(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
North Yakima, March 4.—Dr. C. J. Taft, one of the early day North Yakimans who moved up from Old Town in the historic exodus 25 years ago, went down this morning to look at the rails which meant that a new road had com-pleted its track into the city. It is mething for which Dn Taft has been semething for which Ds Taft has been waiting a good many years. One of the first pieces of freight the Northern Pacific carried for anybody in this district was a carboy of ammonis for Dr. Taft, who was the pioneer Yakima druggist. The ammonia cost $3 in Chicago and the freight charges were $11. For a long time he refused to accept it, and finally some sort of a compromise was effected. But he has never forgotten about it, and rejoices that the day when the North Coast, a rival road which will cause reduction of freight rates, is hers.

THE HALLMARK OF QUALITY

Emancipates People From Being Plate or Bridge Victims

As to the third improvement in dentistry outlined in our talks, we said that the majority of people were wearing plates of false teeth when it could have been avoided. For example, a person has three or four teeth on the upper jaw, and, let us say, a half dozen on the lower jaw. Perhaps these remaining teeth are solld and perhaps they are not. The patient complains that he can no longer masticate his food and are not. The patient complains that he can no longer masticate his food and that he is otherwise having constant trouble. The dentist promptly suggests extraction, and a plate of false teeth to follow. Have you ever stopped to realize what this means to the poor victim? A tooth once extracted is gone forever. All the teeth once extracted can never be restored. The unfortunate one must wear a plate of false teeth the rest of his or her life. Think of that!

By our alveolar method if there had been two or more teeth on either jaw, whether solid, sound or loose, makes no difference, we could have prevented the wearing of a plate of false teeth. All we require is two or more teeth on either jaw, with these to start with we can give you back your 28 teeth, and I will defy anyone, dentist or layman, to tell the substitutes from the original ones. Each tooth will be as solid and useful as any tooth in any human being's mouth. In this way we have saved many a one the discomfort of wearing a plate of false teeth, and we are prepared to save you a similar discomfort of you are in that condition.

Any dentist who would pull good teeth to make room for a plate is a criminal pure and simple. Most every dentist in this city knows positively that we in this city knows positively that we cure every case of pyorrhea that is cur-

Commonsense is the ability to detect values—to know a big thing from a little one. I'd rather possess commonsense than have six degrees from Trinity College, Oxford.

Dentists are continually cautioning the public to save their teeth; that is, not to have them extracted. But they refer solely to decaying teeth, which they wish to have the opportunity of filling or erowing. Of course, there is little else to do with a decayed tooth but to fill it, but these same dentiats who implore you to save your teeth will pull good teeth without a tremor simply because they are loose from a disease. We wish to reiterate that there is no need of extracting or losing any tooth simply because it is loose. We have a device and a remedy by which we can fasten loose teeth and make them forever solid. This is a part of the system we have originated.

Now, with regard to diseases of the figure in which dentists are so pathetically helpless. In the course of the fiften years we spent developing our alycelar system of dentistry, we also found something that will stop pus forming in the gums: that will prevent the gums from receding and thus either protruding the teeth or forcing them out altogether. We can give the gums for more known this system to fall in any diseased condition of the gums. We may this understood the system we have originated.

As to the third improvement in dentistry outlined in our talks, we said that the majority of people were wearing plates of false teeth when it could have been avoided. For example, a per-

Alveolar Teeth, Where Bridgework Is

If only your front teeth are left, say 3 or 4 or more, we can replace all those that have been lost on both sides clear back with perfect Alveolar teeth, whilst bridgework would be impossible, even if you had 8 or 10 front teeth to tie to. If you have only two back teeth on each side, say, molars, we can supply all the front teeth that are missing with beautiful, serviceable, lifelike, Alveolar teeth. This could not possibly be done by the bridge route. And where bridgework is possible, there is no comparison between the two. A very large percentage of our work is taking out bridgework put in by supposedly high-class dentists and replacing it with the beautiful and artistic Alveolar Teeth, And, unlike bridgework in another respect, it is practically painless. No boring or cutting into the gums, nothing to be dreaded. Now, then, prices being equal, which would you choose?
