Red Onion Shipments to Become General Within Few Days. circular issued by a Sacramento, firm says of the green goods situ-

Red Onions—A few days of warm weather will dry the tops and then onions will be in fit condition to ship and we think they should arrive in good condition. We are going to use more care dition. We are going to use more care this year in putting up onions and everything will go forward in new sacks.
This may necessitate our getting a small advance over cheap onions that are offered, but we think the shipments will be more satisfactory.
Cabbage—In another week we will have late flat Dutch cabbage. Southern California is entifely cleaned up and our cabbage should meet with good demand.

New potatoes—We will be able to make a few shipments in boxes this coming week. The stock will not be fully matured but fairly passable for new stock.
Sacked Vegetables—Turnips and carrots in sacks will be plentiful and the quality will be better this sesson than Advance in South Forces Another Movement Here.

There is a weaker feeling in the chicken market. Prices were boosted so high and so quickly that some of the larger buyers have again resorted to the use of eastern storage birds. The price in general today is about a cent lower than Saturday.

OLD SEASON FOR CALIFORNIA BERRY RECORD BREAKING POTATOES IS NEAR SEASON ABOUT OVER RUN OF LIVESTOCK

Present Week Expected to End Most Shipments in This Direction From Here.

So far as the California movement is concerned, the strawberry season will be over within the present week. While there will be straggling shipments from the south in this direction for perhaps two or three weeks, the bulk of the supplies have already been shipped.

The local strawberry season is opening very slowly. Receipts are slightly increased and quality is better, but the trade in general has not yet awakened. Prices on Oregon berries range from $3.25 to $3.50 per crate for 24s while the California Dollars are generally quoted at $1.60 to $1.75 and the Jessies at $1.25 to $1.35 for 15s.

A mail advice from Milton says that according to Manager Lamb of the Fruitgrowers' union, strawberries are hovering around the $5 mark and this price is being received for the 26 crates which are shipped daily by the union.

"At least 100 additional pickers will be needed in two weeks' time to handle the crop, as the present indications are that the picking will be in full blast in two more weeks," says Mr. Lamb.

"There is little danger new of the rains hurting the strawberries in the least, but should the rain continue steady for another week, it will cause the fruit to rot. However, I do not look for the bad weather to continue that long."

The potato market is rapidly passing out of the old season and into the new product. Two carloads of potatoes from Prexas were unloaded this morning, altithough both were received either late saturday or yesterday morning, altithough both were received either late in excellent condition, although the season is still so young as to make bus shipments were in bags and were in excellent condition, although the season is still so young as to make bus shipments very hasardous.

The potatoes were of good size and were far superior to the arrivals from either California or Mexico. Sales were reported at $4.50 to $5 per cental, according to quality.

New potatoes from Florida are finding a fair sale. These supplies are said to be of the best quality thus far received here this season, but the price at 6a a pound is so high as to exclude the general public. The Florida stock is packed in barrels.

The next carload to come from Texas will be packed in hampers of bushel capacity and these are expected to create a larger demand than for the sacks.

California new potatoes are in larger supply with the price still held high. The competition of Texas stock is expected to pull down values generally.

Small supplies of local potatoes of the 1910 crop continue to come forward and are finding a demand from $2.5 to $2.50 per cental, according to quality.

Eastern old potatoes are generally selling around $2.5 to $2.55 per cental, according to quality.

Movement Here,

As expected there has been a further advance of 25c per cental in the price of cabbage. The higher cost in the south necessitated the advance here. Supplies offering from the south are limited and therefore the market is firmer.

Wool Clip Moving.

Vale, Or., May 22.—Wool is coming into Vale rapidly this week and today over 500,000 pounds are stored in the local warehouses of the Ricker-Gheen Forwarding company. The clip this year in this county will be large and the wool is of a good quality. It is understood that another 500,000 pounds will still find its way to Vale as many shearing plants are working low and others are just starting. During the past week there was an average of a dozen big freighting outfits arriving from the interior loaded down with wool.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Marshfield, Or., May 22.—The first strawberries of the season in this county have been produced by Bert Seal, who lives near Coquille. The season this year is a little later than usual owing to the continued cold weather but the indications are for a good crop. On account of the canneries which are being established at Myrtle Point and Bandon there will be a much larger acreage of berries planted this year than ever before.
