"I am arranging for a series of meetings in various parts of the city," said. "and I expect to go before the voters and tell them just where I stand. I have not fully made up my mind concorning Mr. Werlein's challenge, but it seems to me it would be best to go ahead with my arrangements and hold my own meetings."

Rushlight declared himself confident of victory at the primary, and promises himself in circulation among the voters until election day.

Stands on Record. "I am standing on my record in the council," he said. "I am advocating a municipal paving plant to break up the present system of paving, by which there is no right of competition. Gay Lombard, who was challenged by Werlein along with Rushlight, has accepted the invitation and arrangements for the meeting will be made in a few days. He says he hopes Rushtight will decide to go before the people in the joint meetings, so the people will have opportunity to place an estimate on all condidates at the same time. He said, so far as he is concerned, he will assure both Rushlight and Werlein in advance that it is not his purpose to indulge in personalities at the joint meetings.
