

GALES ON COAST ABATE; RAINFALL IN CITY IS HEAVY

Maximum Wind Velocity at North Head Is 76 Miles an Hour—Storm Warnings Aid Shipping by Timeliness.

Typical of the winter months a south-easter of unusual fury raged yesterday and last night along the Pacific coast, the wind blowing with hurricane force which was even felt in Portland during the morning hours and which reached a maximum of 76 miles an hour at North Head during the afternoon.

Exceptionally good work was done by the local weather bureau and they had storm warnings up at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, although the full force of the blow, which came suddenly, was not felt until late in the afternoon. But for the timeliness of the warnings it is said that shipping would probably have suffered because of the fact that a storm of this character is of such unusual occurrence so late in the season.

At 5 o'clock yesterday morning the conditions were not startling, the wind reported at North Head being 30 miles an hour, at Marshfield 48 miles and at Tatoosh 15 miles from the south, although they indicated a winter storm.

By afternoon, however, the gale was blowing 72 miles an hour from the southeast at North Head, having jumped suddenly from a storm of moderate proportions to a howling gale. Later in the afternoon the blow reached a maximum of 76 miles an hour from the southeast at North Head, but farther north the full force was not felt as the storm center had moved over Vancouver island and they had moderate winds.

When reports were received at the local weather bureau at 6 o'clock last night the gale had abated somewhat and Tatoosh island reported 24 miles from the east, North Head 48 miles from the south and Marshfield 55 miles from the southwest. The storm had passed its height then and gradually diminished until at 6 o'clock this morning North Head reported 20 miles from the southwest, with cloudy conditions and a rough sea.

Storm warnings were continued at 7:30 o'clock this morning, the winds today will be strong between Cape Henry and Coos Bay, according to the weather man. The barometer is rising along the California coast and the storm center has moved in so that it is over the coast. There will be high winds tonight, he says, but decreasing in force tomorrow and the weather will undoubtedly clear within the next 36 hours.

Taking advantage of the lull in the gale the steamer Roanoke left this morning at 6 o'clock while the steamers Roanoke, from San Francisco, and Goliath, from Port Townsend, crossed in over the bar at 7 o'clock. The steamer Washenaw was reported outside. The following wireless message was received at the office of the North Pacific steamship company from the Roanoke: Roanoke at sea, May 18—Crossed bar at 6 a. m. Off Tillamook 7:30 a. m. Strong south wind and sea. Signed Captain Poulsen.

Portland Feels Storm.

Portland felt the greatest force of the storm in the shape of wind during the night and early morning. At 1:15 o'clock until 7:10 o'clock it blew 35 miles an hour while a maximum of 27 miles an hour from the south was reached at 4:45. For an hour or so last night after 8:30 o'clock the rain fell in torrents and people on the streets had to seek shelter in doorways and beneath awnings until its force was spent. The total fall during the 24 hours up to 9 o'clock this morning was 0.69 inches.

The deficiency since the rainy season began or from September 1 is now 7.25 inches while from May 1 to date there is an excess of 1.23 inches. The forecast for Portland and vicinity is occasional rain tonight and Friday with southwest to west winds.

BARK NOT CHARTERED

High Rates Prevents Chartering of Vessels From This Port, Alleged.

Although it was reported that the French bark, Leguon, had been chartered for wheat at $28 3/4, one of the leading shippers here stated this morning that she was still offering at the same rate, showing that she had not yet been fixed. The Cambrian Chief, which was chartered yesterday, brought $28 3/4 and it is reported that the Norwegian bark Catharina, which is on her way to the west coast, refused an offer of 30 shillings, as she is of only 350 tons net and therefore classed as a handy ship. Experts seem to be of the opinion that until the rates go somewhat lower there will not be very much chartering from this port.

CARS HALF SUBMERGED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) The Dalles, Or., May 18.—The warm weather and light rains of the past week have caused the snow to melt to a slight degree in the mountains and made a rise of several feet in the waters of the Columbia river here. The present stand is 19 feet above zero. Several cables which have been standing on the portage road terminal near the Open River Transportation company's docks are nearly half submerged. Particularly high water is predicted by old timers for this season.

WILLAMETTE TO RISE

Weather Man Says River to Gain Foot Per Day for Three Days.

Reaching to within a foot of flood stage Monday, the Willamette river here will rise rapidly between now and that time, according to the forecast of District Forecaster Beals. Not only the Columbia and Snake rivers are rising with the consequent rise of the Willamette from the back water, but the latter river is also rising slightly, probably as a result of the recent rains. The weatherman's prediction is that the river here will reach a stage of about 12 feet Friday, 18 feet Saturday and 14 feet Monday.

Will Attend King George's Coronation on Their Trip Abroad

A. G. Churchley and wife, who is holding flowers, his sister, Gertrude Churchley, and two Churchley children, just before boarding train on long journey.

Taking advantage of the opportunity to attend the coronation and to visit his old home at one and the same time, A. G. Churchley, a Portland photographer, accompanied by Mrs. Churchley and their two daughters, left yesterday for New York to board the Lusitania on May 21. They will arrive in London in time to secure good seats, Mr. Churchley hopes, for he intends to have one, he says, if the price is within hailing distance.

The Churchleys have closed their home at 228 North Eighteenth street for the summer, and Mr. Churchley's photographic studio on Third street has also been closed awaiting offices in a newly constructed building on Washington street.

It is planned by the Churchleys to spend about four months abroad. They will spend several weeks viewing the old familiar scenes of Mr. Churchley's boyhood and will visit all the principal cities of Europe. They will also attend the exposition at Glasgow.

Mr. Churchley desires a fitting location at the coronation so that he may take photographs of the event. He will also photograph many other scenes of great interest while on the tour.

Miss Gertrude Churchley, sister of

Mr. Churchley, who went ahead to the depot yesterday morning, got mixed in her calculations and waited patiently at the union station for the arrival of her brother and family, while they, in turn, waited at the North Bank depot for her. Just before the departure of the train Mr. Churchley secured an auto and frantically searched the various places where he thought his sister might be found, finally locating her at the union station just in time to catch a North Bank train.

SLEEPLESSNESS Its Cause and Remedy.

Do you know what it is to lie awake nights, fidgety, restless, tossing about, counting 100 backwards, or sheep jumping over a fence, all in a vain endeavor to lose yourself in slumberland and get the rest which you so much need.

No one, unless they have been troubled with insomnia, can begin to realize its horrors and how wearing it is.

In nine cases out of ten it is simply a case of overworked nerves or derangement of the digestive system. Thousands of such cases are being cured by Vinol. As proof we quote from a letter recently received from Marion, Ind.

"I could not sleep nights, was run-down, nervous, had no appetite and was all discouraged. Vinol made me well after all other remedies had failed. I sleep splendidly, and have gained in strength." Mrs. L. E. Heinlein. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

We ask every person who suffers from sleeplessness or who is nervous or run-down to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not help them. Vinol contains no drugs or oil, and agrees with everyone. Woodward, Clarke & Co., druggists, Portland, Or.

JAPANESE EXPLORERS REGARDED AS SPIES

(United Press Island Wire.) Sydney, N. S. W., May 18.—This city is in a ferment of excitement over the actions and alleged objects of the Japanese polar party under Commander Shirase, who, with his colleagues, are suspected of "spying out" and of an effort to secure plans of Australian fortifications.

The party, compelled to return from their southern expedition on account of the severe weather encountered, which resulted in the loss of their dogs, have formed a camp close to Southhead Point, and have said that it will be necessary to remain six months until more dogs are brought out from Japan.
