Case of Love Minted At.

Miss Lawrence is said to be the intended bride of the prisoner, and will not make complaint against the man. Hulin claims that the hair found in his room was a quantity that Miss Lawrence had purchased and given him, she being unable to use it. A large portion of it, however, is of various lengths and is believed to have come from the heads of other Portland girls who have not made complaint to the police,

Detectives Carpenter and Price who are working on the case are attempting to locate the black haired girl with four curls hanging down her back whom Hulin clipped in front of the Meier & Frank store Saturday when he was seen by Belden, and if friends know who the girl is they are urged to notify the police.

Two Charges Filed.

Hulin is held on two charges, both filed against him by Miss Esther Ritter, one being assault and battery which prosecuting claims against the department within two years after quitting charge is interpreted in a broad sense and the other is a charge of larceny in the service.
