PACIFIC LINER

Passengers on Liner Persia, Arrived at San Francisco. Enjoyed Grand Ball in Mid-Ocean.

(Publishers' Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, Cal., June 17.—When the liner Persia came in from the Or-lent yesterday the passengers were still talking about the grand ball given in mid-ocean. In the grand salon of the ship all the lights of beauty and fashion were gathered. To a casual ob-server it looked like a brilliant social affair-but to close students it was revealed that something unusual was taking place.

There were a pair of merry widows dressed in costumes, a counterpart, it is said, even in brevity, to those seen in the production of the popular musical comedy. Mrs. Grace Fitch Conger and Miss Irms Lepornme created a sensation that was the hit of the occasion Mrs. Conger is the wife of Ray U. Conger, son of the late E. H. Conger, minister to China. She is also a cousin of the late Clyde Fitch and sister to Miss Vera Fitch who attempted suicide in New York recently.

Miss Lepomme is a popular actress. She married Count Fortune Lepomme about 10 years ago, divorcing him shortly afterward.

Affair Was Snocess.

More than a score of the gentler sex participated, it is said, and the event was voted a success far surpassing the recent baseball game on the Tenyo Maru, when the women wore hobble skirts and the men played in harem skirts.

Mrs. Conger made her debut on the stage in New York about a year ago and mysteriously disappeared from the city last September following the attempted suicide of her sister.

"The terrible stories printed and circulated about me denying relationship with my sister after she attempted to end her life caused me to leave for the Orient, especially as they charged me with trying to thwart the police in their attempt to clear up the so-called mystery of my sister's act," said Mrs.
