentage at 25.

Selling, Norton and Carson opposed all these amendments, declaring the matter should be left in the hands of the county courts. They argued it would be unfair to require the expenditure of money in scattered districts, without any unity of plan, simply because some property owners are financially able to put the money for improvements alongside their property.

Joseph, while offering one of the amendments, took practically the same ground. His object in offering the amendment was to fix the percentage so high that such privileges were not likely to be sought. Abraham of Douglas wanted some sort of plan to require money raised within each road district to be expended where it is raised.

In one, two, three order the amendments were voted down, leaving the bill in its original form. This will allow county courts to designate the roads upon which money raised by bond issues shall be spent, so improvements can be carried out in accordance with some general plan.

ROBBERS PLUNDER CANDY STORE AND LEAVE IT ON FIRE

(Continued from Page One.) Beary had left upon his desk and which contained about $30 in dues collected by him as secretary of the Knights of Pythias, was rifled, the thieves taking nothing but the cash and throwing the lodge papers it contained about the floor.

This box had a loose lid, the lid having been torn off about a year ago when burglars relieved it of $700. The interior of the store is a wreck, caused by flames and water. All the woodwork was scorched and the candles were melted into little sugared heaps about the floor. Not a thing in the store escaped damage.

A new stock of goods which had been received yesterday and which had been unpacked in the rear of the store, is a total loss.

The store is located in the Marquam building, Morrison and Sixth streets, and the firemen fought desperately to conquer the flames to prevent them spreading. If the fire had not been discovered in time a serious conflagration might have resulted, as this is in the business district. No trace of the burglars has been found.

SEATTLE CITIZEN IS SEVERELY BEATEN IN BADGER GAME

The second man, who gives the name of H. H. Carroll, in the meantime appeared at the bank, but payment on Robey's check was refused. Carroll returned to the Martinique only to be placed under arrest. He was held at the city jail until a charge.

BILL TO ABOLISH PENALTY OF DEATH WILL PASS SENATE

Members Who Were Absent at Friday's Session Are Expected to Vote Favorably When Reconsidered.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Salem, Or., Jan. 28.—Though the senate yesterday failed to pass the bill to abolish the death penalty in Oregon, the indications are it will ultimately pass that body next Tuesday, for which time it has been made a special order.

After the bill which abolishes hanging had been placed on the shelf by a vote of 15 yeas and 10 noes, 16 votes being required. McCulloch of Baker moved to reconsider. Most members of the bill, McCulloch called attention to the fact that five senators were absent, and he said he was willing to give the absentees a chance to vote.

Senator Bean, who was absent in eastern Oregon on the special committee investigating the asylum site, is said to be a friend of the bill, and one or two other absentees are claimed for it. Its passage next Tuesday is therefore considered a certainty by its friends.

Debate Very Active. The vote yesterday was preceded by earnest debate, while crowded lobbies looked on and listened. Patton and Malarkey spoke for the bill, declaring it in line with advanced civilization. Dimick spoke against the bill.

"Murder is rampant in this state," said Dimick. "We ought to hang footpads as well as men who murder, and I would amend the law in that way, if it were left to me. Do you mean to tell me a man guilty of treason should not be hanged?"

"What reason can you give me for not hanging that man Roselair, who killed his family, or Jim Finch, who in cold blood shot down Ralph Fisher? He is better off and the state is better off when they are gone. And this man Webb, who killed Johnson and put his body in a trunk—should we put him in the penitentiary and let him remain a burden on the community? We should deal with the murderer as he deals with society, and you cannot tell me that life imprisonment is any such deterrent to death to the man who commits crime."

Declares Dimick Bloodthirsty. Malarkey declared Dimick was bloodthirsty. He defended the bill as increasing the certainty of punishment, which he held to be the true deterrent.

Those supporting the bill to abolish the death penalty were Abraham, Barrett of Washington, Bowerman, Calkins, Hoskins, Joseph, Locke, Malarkey, Nottingham, Oliver, Parrish, Patton, Von der Heilen and President Selling.

Those opposed were Barrett of Umatilla, Burgess, Dimick, Kollhaer, Locke, McCulloch, Merryman, Miller, Norton, Sinnott—10.

Bean, Carson, Chase, Hawley and Wood were the absentees.

The bill voted on provides that hereafter the punishment for murder, treason and assault on a guard by a convict shall be life imprisonment, and that those convicted of first degree murder or assault on a guard may only be pardoned on the ground of newly discovered evidence and then only after the supreme court has reviewed the new evidence, certifies the record to the governor with the opinion that the prisoner is innocent.

WARRANTS ISSUED FOR ARREST OF 7 REPRESENTATIVES

(Continued from Page One.) Salem until noon today at least in view of the fact that but three more members of the session remained and little had been done as yet. Despite an overwhelming vote in favor of the adjournment until Monday he ruled that the house had decided otherwise.

As soon as the speaker left the stand he was surrounded by a dozen members, who declared they had business interests required their attention, and asked to be excused.

"I will excuse no one, and if you leave we will send the sergeant-at-arms after you," replied Rusk.

Only Four Multnomah Men Present. Finding the speaker firm in his stand, half a dozen of the Multnomah members got together and decided that they would leave without permission. Eight or ten from other counties agreed to stand with them and also to be among those missing today. In consequence when the house met this morning there were only four Multnomah members present, Fouts, Abbott, Collins and Clyde.

After the house had been called to order and a roll call taken, Speaker Rusk announced that there were only 37 present, three less than the necessary two-thirds required to form a quorum. A call of the house was ordered and the doors ordered locked while Sergeant-at-Arms Ely was sent in search of Representative Abbott, who was somewhere in the building. Ely was also instructed to bring in any others he might find in the building.

Officer to Portland. Thompson of Lake asked that the sergeant-at-arms be instructed to bring in any others he might find in the building. Ely was also instructed to bring in any others he might find in the building.

Willard Wirtz, a newspaper correspondent, was appointed by the speaker as an assistant to aid Ely in the search for the missing men.

In the meantime the doors were kept locked and Doorkeeper J. F. Singer told not to permit any members to leave without a pass from Speaker Rusk. McKinney of Baker asked for an adjournment so that the committees might go to work. Eaton of Lane objected to the adjournment and suggested that instead, the committees be excused, subject to the call of the house. Buchanan of Douglas favored the adjournment, declaring the house could not do business even if 40 were present and that he would not wish any of his bills to be brought up at such a time.

"It would probably be a good thing to consider some of the bills when 40 were here," replied the speaker. "A good man that ought to be, would very likely be killed off."

er" when McKinney again called his attention to the motion to adjourn. "I haven't any recollection of such a motion," declared Rusk and the motion to excuse the committees was carried.

While the sergeant-at-arms was on his way to Portland, a resolution was framed providing for the fine and censure of those who failed to appear. There followed an amusing discussion and various outbreaks of wit, punctuated by taps from the speaker's gavel, as to whether the house had any authority to transact business of this sort without a quorum. It was finally decided the house could put through such a proposition and a special committee composed of Buchanan, Brooks and McKinney revised the resolution and reported it back to the house. It provided for the fine of $5, and carried with it the censure of the house. It was unanimously adopted.

It was then decided to adjourn until 10 o'clock Monday morning. No official action was taken to recall the sergeant-at-arms, but some of the members telephoned to Portland and told the absentees of the adjournment and that they would not have to appear until Monday.

Representative Fouts gave the sergeant-at-arms a letter to Chief of Police Cox, asking the latter to furnish patrolmen to assist the house officer in making the arrests.

It afterward developed that McKinney had made a motion to adjourn until Sunday morning and not Monday morning. Speaker Rusk, misunderstanding him, he says, and it will be necessary for those members in town tomorrow to meet and adjourn until Monday. The constitution provides that when there is not a quorum present the legislature can only adjourn from day to day. Speaker Rusk was notified and he will call the house to order so that a motion to adjourn until Monday can be made.

List of Absentees. Here is the list of the house absentees for whom the sergeant-at-arms is searching: Ambrose, Amme, Bigelow, Clemens, Cole, Chatten, Bryant and Cotel of Multnomah, Bonebrake of Benton, Buckley of Gilliam, Carter, Magons and Jones of Clackamas, Church of Union, Derby of Hood River, Eggleston and Neuner of Douglas, Hingsting and Neuner of Douglas, Leinenweber of Clatsop, Mahoney and Mann of Umatilla and Tigard of Washington.

Bryant, Bonebrake and Mann are at Pendleton as members of the asylum site investigating committee. Eggleston and Leinenweber are ill.

RETAIL MERCHANTS ADJOURN SESSIONS

Medford Chosen as the Next Meeting Place; Officers and Directors Named.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Salem, Or., Jan. 28.—Resolutions condemning the practice of wholesalers selling direct to large consumers, condemning the parcels post, protesting against the creation of a public utilities commission and endorsing the Portland pure food show were adopted by the Oregon Retail Merchants association before they adjourned yesterday afternoon the three days' session held here this week. Medford was selected as the next meeting place of the annual convention.

It was suggested by the merchants that the wholesaler can remedy the practice of selling direct to restaurants in small towns by billing through the local dealer and those wholesale houses that continue to sell direct to such consumers will be boycotted by the retail merchants. The resolutions aimed at the wholesalers were unanimously endorsed by the merchants.

Before adjourning the association commended the passage of the measure introduced in the senate by Senator Kellaher prohibiting the sale of bleached flour, the peddlers' license law and state forest protection was endorsed. The convention was easily the most successful yet held by the state association.

N. A. Perry of Houlton was reelected president and Charles B. Merrick of Portland was reelected secretary over his protest. A. Alexander of Pendleton was made first vice president; W. A. Bell of Eugene, second vice president; Enoch Brayford of Hood River, third vice president; Thomas Watts of Scappoose, treasurer. The following directors were named: J. Mann, Dan Kellaher and E. F. Fisk for Portland; E. Warren for southern Oregon; C. M. Eppley of Salem and H. Henderson of Springfield for the Willamette valley and G. Snodgrass and R. E. Campbell for eastern Oregon.

The people of Seio owning their light and water plant, pay only about half the rates of most small cities.

OUTLOOK GOOD FOR NEW ELECTRIC LINE

Hood River, Or., Jan. 28.—From the present outlook the immense water-power in Hood river, amounting to 10,000 horsepower per mile, will be utilized and distributed west as far as Portland and east as far as The Dalles. The chief surveyor of a large holding company is in Hood River at the present time waiting for the snow to disappear so as to make necessary surveys for the construction of the plant and for a pole route out of the city. It is stated that Mosler will be supplied with lights and power from this source. Those who understand the situation here are confident that Hood River valley will be supplied with an electric railway during the coming season.

Important Prescription For Stomach Troubles

This comes from reliable medical authority as being one of the most remarkable prescriptions of recent years as demonstrated in the results shown by its widespread use in hospital work and private practice. It is said to give immediate relief for distress after eating, belching, sour stomach, dizziness and headache, and if used for sufficient time will eradicate the worst dyspepsia.

"Two outstanding cases of Peptic ulcers since syrup of Ginger: one ounce Catandir compound. Mix and use one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bedtime." Catandir always comes put up in one ounce sealed packages. Any druggist should have it in stock by this time and it is quickly rest from his wholesale house. For best results mix the Peppin and the Ginger, then let stand about an hour before adding the Catandir. It will be more convenient to get the ingredients from the druggist and mix them at home. Those who have tried this are enthusiastic over its prompt and effective action.

WOULD ABOLISH WHIPPING POST

House Votes to Amend Statute Governing Wife Beaters by 43 Votes.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Salem, Or., Jan. 28.—Delaware and Maryland should feel rather isolated and deserted today. The house yesterday declared that Oregon ought to depart from the fold of states which sanction the relic of witchcraft days—the whipping post—leaving the two eastern commonwealths as the last of those clinging to the ancient custom.

Buchanan of Douglas made an eloquent fight to amend the statute governing assault and battery so as to omit the section providing for the whipping post for wife beaters.

"It is contrary to the constitution, which provides that there shall be no unusual or cruel punishment for any crime," he declared. "It is a relic of the barbarous ages, for when it is enforced it deprives a man of his self respect without reforming him. To my knowledge it has only been enforced twice, once in Portland and at another time in eastern Oregon, but I believe the house could do nothing better at this session than repeal this section."

Eaton of Lane made a strong fight against the change in the law, maintaining that a wife beater deserved nothing less than the whipping post. He was in the minority, however, and the Buchanan bill was passed with 43 votes.

Fouts of Multnomah presented a minority report from the revision of laws committee on house bill No. 41, by Peterson of Umatilla, by which any person over 21 could serve a summons. Fouts termed the bill a menace which would be a medium for fraud on the part of unscrupulous persons and would work against rich and poor alike. Peterson took the opposite view and maintained it would save large sums of money to the poor people. The debate grew acrimonious and Peterson replied to Brooke of Malheur and Neuner of Douglas with some decidedly personal remarks in which he questioned their intelligence. Fouts won in his fight and the bill was killed.

Oregon will have a fiscal agent in New York city if house bill No. 83, approved by the representatives yesterday, passes the senate. It provides for the appointment by the governor of a responsible banking institution to act as agent after furnishing bonds which will safeguard the state.

CLARENCE D. HILLMAN ADJUDGED IN CONTEMPT

(United Press Leased Wire.) Seattle, Jan. 28.—Clarence D. Hillman, the wealthy real estate man, who says he has made his millions selling residence lots to poor people on the installment plan, is again at liberty, having furnished $2500 bonds after being adjudged guilty of contempt of court by Federal Judge Donworth. It was proved that Hillman sent circular letters to jurors who were to hear evidence against him.

Hillman is under $20,000 bonds for trial next Tuesday on a charge of conspiracy in using the United States mails to defraud. The judge found that he mailed circulars to jurors, aiming to influence them in his trial. Sentence was postponed until after the conclusion of the original trial. Hillman alleged that he had sent out 28,000 of the circulars promiscuously and did not intend to mail them to the jurors specifically. Hillman's printer swore that he had delivered only 500 of these circulars to Hillman's office.

Hanging Is Delayed. (United Press Leased Wire.) Victoria, B. C., Jan. 28.—G. F. Davie, solicitor, will take the case of Sumner Elliott, now under sentence to be hanged here February 2 for the murder of Captain Elliott, to the supreme court of Canada. This action is practically a reprieve, as Allen cannot be hanged until his case is passed on by the supreme court.

DOROTHY ARNOLD HIDING, POLICE SAY

Withdraw From Search, Which Is Kept Up by Private Detectives.

(United Press Leased Wire.) New York, Jan. 28.—Denying that Dorothy Arnold, the missing daughter of Millionaire Francis Arnold, has been kidnaped, and asserting that she is hiding in New York, the police today withdrew from the case. They have refused to give definite reasons for their belief.

Arnold declares the girl has been abducted and is probably dead. He will continue to employ private detectives in the effort to learn his daughter's fate.
