As Effective for Sickness Today as When First Discovered.

In the different Chinese preparations which I dispense for many of the various sicknesses which they were intended by Nature, there are no harmful ingredients such as mercury in its different forms and other virulent poisons. Nothing that after taking would leave any bad effects on the system. Only such herbs, roots, barks and buds that my forefathers who were eminent physicians in their time, found to be marvelously curative-have I imported from remote quarters of the globe to my laboratories at 1621/2 First street.
