

TEN SHOSHONES IN RACE FOR LIFE

Two Sheriffs and Squad of Nevada Police Pursue Murderers.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Elko, Nev., Feb. 24.—Hastening to head off a party of 10 Shoshone Indians, who are suspected of having killed four wealthy stockmen in Washoe county nearly a month ago, Sheriff Ferrell of Washoe county, Sheriff Har- riss of Elko county, Sergeant Buck of the state police and a big posse left here today for Old Tuscarora.

The Indians were trailed 142 miles by the state police, from Little High Rock canyon, where the massacre occurred, to within 12 miles of the Indian reservation, near the Bruneau river. The trail then turned north- west, the band evidently heading for the Duck Valley reservation for Shoshones and Bannocks, lying partly in northern Elko county and partly in Idaho. If the Indians succeed in reach- ing the reservation, near the Bruneau river, it is doubtful if they can be captured, for the Jarbridge mountains there are thousands of feet high and afford inaccessible hiding places.

One old warrior, three young braves, two old squaws and one 17-year-old girl and three children are in the In- dian party. The party was 12 days ahead of the trailers at Winnemucca, but Sheriff Ferrell, by traveling 220 miles by rail and then starting out on horseback, expects to head them off be- fore they reach the reservation, 150 miles north of Elko.

The Indians are said to be the same who last April shot down one of a party of three men who discovered them in northern Elko county in the act of driving away stolen horses. They then shot the horses, buried them and fled westward.

It is considered certain that the sher- iffs and their posses will cross the trail of the Indians tomorrow and that a desperate battle will result.

plaintiffs that a logging road is not a common carrier and consequently can- not exercise the right of eminent do- main in securing or condemning a right of way across private land. Some time ago the county court granted the Coox Bay Timber & Coal company a right of way across the lands of Sanderson and Brunell and later granted the Smith- Powers company the right to lay tracks on this right of way.

It is stated by attorneys in the case that a decision unfavorable to the lum- ber company would be far reaching in its effect upon other similar cases.

Terminal Grounds at Eugene.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Eugene, Or., Feb. 24.—An agent of the Oregon Electric Railway company has been in Eugene for several days past securing options on several pieces of residence property on West Fifth street presumably to be used for depot and terminal grounds for the proposed extension of the line from Salem this year. This is the street over which the company holds a franchise and over which it will enter the city from the north. It is reported here that the company is assembling materials in Salem for an early beginning of the work of building the road to this city.

LAWSUIT WILL BE OF WIDE INTEREST

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Marshfield, Or., Feb. 24.—A lawsuit, the result of which will be of wide in- terest to lumbermen, has been started in the circuit court of this county. The Smith-Powers Logging company has a camp on South slough with a track ex- tending to the waterway. George San- derson and Alfred Brunell have started the action against the logging company to remove the tracks from the lands of the plaintiffs over which the logging railroad crosses. It is held by the
