

MILITARY PARADE ON EAST SIDE IS GREAT SUCCESS

150,000 People Witness Pageant Which Is Nearly Two Miles Long; 5000 Marchers in Line; Fraternal Orders.

- Prize Winners of Military Parade.
- Company Four, Second Battalion, regular soldiers, silver cup, for the best drilled company.
- Oregon National Guard, third column, Second Battalion, best appearing company.
- Largest number uniformed in parade, Woodmen of the World.
- Best uniformed fraternal order, Loyal Order of Moose.
- Most unique features, Red Men.
- Best appearing order passing reviewing stands, Knights and Ladies of Security.
- General award, silver cup, made to Spanish war veterans.

One hundred and fifty thousand cheering people witnessed the vivid military and fraternal parade on Grand avenue last night.

With 5000 participants the pageant was greater in point of numbers than any other of the Rose Festival. The parade was nearly two miles long and its features ranged all the way from the magnificent to the ludicrous.

For a distance of two miles Grand avenue was heavily decorated with flags and streamers. Great flags, artistically draped at regular intervals on both sides of the broad thoroughfare, gave an appearance of an extended arched highway. A multitude of electric lights, which swung at each street intersection, added to the charm. Lines of red fire on each side of the avenue luridly illuminated the scene and contributed to the semblance of an enchanted place.

In its vigor and militant air, spectators, commenting, said the parade was typical of the enthusiastic spirit of the strong East Side Business Men's club under whose auspices the event was given and by whom every expense was paid.

Spectators Get Fine View. It was notable, too, that where on the west side a place to see the festival parades is difficult to find, on Grand avenue there were a number of high banks which with two large stands and a number of small ones gave comfortable view points to every one.

The parade formed at Grand avenue and East Commercial street. It was gotten under way soon after 8 o'clock. Swinging up the thoroughfare thousands of tramping feet keeping time to the crashing music gave an indescribable sensation like to that when one sees first a great army on the march.

The judges were Colonel James Jackson, General Beebe, Captain Stephen M. Foote and Captain Percy Willis, both of Fort Stevens. They were given special places in the grandstand at East Ankeny and Grand avenue.

First in line was the dragon of the United Spanish War Veterans carried by 200 men, and following it a human dragon of grotesquely costumed men, some of them dressed like the Filipinos whom they once crossed the Pacific to subdue.

Oregon National Guard. A squadron of mounted police cleared the street. Carrying the police band and handsomely uniformed company of police commanded by Captain Baty.

The Oregon National Guard, commanded by Adjutant General Finzer, who served also as grand marshal, was followed by four regular soldiers in dress uniforms, their officers mounted on prancing, glossy horses, with music furnished by the Third Infantry band and a company of artillery closing the formation.

Thousands of Woodmen of the World, accurately uniformed and well drilled, made an almost endless procession along the reviewing stand. The Loyal Order of Moose, with caparisoned horses and a majestic float, was impressive to a degree.

There passed then in rapid succession the Macabees, United-Artisans

LABOR WINS CLASH IN DYNAMITE CASE

Battle to Get Transcript of Testimony Before Grand Jury Is Won.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Los Angeles, June 9.—Union labor defending S. M. Conners, F. Ira Bender and A. B. Maple, accused of attempting to dynamite the hall of records building last September won a signal victory in the first real skirmish with the prosecution when the cases of the three men to plead on indictments against them were called today in Judge Willis' court.

The case was continued one week by request of the defense, but the victory was contained not in this but in the battle to obtain possession of a copy of the transcript of testimony taken before the grand jury and which resulted in the indictments.

Judge Willis after listening to arguments decided that the defense was entitled to a copy five days before the date set for the trial, that being his interpretation of the law made by the last legislature which provides that defendants in the grand jury cases shall receive the copy "five days before their trial."

Following Judge Willis' ruling, Attorney G. Ray Horton, representing the state announced that it was not the purpose of the prosecution to hamper the defense and the transcript would be turned over to the defense as soon as it was typewritten.

The proceedings were short. with their splendid float, Boy Scouts, the handsome company of Knights and Ladies of Security, the Modern Brotherhood, Modern Woodmen of America, Knights of the Rose—these with gaily dressed horses, a beautiful float and uniformed members.

Red Men's War Dances. Laughs came with the Red Men and the war dance they gave after the parade was hugely enjoyed. They had real Indians exulted in enthusiasm and roars of their war paint.

The cowboys with their ludicrous stunts brought as many laughs as did the Red Men. Perhaps the most stately formation of all was the uniformed company from the Italian society.

Many words of commendation for the work done by C. A. Bigelow, chairman of the parade committee; by Secretary Walter, and Assistant Secretary C. C. Hall of the East Side Business Men's club, were spoken last night. The club has been planning for the parade many months and the expense in effort was even greater than the money cost. Words of appreciation were heard, too, for the coming of the regular soldiers to participate in the pageant. A surprise was prepared for them in the form of a lunch spread for the return trip upon the steamer monarch.

LAWYER DISCUSSES COMPENSATION ACT

(United Press Leased Wire.) Boston, June 9.—Delegates to the national conference of charities and corrections today are discussing ideas of Louis D. Brandeis, on workmen's compensation made in an address before their body.

"A certain per cent of wage earners inevitably meet illness, accident, death and lack of employment," said Brandeis, "and these conditions must be met with something more definite than sporadic, occasional charity. The sort of insurance would be high. Ten per cent of the current wages would go far, yet even such a charge would afford merely alleviation, and complete indemnity would probably cost 25 per cent of the average daily wages. The apparently prohibitive expense should not deter us from acting now. On the contrary, it brings clearly to mind the enormous waste of social and industrial conditions."

COLLINS HOT SPRINGS PLANS FOR BIG SEASON

Many New Improvements Made at Big Columbia River Resort, Including New Bathhouses.

Collins Hot Springs has been so thoroughly overhauled, improved and altered this year that old timers, who have always spent their summers there, would scarcely recognize their old haunts. F. A. Young, the new owner, has spent thousands of dollars in new buildings, new equipment and a new spring, below the old one, where a stronger, hotter and more highly mineralized stream has been discovered. Dressed up in its new clothes, Collins looks like a new place. To formally introduce all his innovations, to the public, a general reception and opening has been planned for next Monday night and invitations are now being mailed to all the friends of the celebrated resort.

The hotel building has been considerably enlarged by the erection of a three-story annex, on the ground floor of which the bathrooms are located and above a number of new and elegantly furnished rooms, many with private baths, hot and cold water and electric lights. Mr. Young is particularly proud of the new mattresses and they are far above the average found at first-class hotels.

Those who have received so much benefit from the hot mineral water of the summer. The wide, plate glass windows across the front of the room will always be remembered by those who have visited this pretty dining room. It reminds one of the big ocean side rooms at the coast hotels, while, to many people, the view across the mile of Columbia river is regarded as superior to any environment in the United States.

As a matter of fact, while it is true a large number of people visit Collins for the remarkable properties of its mineral water, and for the marvelous cures which it has to its credit, in the line of rheumatism, kidney, bladder, liver and stomach troubles, there are hundreds and thousands, every year, who visit the spot for the magnificence of its scenery. Located as it is right in the heart of the Cascade Range, surrounded on all sides by mammoth mountains, the place is resplendent with its beautiful scenic effects.

Wind Mountain, rising to an elevation considerably above 5000 feet invites the hazy climber, while Shell Mountain, the base of the railroad company, aiding always toward the river, is one of the greatest freaks of nature on the western coast. Back toward the interior, there are two little lakes, from which the finest strings of trout are the springs will be pleased to learn that the new bathhouse adjoins the old hotel, making it possible to go from the bath to the hotel rooms without going out of doors. With reference to the bathrooms themselves, it is safe to say that there is nothing in the northwest that is equal to them in perfection of equipment, size and furnishings. There is a large room for women, with hot and steam rooms, tub baths, showers and sleeping rooms, accommodating over 100 women in a day. The women's baths are made complete by the engagement of a graduate masseur, and to her has been entrusted the task of applying the baths to the greatest benefit of those who patronize the place. The men's department is larger, with room for 200 baths a day, under the supervision of an expert masseur. The bath equipment in the men's quarters is similar to that for the women, except they are larger.

The location of a new well, about a quarter of a mile below the old one is a great improvement at Collins, owing to the fact that the water is considerably warmer, reaching a temperature of about 100 degrees. This spring is connected with the tanks by electric pumps, doing away with the old method of pumping by steam. All of the pumping is now governed from the power house, which has been remodelled.

All told, the accommodations at Collins Hot Springs are now sufficient for nearly 200 people, without counting the tenting facilities which will provide for many more. The dining-room is maintained on a plane unexcelled in the years past, even at its best, while the private herd of milk cows furnishes milk, a half inch thick with cream, butter that is delicious and a character of living that cannot be approached at the ordinary recreation resort. Mr. Young has his own park and many other clever ideas in providing establishments that will prove popular to the health resort this summer.

Those who have eaten in the Collins dining-room, in times past, remember the large, light and airy room, overlooking the magnificent Columbia river, with Shell Mountain on the other side. This room has been thoroughly renovated and made spick and span for brought almost daily. The long winding trails through the woods, along the shore of the river and into the very depth of the mountains, keep one fairly busy wondering which place to visit next. A whole summer spent at Collins would find some new place to visit every day.

F. A. Young, the new owner, has spared no expense to provide every possible comfort for his guests this summer. The beautiful launch Onis is at their disposal, as well as rowboats and saddle horses. The river boats up and down the river every day, provide opportunities for innumerable side trips, while to reach the crest of Wind Mountain seems to be the ambition of almost every one who visits the place.

The transportation facilities for Collins Hot Springs this year are almost without equal. The North Bank trains leave Portland every morning at 8:20 o'clock and every evening at 8:30, returning morning and evening. This gives splendid accommodations between Portland and Collins. Four river boats stop daily in front of the hotel at the Tahoma, which ply between Stevenson and The Dalles, and the J. N. Teasdale Gatzert and Dalles City, between Portland and The Dalles. The railroad depot is just back of the hotel, not over 100 feet away, while all boats land in front of the hotel grounds.

The evenings spent at Collins, sitting on the wide veranda facing the river, are among the pleasantest imaginable. The long days of the setting sun, throwing the hotel into the shadow early, linger for hours on the peaks of Shell and Wind mountains, painting a picture so gorgeous as to throw any one into raptures. The natural beauty of the place, as well as the strict regulations imposed by Mr. Young, will make Collins a much sought after resting place this summer. The best people of the Northwest have always felt a summer incomplete without a few days at Collins and many of them are making reservations for the summer already. Men feel perfect safety in sending their families to the hotel, as no liquors are sold or permitted and an air of pleasant sociability pervades the big house all day long.
