

THE FIRST ANNUAL SHOW OF THE NORTHWEST LIVESTOCK ASSOCIATION WILL OPEN AT UNION STOCK YARDS TOMORROW

The first annual livestock show of the Pacific Northwest Livestock association will open tomorrow in the Union stock yards on Columbia slough. Essentially the show will be a fat stock exhibit, and will be the first of its kind held in the northwest.

Conducting the show will be A. J. Splawn, president of the Pacific Northwest Livestock association, and D. O. Lively, general manager, vice-president of the Union Stock Yards company.

The show will be held for the primary purpose of showing growers the utility of good breeding and good feeding, and also to bring into prominence the fact that Portland offers one of the best markets for livestock in the world. Cattle from Montana, Idaho, Washington, California and Oregon will compete in the show.

More Than 100 Carloads.

More than 100 carloads of beef cattle, hogs and sheep will be on exhibit. Most of the exhibits had arrived yesterday, but there were a few carloads still due. Among them were a monster steer, three years old, owned by J. E. Reynolds, of Arlington, Or., one of the largest shippers in the state; three animals—An Aberdeen Angus cow, shorthorn and Hereford—owned by J. M. Evans, of Boise, Ida.; and a mammoth steer, owned by Jim Wilson, of Shaniko. Mr. Evans' cow weighs about 1500, and the steers about a ton each.

R. H. Jones, of the firm of Bales & Jones, which owns a lot of ranches in the Big Hole basin, Montana, arrived yesterday with 16 carloads of famous Big Hole hay fed cattle. In these cars were about 19 show animals.

"We feed our cattle nothing but hay," said Mr. Jones. "They are raised in the Chicago market for their dressing quality and for the quality of the beef. I think there is not a place in the world for fattening cattle like the Big Hole basin. Our cattle bring higher prices than any other on every market, and we raise them for about half of the cost of raising corn fed cattle. We are going to ship more extensively into the Portland market, because we realize what an excellent chance it gives nearby growers."

Attendance to Be Large.

The fat stock show is expected to attract to Portland hundreds of livestock growers from over all the northwest. From every part of the five states growers are sending their prize cattle and many who are not putting cattle on exhibition, are coming to see the show. J. L. Cox, who won fame for the number of cattle he shipped into Alaska during the last few years, will attend the show.

Practically every pen in the stock yards will be filled with prize cattle, gathered from over all the northwest. Judges from Denver, the Washington Agricultural college and from Moscow, Ida., will go over the cattle. The Pacific Northwest Livestock association has offered more than $4000 in cash prizes.

One feature of the show will be the students' judging contest, in which students from the different agricultural colleges in the five states will participate. The draft horse exhibit is expected to attract many, as will the sheep and hog exhibits. A series of lectures by prominent figures in agricultural college and in experiment work, will be given.

New Feature Planned.

There will be a feature at the show that has not been put on the program. M. Plummer, secretary and treasurer of the stock yards, has called the attention of the public to it, and has asked the newspapers to notify the police. Miss E. J. Hayes and Miss Louise Bohoskey, who are putting on the extra feature, do not agree with him about the police, but they said yesterday that if the police were notified they should each take enough money along to buy a hat band. Miss Hayes, "the reporter" at the stock yards, and her partner, the telephone exchange operator, have arranged to sell leather hat bands, on which they have burned "P. U. S. Y. Fat Stock Show—1911." These hat bands they will offer for sale for 5 cents each. Thus an infant industry has sprung up within the stockyards.

RICH MEN HAVE PRESS "SYSTEMS"

Prominent Americans Are Erratic in Talking to the Public.

(Publishers' Press Leased Wire.)

New York, March 18.—Some observer of the great men of finance and industry has figured out their records for loquacity with interesting results. Here they are: The financial community looks to John W. Gates—he has taught them to—for an optimistic utterance at least once a month. He is Judge Gary's principal rival. James J. Hill only talks when the spirit moves him. Charles M. Schwab is rather erratic; sometimes he gives out interviews thick and fast, but at other times he remains silent for long periods. President Brown of the New York Central for a while held the record for public statements, and he is still in the field, though his recent pronouncement that he had not a dollar invested in railroad stocks was regarded as a trifle injudicious just at that time, when every railroad wants to raise capital, since, obviously, if every investor followed President Brown's example the railroads would be in difficulties—a railroad cannot be run on air.

President Ripley of the Santa Fe has not been voluble of late; since his terribly pessimistic prognostication, followed immediately, it may be recalled, by a less doleful one, he has been inconspicuous. President Vanderlip of the National City bank is never publicly quoted these days, whereas in former years he occasionally favored the public with his views.

J. P. Morgan occasionally passes a terse remark about his health in reply to the persistent inquiries of reporters, but beyond that he keeps his own counsel. Jacob H. Schiff will not say a word for publication until he has put several hundred or several thousand miles between him and New York. John D. Rockefeller has ceased to occupy a prominent space on the front pages of the newspapers each week. James Speyer only on rare occasions will come forward with a statement on financial matters; when he does speak he usually says something worth while.

Edwin Hawley has no fixed rule; if one knows him sufficiently well he will talk, though not particularly volubly, about his own properties, but he believes in minding his own business and letting other people do the same. Otto H. Kahn really made his debut in the way of entering the "literary" field only the other day, his appreciation of the late Edward H. Harriman being his maiden effort. Henry F. Davidson is unusually frank and consequently very popular with the press representatives. The younger generation of financiers as a whole are readier to realize the advisability of standing well with the public than were their predecessors, although the latter have also in recent years been obliged to modify their temperamental reticence.

A Paradoxical Reply.

"Doctor, do you think eyeglasses will alter my appearance?" inquired Mrs. Gunson anxiously. "I shall at least expect them to improve your looks," replied the physician, of entering the "literary" field

Good Tomorrow for This World's Most Famous Beauty Specialist

An opportunity is now offered every reader of this paper to consult the world's most famous beauty specialist, Harriett Meta, of Paris, London and Syracuse, absolutely free. A little over three years ago there was nothing known which, in our judgment would actually remove wrinkles, but at that time Harriett Meta made the important discovery which has since made her famous in two continents. She demonstrated the great power of her new process by taking her own wrinkles out with her three nights, after she was 40 years old, and today Meta's face is still free from wrinkles, her cheeks full and plump and her skin and complexion is a delight to behold in fact, by many she is considered the most beautiful woman in all Paris. Her remarkable discovery was brought before the judges of the Paris Exposition Internationale for their investigation, and in both instances they quickly awarded her gold medals thereon. The French government also honored her with a patent on her new process, and patents are now pending before the U. S. government at Washington. London journals sent their beauty editors to investigate her method and their high respect for her discoveries made her famous almost overnight, so that she was eagerly sought after by French courtiers and the highest ladies of high title and rank. The beauty address of the London Outlook wrote, "An interview with her would be a revelation to those who are at last might be found the secret to restore youth and beauty." Many of those who have used her process report most astonishing results. Mrs. Mary J. Davis of 24 South 4th street, West St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used her process deep and of long standing, so you can imagine my surprise when, after only two applications they entirely disappeared. I am 40 years old, and I had not thought it possible to erase them, but now when I view my changed reflection in the mirror I feel like a new woman. I have been told that has been wrought." Mrs. M. A. Edwards, of Raleigh, N. C., says: "Since using the treatment, my wrinkles have disappeared. I am 40 years old, and I had not thought it possible to erase them, but now when I view my changed reflection in the mirror I feel like a new woman. I have been told that has been wrought." Mrs. M. L. Lee, 221 East Virginia street, Evansville, Ind., writes: "I used the treatment one night and it succeeded in entirely removing my wrinkles leaving my face as soft and free from lines as a child's." Miss Henrietta Jackson, of 3 Melville big, Pittsfield, Mass., says: "My treatment is a Godsend to womankind. I wish every woman could know as I know the wonderful results which are produced by your treatment. Since Miss Meta made her remarkable discovery imitations have naturally sprung up all over the country. Some of them have copied Harriett Meta's advertisements and literature to such an extent that the public is often at a loss to distinguish the imitation from the real. We are therefore authorized to announce the following remarkable offer, which cannot be made by any other beauty specialist. Harriett Meta will forfeit $1000 in gold if she fails to prove that she holds nine gold medals and three grand prix on her discoveries from international exhibitions. She will forfeit $1000 in gold if anyone can prove that she did not take out her own wrinkles with it in three nights exactly as she claims. She will forfeit $1000 in gold if every testimonial and sworn statement which she publishes is not absolutely genuine. She will forfeit $1000 in gold if anyone can show advertisements similar to hers published in any newspaper or magazine in the United States or Europe prior to her own advertisements. All arrangements have been made with Harriett Meta to furnish free information in regard to her marvelous process for removing wrinkles to all Portland Journal readers. Alveolar Dentistry And Beautiful Teeth An Asset! It Does Away Entirely With Plates and Bridgework

That clever and truthful philosopher, Pascal, remarked, "If the nose of Cleopatra had been a little shorter it would have changed the history of the world." Whether this is so or not, we know that beauty is an asset and beauty comes from health and cleanliness. If you have beauty you will be happy, because beauty is the most natural thing in the world. It is natural to acquire health and cleanliness, and to watch carefully to keep it. If that happens the reputation he has worked a lifetime to acquire will vanish in much shorter time—had news has a faculty of traveling faster than thought. It is a proverbial fact that a lie will travel ten miles while truth is getting its pants on. So we wish to reiterate that if one in a hundred who see our ads, believed one-half we claim for this wonderful Alveolar Method, we could not employ enough good dentists to serve the demand.
