

M'NAMARA'S HOPES CENTER IN DARROW, LAWYER GETS BUSY

Arrives in Los Angeles and Without Delay Takes Up Defense of Accused Dynamiters—"Too Busy to Talk."

(United Press Leased Wire.) Los Angeles, Cal., May 25.—Giving the newspaper men the slip, Attorney Clarence Darrow, who is to defend the McNamara brothers on the charge of having dynamited the Los Angeles Times building, left the train three miles from Los Angeles at 9:35 this morning. An automobile was waiting and brought Darrow to the city. Without going to a hotel Darrow hurried to the office of Attorney Job Harriman and immediately started to arrange his plans for the preliminary hearing of the McNamara brothers, scheduled for June 1.

Darrow denied himself to all newspaper men, declaring that he was "too busy to talk."

McNamara Nervous. After a night of twisting and turning on his iron cot at the city prison John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, arose at 4 a. m. today to receive Attorney Darrow. McNamara's nerves were on edge today and he spent hours until Darrow's arrival pacing up and down the narrow limits of his cell.

Of the three prisoners accused of complicity in the alleged dynamiting of the Times building, John McNamara, until today, has been far the most composed. But with the coming of Darrow the seriousness of the charge appeared to dawn upon him with greater force than ever. He looked at his watch a score of times and repeatedly asked the keeper if Darrow's train were in time. He requested local labor agents to bring Darrow to him just as soon after his arrival as possible.

Darrow His Hope. John McNamara firmly believes that if anyone can clear him of the charge against him, Clarence Darrow is the man. Despite contrary reports he has all along believed that Darrow would undertake his defense. The coming of Darrow, however, had little apparent effect on either James B. McNamara or Orville McNamara. They arose at the usual hour and after a hearty breakfast, buried themselves in the morning papers, as their daily custom.

After 30 minutes spent in the office of Harriman going over papers bearing on the Times dynamiting case, Darrow and Harriman drove away in an automobile. While neither would announce their destination, it was believed they would make their way to the city prison for a conference with John McNamara.

Hundreds of labor sympathizers who gathered at the depot to greet Darrow were disappointed when it was found that he had left the train at another station. It was later found that the two went to the jail. After a two hours conference with John J. and James B. McNamara, charged with Orville McNamara with having dynamited the building of the Los Angeles Times, Clarence Darrow of Chicago, who will control the defense of the brothers, said: "After a talk with John McNamara and his brother," said Darrow, "I am convinced that they had no part in the dynamiting of the Times building. I am just as firmly convinced of their innocence as I was of the innocence of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, after my conference with them. I shall do everything in my power for the McNamaras."

SCHMITZ NOT "BROKE" BUYS MEXICAN LAND

(United Press Leased Wire.) Tampico, Mexico, May 25.—That former Mayor Eugene B. Schmitz of San Francisco is plentifully supplied with money was shown here today by the announcement that Schmitz has just closed a deal for the purchase of a large tract of agricultural land near here. It was reported recently that Schmitz was stranded and destitute in a remote part of the state of Sonora.

HARLAN'S WRITTEN

Standard case in "minor matters." Justice Harlan added:

"I apprehend that these modifications may prove mischievous."

Harlan then referred to the enactment of the Sherman law, reciting the conditions which brought it about. He compared that time with the conditions existing during the days of slavery, and continued:

"If the conviction of the corporations were universal the country would be in real danger from the slavery that would result from the expropriation of the capital in the hands of a few individuals or corporations who would control for their own profit and advantage exclusively the entire business of the country, including the production and sale of the necessities of life."

Quotes Court's Decision. He then quoted the court's 1908 decision in the trans-Missouri freight case, where the opponents of the Sherman law first advanced the "unreasonable" restraint of trade plea. His quotation ended "to say that the act excludes agreements which are not unreasonable restraint of trade is substantially leaving the question of unreasonableness to the companies themselves. We are asked to read into the act by judicial legislation an exception not placed there by the law making branch of the government. This is to be done on the theory that the policy of such legislation is so clear that it cannot be supposed that congress intended the natural import of the language it used. This we cannot and ought not to do."

He declared the court should have immediately instructed the attorneys arguing the "reasonable" construction in the Standard Oil case that such construction was not open to argument, having been established by previous decisions, and should have advised them to go to congress for any desired change.

Condemns Word "Reasonable." Continuing, Justice Harlan said: "My brethren in their wisdom have now said to those condemning our former decision who object to all legislative prohibition of contracts in restraint of trade: 'You may now restrain such commerce, provided you are reasonable about it.'"

"This disposition of the case, according to the views of the defendants, will quiet and give rest to the business of the country. On the contrary, I have a strong conviction it will throw the business of the country into confusion and invite widely extended, harassing litigation, the injurious effects of which will be felt for years."

"As I said at the outset, the action of the court in this case might well alarm thoughtful men who revere the constitution."

Court Usurps Power. "The courts have nothing to do with the wisdom or the policy of the acts of congress. They have no function to declare public policy or to amend enactments. Nevertheless, if I do not misapprehend the court's opinion, the court has now read into an act of congress words not found there, and has thereby done that which it decided in 1906 and 1908 could not be done without violating the constitution.

"After many years of public service in the national capital and after a somewhat close observation of the conduct of public affairs, I am impelled to say that there is abroad in the land a most harmful tendency to bring about the amending of constitutions and legislative enactments by means alone of judicial construction. The supreme law of the land, which is binding upon all alike, gives to congress alone the authority to regulate commerce; when congress forbids the restraint of such commerce in any form, all must obey. To overreach congress merely by judicial construction—that is, by indirection, is a blow at the integrity of our governmental system and in the end will prove most dangerous to us all."

Justice Harlan then quotes the words of President Taft, at that time judge of the court of appeals of the sixth circuit, that the decision was that "contracts in restraint of interstate transportation were within the statute, whether the restraint could be regarded as reasonable under the common law or not." Harlan added:

"In this case the court was asked to do that which it has distinctly declared it could not constitutionally do. It is by a mere interpretation, modified an act of congress and deprived it of its practical value as a defensive measure against the evils to be remedied."

GOVERNOR ASKED AGAIN TO PARDON MORRIS

(Salem News of The Journal.) Salem, Or., May 25.—With but one day left in which to pass upon applications for pardon for W. Cooper Morris, Governor West gave audience today at noon for half an hour to John Manning and Alex Sweek of Portland, who presented a petition bearing 1600 signatures asking executive clemency for the convicted bank wrecker. The governor gave the attorneys no intimation what his final decision would be. He said he had not yet received the written statements which were to be presented to him before Morris' 10 day respite was over. This statement is expected from Morris' friends, who claim to have additional light to throw upon transactions of the bank at and prior to date of its failure.

People Vote on Picture Shows. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Fort Worth, Texas, May 25.—Probably for the first time in the United States the referendum was employed in Fort Worth today to determine whether the moving picture theatres shall be permitted to open on Sunday. The show managers applied for the privilege of giving Sunday performances and the position met with a protest from the church organizations. The city commission thereupon ordered a special election to decide the matter.

Commencement at Tuskegee, Tuskegee, Ala., May 25.—Many visitors attended the commencement exercises today at Tuskegee institute. The address to the graduates was delivered by Judge Robert H. Terrell of the municipal court of the District of Columbia.
