

FORTUNE IS LEFT TO OREGON SISTER

Katherine Matthews Commits Suicide After Reading Pathetic Poem.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 Seattle, Wash., May 10.—After crying over a magazine poem, "A Book and a Running Brook," Mrs. Katherine Matthews, aged 32, wealthy, divorced, went into her bathroom in the fashionable Belgravia apartments and drank carbolic acid.

Mrs. Matthews had steel and oil stock and real estate worth $50,000, which she left to a sister, Mrs. Marie Thomas of Gaston, Or.

Mrs. Matthews had grieved over the suicide of an old friend, whose identity is the subject of police speculation.

G. W. Strickland, an Alaskan, was in Mrs. Matthews' apartments at the time. He claims to have known her in Alaska, but was unable to give a reason for the sudden suicide, he said. The case is somewhat similar to that of the man who last week drowned himself in Lake Washington, after brooding over Shelley's morbid lines.

Strickland later told the officers he thought the woman had made threats recently to take her life. Her maiden name was Matheny. A few weeks ago she had a fist fight with another woman at the Archibald hotel and then she moved to the Belgravia apartments, 1521 Eighth avenue.

Gaston, Or., May 10.—In addition to Mrs. Marie Thomas of Gaston, Mrs. Matthews had sisters living in Salem, Or., Yamhill, Or., Long Beach, Wash., and Oregon City, Or., and a brother in Silverton, Or. She was born in Salem, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Matheny, now both dead.

Mr. Matthews is in Alaska and there are no children. Mrs. Thomas says her sister was not divorced until last November. Mrs. Matthews had lived in Portland as well as Salem. Mrs. Thomas does not credit the story of being left a fortune. She will leave this evening for Seattle and will probably take the body to Salem for interment.

 ion that the present incumbent should either resign voluntarily or be requested to do so by the governor of this state, or be removed from office for incompetency and neglect of duties, and

"Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the state dairy and food commissioner, to the governor of this state and to the leading newspapers of the state."

Another resolution, favoring licensing of butchers, subject to examination under the state veterinary commission, relative to their knowledge of diseased meats or other food products, was introduced.

Wasco county delegates introduced a resolution relative to the appointment of a state highway commissioner, which should act under direction of a commission consisting of the governor, state engineer and attorney general and under direction of which all state money for road construction should be expended. They proposed to initiate a bill to that end.

Hood River county presented a resolution favoring the initiating of a bill providing a sinking fund for the payment of bonds used for road building.

For the Parolees Post.

A telegram from George P. Hampton, from Washington, D. C., brought congratulations and reported favorable conditions in congress, relative to parolees and the farmers attitude on the Canadian reciprocity treaty. The following resolution was sent in reply:

"The Oregon State Grange demands a square deal in Canadian reciprocity and the maintenance of equality for farm products and farm necessities; that parcel post privileges enjoyed by other civilized nations be extended to citizens of our own."

A resolution favoring the distribution of all salmon license revenues through the county where such revenues were derived, in opposition to the present plan of the cities getting all of the revenues, was introduced.

CONSERVATIONISTS SKEPTICAL ABOUT COAL "TEA PARTY"

 cific states and the United States Navy in those waters, but these friends of Alaska believe now that the cry that is now going up there which was heard at that modernized "tea party," is raised by minions of the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate, and for the purpose of fooling the nation. The danger of the syndicate's grabbing Alaska is just as imminent as it was when conservationists first raised the warning. The scandal broke out into national discussions.

APPROVAL OF CORDOVA COAL PARTY REFUSED BY COMMERCIAL CLUB

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 Seattle, May 10.—The Seattle Commercial club, composed of Seattle's younger business men and generally regarded as more progressive than the chamber of commerce, last night refused to adopt resolutions applauding the Cordova men who dumped the British Columbia coal into the sea as a protest against the failure of the government to open the Alaska coal fields.

Though the resolutions were couched in much more conservative language than those which passed the Arctic club Monday night, progressive members of the organization protested, and a two hours' debate followed.

It was objected that the club should not go ahead and assume that the Cordova men were right and that the national government was wrong. The matter was finally put over for another week.

LAFAYETTE GROVER DEAD

 up a charge of bribery in connection with his election. Mr. Grover and his friends demanded an immediate investigation into the false charges.

Grover Exonerated.

Oliver P. Morton of Indiana headed a senatorial commission which came to Oregon to conduct the investigation. In a rickety old wooden structure at Third and Morrison the trial was held, and the senator's enemies were brought in and given an opportunity to testify.

After a week's session the commission could find nothing back of the charges but idle rumors and the enmity of Holladay. He closed the meeting in disgust and reported to the senate a complete vindication of Mr. Grover. The affair only served to elevate Mr. Grover in the estimation of the people of the state, and to add ignominy to the names of its originators.

One of the early works of Mr. Grover for which the state of Oregon owes to him a debt of gratitude was his collection, compilation and printing of the statutes and records of the early provisional and territorial governments. He did this work in the most thorough manner, and as a result these records are now in possession of the state in a clear and authentic form. His book on "Public Life in Oregon" is also very valuable from a historical standpoint.

Interesting Incident.

An incident in the career of Governor Grover which is of interest was his visit to the bedside of Dr. John Mc-

MADE OREGON HISTORY

Lafayette Grover, who died today.

Loughlin at Oregon City in 1857. The sturdy old pioneer who, as chief factor of the Hudson's Bay company and later as a United States citizen, had done so much for the development of the northwest, had lost his donation land claim, the present site of Oregon City, through the act of congress passed in 1850. He was then old and ill and scarcely a living man.

Mr. Grover promised to take the matter up with the government, but before he had time to do anything in the matter, Dr. McLoughlin died. At the time

TRIBUNAL DECIDES ARCHDUKE IS DEAD

Vienna, May 10.—The supreme court today settled the controversy regarding the fate of the Archduke John Salvator of Austria, who was known as John Orth, when it ruled that his death must be presumed to have occurred July 21, 1890.

The nobleman was the younger son of the late Grand Duke Leopold II of Tuscany. When he married Mlle. Stiebel, an actress, in London in July, 1890, he renounced his rank and titles, calling himself John Orth, and with his wife sailed for Chile. Since then nothing has been heard of him, and it is believed the vessel—the Santa Margaretha—was wrecked and all on board perished.

Makes the Complexion Soft and Velvety

"My first advice to any woman seeking a charming complexion is to taboo the powder box," says Mae Martyn, a noted authority on beauty culture. Powder clogs up the pores, enlarges them, making coarse, muddy, blotchy complexions.

"The very best complexion beautifier I have ever used—and it is far superior to powder—is a simple, inexpensive lotion made by dissolving 4 ounces of spumax in one-half pint of hot water, then adding two teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This lotion does not show on the skin nor will it rub off easily as powder does. It makes the skin soft and velvety, leaving it clear and youthful looking.

"No other preparation has so far been discovered to equal this lotion for correcting a shiny, oily, sallow complexion. Every woman should have a bottle of this wonderful lotion on her dressing table."
