REPLICA OF GOWN QUEEN MARY WILL WEAR AT THE CORONATION

On Exhibition Tomorrow Afternoon at Olds, Wortman & King

An expert replica of the gown that Queen Mary of England will wear when she and King George are crowned next month will be exhibited on live model at the Greater Olds, Wortman & King store tomorrow afternoon. It was designed and made by Worth of London and all the materials used were made in England.

The gown proper is a princess robe of crimson velvet, close fitting, high necked, with a train of about 15 feet. The entire front, from neck to feet, is a series of white lace flounces, each about 10 inches deep. The crimson velvet opens over the filmy front like a coat, the fronts describing scallops, edged with ermine. The sleeves are made with three velvet puffs, separated one from another by narrow bands of ermine. Below the final band of ermine is a velvet point, beneath which a frill of white lace falls over the arm hand. Around the throat is a frill of plisse mousseline, which stands out all around like a small edition of an Elizabethan ruff. Thus is the gown simple, sans court train.
