

N. P. TRAFFIC MEN OFF ON A TOUR OF CENTRAL OREGON

Party, Including Local Newspaper Publishers and Managers, Will Meet Business Men of Interior Cities.

For the purpose of inspecting the railroad development in central Oregon and to meet the business men and people generally in the interior cities of the state, a party of Northern Pacific traffic officials and Portland newspaper men left from the North Bank depot at 8:30 this morning for a five days' trip through the central and south central portion of the state.

At Fallbridge on the North Bank line, the special cars will be ferried across the Columbia and will run over the Oregon Trunk as a special to Madras, where a reception will be held this evening in honor of the visitors.

From Madras side trips by automobile will be made to Redmond, Laidlaw, Metolius and Culver Junction. Wednesday noon the visitors will be entertained with a brook trout barbecue by the citizens of Redmond.

Prineville as host. Wednesday night, the excursionists will be elaborately entertained by the Prineville Commercial club. From Prineville the party will go to Bend and spend a part of Thursday.

A visit to the Klamath country is contemplated, and if the snow is not too deep in the Cascades for automobiles the excursionists will return home by way of Medford. It may be that the return trip will be made by rail through northern California and the Willamette valley. In any event a trip will be made through the Rogue River valley.

Throughout the trip the visiting railroad officials will meet the members of the various commercial organizations forming the Central Oregon Development league and will discuss with them means and measures for encouraging settlers to come into central Oregon.

Postal Telegraph May Enter Telephone Field
(United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, June 13.—With the completion of two new lines, costing $2,000,000, between Salt Lake and San Francisco, it was announced today that the Postal Telegraph Cable company is to enter the telephone field in competition with the American Telephone and Telegraph company. Successful experiments have just been completed, it is said, demonstrating the practicability of using the new lines for both telegraph and telephone business simultaneously. While the telephone tests between Salt Lake and San Francisco were being made, the same wire was being used for the duplex transmission of telegraph messages between San Francisco and Chicago.

military store before her marriage five months ago. The store was burned and she was arrested by the state fire marshal after an investigation as to the cause of the blaze. The grand jury, however, refused to indict her.

The investigation by the fire marshal developed that she had also owned a millinery store at Caldwell, which also burned.

Officials are investigating both these fires today and assert that they have unearthed new evidence.

At the hospital today it was said Miss Henkle would recover.

ACTS AT ORPHEUM WELL BALANCED

Homer Mason's Jag Clever Work; "Three Vagrants" Score as Musicians.

By A. L.

From first to last the "follow up" bill at the Orpheum is well balanced and thoroughly enjoyable.

Homer B. Mason, of "A Stubborn Cinderella" fame, with Miss Marguerite Keeler and their company, come to headline the bill in a deliciously funny episode by Porter Emerson Browns, "In and Out." Mr. Mason's jag is one of the most artistic efforts of the sort ever seen at the Orpheum, and his bibulous conversation with the latchkey is a gem. The setting is worthy of note and the finish with which the sketch is presented is refreshing. Miss Keeler is a dainty bit of femininity who adds materially to the delight of "In and Out." The supporting company is most able and the offering as a whole one of the best of the sort to come over the circuit.

Two clever acts which scored heavily were "The Three Vagrants" and Fred Hamill and his "Musical Kids." The "Vagrants" are not only clever musicians, but they also show themselves to be good actors in the artistic and well sustained characters they have chosen. One of them has a really beautiful voice and the accordion playing of another one was a distinct feature. Fred Hamill presents his idea of "A Morning Rehearsal" and has the assistance of two clever youngsters, one at the piano and the other on the violin and vocally. It is a snappy act full of good melody and laughable comedy.

A most pretentious act of beauty is Rousby's scenic review of London by day and night. The first scene shows some remarkable cloud and storm effects. A song and dance duo appeared in the Leicester square and court of honor scenes and added to the effects which were executed with striking realism.

Miss Lotta Gladstone in "The Country Girl" had the audience after her first laugh. She gives some artistic impersonations and her patter and method of getting it over made her an immense favorite.

Lydell and Butterworth, black and light brown, appear before their own gorgeous curtain in songs, good chatter and some excellent scenic dancing of the "want more" variety.

The bill is opened by Miss Minnie Emerle, Parisian gymnast, who is a finished artist in her line. She presents many new effects in acrobatics on the

WOMAN BRAVES LIONS TO SAVE CHILD'S LIFE

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Bernardino, Cal., June 13.—Mrs. Katherine Harvey today lies at her home here in a state of nervous collapse following an encounter in Cajon Pass with two mountain lions.

Mrs. Harvey was walking down the canyon accompanied by her little daughter and a nurse when she saw the lions. She commanded the nurse to continue down the canyon with the child, while she stood still. When the nurse and child had reached a point of safety, Mrs. Harvey trudged two miles in an opposite direction to make sure that no harm would befall her daughter, the lions following not more than 25 feet behind. George Taylor, who had been sent to the rescue, shot the largest lion. The other fled.

HAVERS RECONCILED; HUSBAND NOW INVALID

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Pittsburg, June 13.—The feeble and invalid condition of John Haver, husband of Mrs. Nancy Carnegie Haver, niece of Andrew Carnegie, has brought about a reconciliation between the two people, although for the past two years they have been living apart. Haver, who is a well known horseman and was the riding instructor of his wife before their marriage, was in 1909 severely injured by a new horse he was trying at Sheephead Bay.

To Assist Immigration.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Melbourne, June 13.—That Australia is entering in good earnest on her long delayed policy of assisting immigration is evident from an announcement just made by the attorney general and acting premier, Mr. Hughes. He stated that he has approached the governments of the different states with a request that they will cooperate with the commonwealth to secure a number of immigrants in England, in Canada and the United States. These immigrants will be carried to their destination in Australia in special steamers and placed on the land.

Arrested for Fighting.

According to the report made by the patrolman, trouble started between the two men, who had been drinking all night, when Bellingham accused Langworthy of stealing a pair of glasses and a vest from him. The case was called before Judge Tagwell this morning but a continuance until Thursday was secured.

slating of the governor, the mayor and the editor of The Journal will settle all questions as to whom the reward shall be paid.

The money offered through the Journal in addition to the $1,000 reward offered by the state of Oregon, which is subject to distribution by the governor. The total rewards offered for the murderer aggregate $3,250 this afternoon.

The fifth day after the murder of the Hill family brings no clue concerning the identity of the murderer that gives promise of leading to his detection. Scores of offers of information are being turned in to the police and the sheriff's office, but so far all the trails have proven false upon investigation.

Both the Oregon City suspect and the Hillsboro suspect have been cleared of any suspicion of connection with the murders. The Oregon City suspect, it has been determined, was on the county rocks at the time the Hills were murdered, and was not released until the day following the tragedy. The Hillsboro suspect, U. G. Kightlinger, 225 1/2 First street, Portland, has been released by the sheriff, and will be cared for by his family. He is believed to be insane.

Residents of Sellwood and Fulton were excited yesterday morning about 11 o'clock when a tall, slender man, with long hair and roughly dressed, went down to the river a short distance above the Sellwood ferry and, taking off his clothes, scrubbed them industriously. They thought perhaps he might be the murderer, trying to wash off blood stains. He disappeared in the woods back of the west bank of the river when he had finished washing his clothes. Sheriff Stevens is investigating the stories of the Sellwood people, hoping to locate the man.

Sheriff Mass of Clackamas county believes when the murderer is captured he will be found either in Portland or in the immediate vicinity of this city. He has established headquarters with Sheriff Stevens at the court house during the search.

the duel. He states that the burglar was all out of breath and could easily have been captured if the officer had pressed in on him.

The burglar is described as about five feet five inches tall, dressed in a checked suit that answers the description of one stolen from Llewellyn's room. Later an old suit discarded by the man was found in the woods where the change was probably made. Detectives Carpenter and Price have been assigned to the case.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, June 13.—Declaring the proposed revision of the wool tariff schedule had already had a disastrous effect on prices, Representative Mondell (Republican, Wyoming) discussed the measure in the house yesterday. He bitterly criticised the bill, asserting that prices of wool had already been forced down to "almost a free trade basis."
