

4500 CHILDREN TO TAKE PART IN ROSEBUD PARADE

All But Two of East Side Schools Will Be Represented—Starts Promptly at 4 O'clock.

Two thousand more children than participated last year will figure in the Human Rosebud parade on the east side Friday, at 4 o'clock. There will be 4500 altogether. The hour of beginning has been advanced one hour in order that the children may get home before dark. It was originally scheduled for 5 p. m.

All but two of the east side schools will be represented in this parade. Last year it was an event remembered longer perhaps than any other connected with the Rose Festival. Professor Robert Krohn, physical instructor of Portland's schools, gives assurance that this year the parade will completely eclipse that of last year. Two grand stands have been erected on Grand avenue for the convenience of the people who will want to see the rosebuds Friday afternoon and the fraternal-military parade tomorrow evening, and tickets for the grand stand are being sold by the East Side Business Men's club on the corner of Grand and East Morrison streets, East Morrison and Hawthorne avenues.

Brilliant Features.

The rosebud parade will contain a multitude of brilliant features and drilla. Each child will be in rosebud costume. The human flower garden will be portrayed by 120 girls dressed in white and pink, from Hawthorne and Stephen schools. One hundred and ninety pupils from Vernon school will give the spectacular Maypole dance. One hundred and sixty girls chosen from east side schools will lead the parade with the fantastic wreath drill.

All but two schools of the east side will be represented. The list includes Lantz, Arieta, Creston, Woodstock, Sellwood, Idewellyn, Clinton-Kelly, Mt. Tabor, Glenora, South Mt. Tabor, Richmond, Holladay, Sunnyside, Buckman, Woodlawn, Kerns, Montavilla, Rose City, Woodlawn, Vernon, Homestead, Elliot, Oakley Green, Portsmouth, Peninsula, Shaver, Stephen and Hawthorne.

In drilling the children for the Rosebud parade Professor Krohn has been effectively assisted by Miss Georgia Wey who is assistant physical director of the schools.

Drills to Be Given.

All the schools will be dismissed at 2 p. m. to permit the children to reach grand avenue on time. Professor Krohn says the parade will start on the minute. The drills and formations will be given in front of the grand stands.

The first of the three prizes will go to the school having the largest number in the parade. It is a silver cup and was won last year by the Lenox school. The second prize, Manly Challenge cup, must be won three times before it can be a permanent possession. Last year it was won by Creston school for having the largest percentage in the parade. The third prize, a silver cup, will go to the school having the largest number in the parade.

Four bands will furnish music. Among them will be the police band. The line of march is entirely upon Grand avenue between Holladay and Hawthorne. The children will march 32 abreast.

ELECTRIC PARADE WINS HIGH PRAISE; BEATS NEW ORLEANS

Congratulations upon the success of the electric parade, "Oregon Land of a Thousand Wonders," poured in upon the Rose Festival management today. The artistic and creative genius displayed by George L. Hutchin, in designing and building the floats was especially commended upon by Albert Henry Hudson of New Orleans, a man noted as the designer of the Hudson-Puliton floats.

"New Orleans never produced anything comparing to the floats of the electric parade," said Mr. Stoddard. "Portland is indeed to be congratulated upon the work of Mr. Hutchin. I never saw anything in my life to equal them in brilliancy and magnificence. As great festival city Portland has reached a class of her own where she is preeminent and unassailable."

U. S. TO SETTLE WATER PROBLEM

Attorney McCourt and Assistant Morton Leave for Umatilla Monday.

United States Attorney John McCourt and Assistant United States Attorney Oliver P. Morton will go to Pendleton Monday in an attempt to settle the long pending and much talked of water rights on the Umatilla river. There are from 200 to 400 users of the Umatilla interested in the outcome of an action to determine the exact amount of water each user is entitled to per acre.

The United States is contesting about 230 claims to water from the Umatilla river on the ground that the amount asked for is excessive, naming a figure about half that claimed by the landowners as satisfactory.

Another phase of the Umatilla water question is that involving the right of Indians allotted lands in the Umatilla reservation to use of the water. The reclamation service has claimed that the Indians are not entitled to any water, especially during the dry periods of the summer months. The Indian service claims the government's treaty with the Indians insures them water for their land. Mr. McCourt, being attorney for both interests, has been compelled to settle between them and finds that a decision of the supreme court in a similar case arising in Montana favors the Indians' claim. The water rights are not expressly mentioned in the treaty.

The Indians have leased their lands to white farmers, and it is they, actually, who are advancing the claim for water rights for reservation land.

WAPPENSTEIN MAKES GENERAL GRAFT DENIAL

Seattle, Wash., June 7.—Former Chief of Police C. W. Wapenstein took the stand this morning in defense of the bribery charge against him. He made a general denial of ever having received any graft in connection with the operation of the restricted district under Mayor Gill, which was closed up by a court injunction. He attributed the testimony of Gideon Tupper, chief witness for the state, who swore he paid him $1000 on August 5, 1910, to Wapenstein's activity in prosecuting inmates of Tupper's resorts. The case may be in the hands of the jury by tomorrow afternoon.

Asked by W. H. Morris, his chief counsel, if Gideon Tupper gave him $1000 on August 5, 1910, in currency, Wapenstein replied:

"Nothing of that kind ever happened."

Wapenstein denied that Tupper visited him in his office by means of a private entrance.

"The first time Tupper came to headquarters," Wapenstein said, "he was called there by me to explain the sale of cigars in the restricted district which had been reported as stolen from up town. There was continual jangling between the police department and Tupper. Tupper had a lot of negro women entering his saloon and I ordered that stopped.

"If he interfered in the restricted district except to keep order," said Wapenstein, "I merely recommended Tupper to Senator Nichols when Tupper told me he could not get the Parls house lease except through a strong recommendation that he was as good a man as others who would go into that kind of business.

"I never told Clarence Gerald that there would be a chance to make some money for all of us. I never said to Tupper, 'Go get the Midway.'"

"Did you order lists of the number of women kept in the restricted district for the purpose of keeping tabs on Tupper in order to exact $10 for each inmate in the Midway and Paris houses?" Wapenstein was asked by his attorney.

"I did not. I don't think I ever saw more than one of those lists," Wapenstein replied.

NO ACTION YET ON LAWRENCE CASE

Josephine Officials Say They Do Not Know Anything Officially.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Grants Pass, Or., June 7.—The disappearance of Frank Lawrence during the holidays of 1910 is still a mystery. Lawrence lived alone in a cabin on Fidler's gulch, just below the southwest fork of Fidler's gulch, eight miles west of Kerby, in a cabin owned by George H. Wood. He was 55 years old. So far as known he had said nothing about going away.

The neighbors at first thought he had gone to Illinois valley or to prospecting in the Kerby district. He had several good mining prospects. He was a small, wiry man, weighing 135 pounds, was not quarrelsome, was a good neighbor, quiet, sociable and always ready to take his part in the responsibilities of the neighborhood. He had the respect of all the miners. Some of those acquainted with the country believe Lawrence may have fallen in the snow or mountain stream. If so, it may be a long time before the body is discovered as the district is very mountainous and brushy. When last seen he had left a neighbor who had loaned him a bundle of magazines. He started for his cabin, but neither the magazines or Lawrence has been seen since.

The sheriff and district attorney deny knowing anything officially about the Lawrence case.

MADERO GREETED AMID RUINS OF STRICKEN CAPITAL

Thousands Shout Welcome to "Deliverer," While Dead and Wounded Are Being Taken From Buildings.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Mexico City, June 7.—While Mexico City was in flames as a result of the earthquake that laid it in ruins this morning a crowd of hundreds of thousands at noon today greeted Francisco L. Madero Jr. and welcomed him with an almost insane demonstration of joy.

While the bodies of more than 200 persons were being removed from the debris that lined the streets, the celebration in honor of Madero's arrival progressed. His special train, with its escort of six other specials, arrived shortly after noon. At that hour yucatec parties, hastily formed, had just begun to take the dead and dying from the ruins of the city.

Without heed to the grief and suffering about them, the thousands who had gathered to welcome the "deliverer of Mexico" carried out a part of the program that had been arranged. Flowers were strewn in his path as he moved through the streets, lined on each side by partially demolished buildings.

In court this morning Milton and the Travis woman were fined $25 and sentence passed on Travis was that he return to his irate wife.

HEAVY SHORE ICE KEEPS CORWIN OFF

Nome, Seeing Hunger Ahead, Eagerly Awaits Landing of Staples.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Seattle, Wash., June 7.—Latest cable advices from Nome state that the steamer Corwin, the first out from Puget sound, leaving here May 10, has been unable to land her 102 passengers, including four women, on account of shore ice nearly six miles wide. A heavy sea is running also. Frustrated in its landing at Nome, the Corwin steamed to Solomon and attempted to send the passengers ashore, but this also was unsuccessful so she returned to Nome harbor. The vessel is reported drifting off the shore seeking a lead through the ice.

Nome is eagerly awaiting landing of the cargo as the camp is short of staple food and starvation is not far off. Should the sea subside it may be possible to send the cargo and passengers over the ice although reports state this is a great hazard.
