PASSENGERS FREE FROM SEASICKNESS THOUGH SEA ROUGH

Beaver Turns Away Many Who Would Come to Festi-Utmost Capacity.

What is probably one of the most unusual passages made by any steamer of the San Francisco-Portland line was which arrived here at 6:45 last night, as in spite of very rough weather not one of the 373 passengers was seasick, according to Captain Nelson.

San Francisco last Monday at noon she Monday on an inspection trip. had every cabin accommodation filled, latter part of the Rose Carnival and drug was five minutes. class were taken before she reached the Bay City from San Pedro. In the steerage there were 100 passengers.

After the liner passed outside the Heads from San Francisco Bay she encountered a strong northwest wind and heavy seas over which she pitched all way up to the mouth of the Columbia river, taking considerable water over her forecastle head as she plunged from the crest of the billows to the trough of the sea.

In spite of this not a person of the entire passenger list was seasick and all apparently enjoyed the trip spending all of the time that they could on the decks of the craft.

TUGBOAT MAKES MISTAKE

Schooner Towed to Port Townsend Instead of Columbia River.

Because the tugboat that was to tow the schooner Balboa to the Columbia river made a mistake and towed her to Port Townsend, Captain Anderson was under the necessity of shipping a crew to bring her down here and he will also have to pay them the amount of their fare back to Seattle.

When the schooner was reported tug was sent out of Grays Harbor to tow her to the Columbia river, as she is under charter to Balfour, Guthrie & | to load a cargo of lumber at St. her arrival there the crew demanded Str. their discharge, with the result that Captain Anderson had to ship a new

Captain Anderson said that he had no idea that the men would return to Se- Str. attle when they were paid off, as they would probably remain around here with the additional money in their pockets, preferring to spend the money other ways than to using it for railroad fare.

The Balboa, which arrived at St. Johns yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, distinguished herself by a remarkably quick passage down, making the run from Cape Flattery to the heads off the Columbia river in 20 hours. She was three days in making, the trip from Port naving to beat down the sound against a northwest
