

LAW OF RELEASE IN AN ACCIDENT CASE EXPUNDED

Judge McGinn's Instructions to Jury Exhaustive—Woman Had Accepted $10—Jury Disagrees at Trial.

The question of what effect a signed release has in personal injury cases was covered last week in the instructions given by Judge McGinn to a jury in the circuit court in the case of Margaret Champer against the Portland Railway, Light & Power company.

Margaret Champer was dragged by a street car last March at Twenty-fourth and Roosevelt streets. A few days after her accident, an agent of the street car company secured her signature to a release. The jury disagreed at trial, standing seven to five for the woman.

Woman Accepts $10. The release stated the $10 received by the woman was "for damages done by reason of her skirt being caught on the street car."

He was engaged in business for 12 years. He was a member of the grand jury for about 27 years.

Three sons were born, Melvin Hilman, Frank Buckman and Loyd Roscoe, of which the former survives, the latter two being buried in the Oswego cemetery, where the deceased was buried Saturday, June 17.

TELLS OF BEAUTY OF SWITZERLAND. Consul at Portland Has Literature on His Country for Free Distribution.

While there is plenty of scenery in Oregon and other parts of the Pacific coast, the state annually contributes many tourists to the European trails.

A. C. Bigger, the consul, has recently received a supply of literature descriptive of the different cantons of his native land, with maps, hotel guides and pamphlets issued by various cities of the mountain republic.

Two beautifully illustrated booklets issued by the federal railways tell the story of travel by train from two great lines that pierce the Alps and take the tourist through great tunnels to Italy.

The government booklets describe the engineering feats in the construction of the tunnels, the towns, the valleys and the mountains, and are illustrated with fine half-tone cuts in colors.

Other literature received by the consul describes Lucerne, Thormaikurort, Baden, Montreux, and Interlaken, Bernina-Bahn railway, Engelberg, Engstlenstock and Stanserhorn, Thun, Weggis, Zermatt, Schynigge-Platte and Pontresina.

CREMATORY TOTAL FAILURE, OPINION OF SUPT. NAPIER

Says Statistics Will Show Incinerator Too Expensive—Superintendent Points Out Other Details.

"The city will never accept that crematory if I can help it," declared City Crematory Superintendent Harry N. Napier yesterday afternoon in the presence of representatives of the press and an employe of the city health office.

"The burner is a failure, as observation of statistics that I have compiled every day for the past five months will show to any taxpayer who cares to examine my reports.

Superintendent Napier referred to the new incinerator at Guild's lake, The Public Works Engineering company, of which A. B. Manley is president, was awarded the contract to construct the burner, the contract price being $28,000.

Shows Other Defects. According to figures which Superintendent Napier invites the public to peruse, the cost over the average guaranteed cost for the five months ending May 31 has been 19 cents a ton, or 48 1/2 per cent. In addition to large cracks in the chimney stack of the incinerator, reported previously by Superintendent Napier to the city health board, a new crack has made its appearance.

Will Fight to Finish. "I am going to fight this thing to a finish," continued Superintendent Napier, "and I have the assurance of a number of prominent taxpayers that they will stand behind me."

While it has been known that the incinerator has so far failed to meet the requirements of the specifications, the contracting company has laid great stress on what it claims to be the economical working of the plant.

It is said that the showing made during the last eight weeks is therefore not enough to bring the average actual cost below the average actual guarantee.

M'NABB PROBABLY VICTIM OF FLAMES

Douglas Man, at First Believed Slain, Had Habit of Smoking in Bed.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Roseburg, Or., June 17.—Later investigation into the death of Alexander McNabb, who was burned to death in his home in the mountains 12 miles southwest of this city Tuesday night, led to disprove the theory of murder.

As he was an inveterate smoker and had the habit of reading while in bed, it is supposed the home caught fire while he was asleep. No inquest will be held. The body was brought to this city for interment.

NOTE OF EXPLANATION INCREASES TENSION. (United Press Special Wire.) Paris, June 17.—A Spanish memorandum presented to the foreign office today attempting to explain Spain's movements in Morocco, only tended to increase the tension between the two governments.

The Spanish note was unsatisfactory and in reply the foreign office declared that France had already made known its Moroccan policy and it seemed further conversation with Spain on the subject useless.
