

SCHOOL ELECTION MONDAY; FOUR CANDIDATES TO SELECT FROM

Candidates Are A. F. Fiegel, Jerry C. Bronaugh, M. G. Munly and Ben Riesland—Much Interest Shown.

With four candidates from whom to choose, the taxpayers of Portland tomorrow, without distinction as to sex, will decide who shall succeed Mrs. L. W. Sitton as a member of the board of education. The polls will be open at 8 o'clock in the morning and close at 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

The list of candidates includes A. F. Fiegel, Jerry C. Bronaugh, M. G. Munly and Ben Riesland. The candidacy of Mr. Fiegel is backed by a large number of prominent property owners, being the result of a petition addressed to him which contained, among a large number of others, the following: Rufus Mallory, Leroy R. Fields, T. M. Word, C. K. Henry, J. C. Almsworth, Thomas G. Greene, M. J. Clohesay, Wm. E. Woodard, R. J. Ginn, F. J. Clark, E. L. Black, C. E. Fiedler, F. C. Little, E. L. Thompson, J. W. Shearer, E. F. Allshaw, Will Lipman, A. R. Parrott, T. E. Biedson, J. H. Cook, J. P. Jaeger, L. L. Williams, M. F. Brady, Chas. M. Zadow, F. S. Fields, Charles K. Korell, A. V. Moore, John B. Cleland, Newton W. Rountree, John Van Zante, A. H. Tanner, A. H. Wright, Waldemar Seton, C. G. Sutherland, J. C. Morris, Earl A. Clark, L. B. Reeder, M. J. Delahunt, W. S. Hafford, E. E. Beall, Oglesby Young, Mrs. W. A. Montgomery, J. K. Gill, W. F. Backus, A. R. Williams, E. A. Hartman, J. B. Hoarford, Kate L. Barstow, Rosella Clark.

Women Express No Choice. Mrs. A. C. Newell, president of the Women's Club, stated last night that the club has expressed no choice for a candidate in the coming school election.

"We did plan to place a woman candidate in the field," said Mrs. Newell, "but had to give it up because it was too late."

Mr. Bronaugh, who, like Mr. Fiegel and all the other candidates, is an attorney, has received strong indorsement from several sources. Some of the ministers of the city will speak for him today at the next night. A glowing indorsement has been given in a letter from President P. L. Campbell of the University of Oregon.

"I am glad to see that you have consented to become a candidate for a place on the Portland board of education. It seems to me that it is the duty of every graduate of the university to take a live interest in the educational progress of his community and the state. Your old preparation for teaching in the public schools especially serves to qualify you for these new duties, if they come to you. We are always glad to learn of the university graduates making good in the public service, and we have no doubt that you will make good in any position of public trust into which you may come."

An active campaign has also been waged in behalf of Ben Riesland, who has the indorsement of several east side clubs. He lives on the southeast side, while M. G. Munly, a resident of the northwest side, has the support of other east side clubs. Judge Munly was the Democratic nominee for mayor two years ago.

For this marriage he has commenced building a ladder of spikes, which are driven into the side of the mountain. The unique marriage will take place as soon as the stairway is complete.

MT. TACOMA APTLY DESCRIBED BY PICTURE AND FACILE PEN

By J. F. S. Those few who from the reading of the first edition of John H. Williams' book "The Mountain That Was God" did not compel to go at once to see for themselves the wonders of Mount Tacoma, have but to see the revised and enlarged edition, just published, to have the vacation problem settled.

Only the best and the blind could resist the appeal that Mr. Williams' book presents. And to them it accords the pleasure of reading or hearing descriptions so admirable that they are the next best thing to a climb up the mountain itself.

Mr. Williams' book in its earlier form was known to nearly all mountain climbers and nature lovers. Fine as the photographs of that edition were, they are surpassed by the new ones in this edition. There are now 139 photographs of the mountain and surrounding country, with eight full-page views in color.

The guide book portion of the volume, including information about trains, stages, hotels and camping equipment for the mountain, is up to date for this summer's travelers.

"The Mountain That Was God" is a book devoted to Mount Tacoma—Mount Rainier as it is also called. Its great forte is the beauty of its illustrations, all from photographs, but in spite of the completeness of its illustrations, which treat the mountain from almost every possible aspect, they do not satisfy a reader's longing for the desire to see the original for himself.

Mr. Williams is too modest about the text of the book. It is fascinating in the extreme—starting with an account of the Indian legends surrounding the mountain, next taking up the geologic history of the mountain and the account of its discovery, tales of the climbing of the lofty peaks, and last giving a complete account of the flora of the park and mountain.

By some Mr. Williams might be described, in all admiration, as the press agent of Mount Tacoma. He might better be called the John the Baptist of this Mount Tacoma.

The book is being issued in three editions—the edition de luxe in limp leather, the library edition and the news stand edition for mailing. All are published by Mr. Williams in Tacoma and by Putnam in New York.

SHRINERS TAKE CHILDREN BARRED BY LANDLORDS. Fifty-One Candidates Cross Burning Sands—From All Parts of Oregon. Just as the great orb of day peeped over the eastern horizon this morning, or somewhere near that time, 51 cragged, foot-soar, wild-eyed, weary pilgrims, now stopping to gaze fearfully into the mysterious presently, now struggling forward only to halt and peer behind them into the golden vast, sighted in the dim distance an oasis on the burning desert and with eyes aflame and footsteps halting they renewed their vigor and laboriously limped toward the haven of rest and peace—A Kader temple. Last night a large class of Masons crossed the burning sands that led to the Mystic Shrine. It was composed of Masons of the thirty-second degree from all over the state from Medford to Portland and from Marshfield to Ontario. A great number of the members of the class upon which was conferred the thirty-second degree last Thursday night, last night became Shriners, besides a great number of others. Following is a list of the candidates:

MASTERY OF PACIFIC IS AIM OF JAPAN. (Publishers' Press Leased Wire.) Tokio, June 17.—Japan is making a bid and a high one for the naval mastery of the Pacific. She is beginning this year a program of five of the largest battleships in the world, and she is superior to that which will be laid down in the same 12 months for the British navy.

Of these five ships, which will each displace about 28,000 tons, four will be armored cruisers. One is now being built at the Kawasaki yard, and the other three will be built in Japan. Contracts for them have been awarded, and they are to be completed in three years. Each will mount ten 13.5-inch guns, similar to those carried in the latest British designs.

The first ship will be a battleship and will be built in Japan. When these vessels are completed in 1914, the "all big gun ships" of the Japanese navy will be as follows: Five new ships armed with the 13.5-inch guns, carrying a total of 135 guns; three older ships, each carrying four 12-inch and twelve 10-inch guns. A total of nine "all big gun" ships, with six older battleships and six older armored cruisers will be on the effective list.

ICELAND GIVES WOMAN RIGHTS OF SUFFRAGE. (Publishers' Press Leased Wire.) Copenhagen, June 17.—The Woman's Suffrage movement here scored another victory in Skandinavia. Word has reached here from Iceland to the effect that the Icelandic parliament has passed a suffrage bill which gives to women who have reached the age of 25 equal political rights with men. There are no other restrictions on women voting or holding office than is imposed upon men.

The suffrage for women has worked so well in Norway that it probably will be extended not only in that country but in all the Scandinavian countries. The great gathering of suffragists in Stockholm and the presence of leading women in the movement from all sections of the world has had a marked effect on public sentiment.

The court of Denmark is extraordinarily simple and free from etiquette. Dinner takes place at 7, as a rule, and there is a long evening, which would be wearisome were not the Danish Royal family an essentially happy one. The queen is serious and belongs to a sect which has somewhat Quakerish ideas with regard to amusement. Nevertheless, there is no lack of gaiety at the court in the way of balls, concerts, and musical plays. King Frederik walks about the streets just as his subjects do, and it seems strange to see the sovereign strolling along with working men, saluting him with a friendliness greater even than his respect.

2 GREAT ERRORS BRIDGE ARE SEEN

South Portland Association Grills City Engineer Morris for Estimate—Will Continue Campaign. That two great mistakes were made by the Greater South Portland Bridge association in its recent campaign for a high viaduct at Meads and Ellsworth streets, was the unanimous opinion expressed by members of the association at a meeting held in the city hall last night.

The first mistake was made, declared E. J. Miller, "in permitting City Engineer J. W. Morris to prepare the estimates for the span. The second was in having the bridge amendment ordered on the ballot by a city council that was under fire for its misrepresentation of the people."

"The bridge amendment would have carried to a certainty had not its cost been estimated too extravagantly by the city engineer. I never did have any faith in Morris' promises to aid the association in the bridge movement, and my distrust of his sincerity proved to have been well grounded. He will not be the next city engineer, but he has cost the people of Portland a badly needed bridge. His estimate of $1,400,000 was fully $500,000 too high."

The association voted last night to continue the publicity campaign started in the interests of the high bridge for South Portland three months ago. Another attempt will be made to achieve the passage of an amendment providing for a bond issue to be placed on the ballot at the special election in January, called for the purpose of submitting to voters a commission plan of city government. The amendment to be submitted at that time will call for bonds not to exceed $550,000. The exact figures will be fixed later by the resident engineer of the firm of Waddell & Harrington. Instead of the council to voters a commission plan of city government. The amendment to be submitted at that time will call for bonds not to exceed $550,000. The exact figures will be fixed later by the resident engineer of the firm of Waddell & Harrington.

The report of Secretary B. C. Jones of the association shows that a publicity fund of $1688 was collected by the association in the late campaign. The association unanimously voted to use the remaining money as a nucleus of a new publicity fund.

CHILDREN BARRED BY LANDLORDS. Berlin, June 17.—Many landlords of dwelling houses and flats here have placed the ban on children and refuse to accept a tenants people who have children. They seem to have entered into an agreement here and in many other cities and towns.

It has become a public scandal, household owners refuse to let to married couples having children and the authorities fear that this policy will have a bad effect upon the birth rate. Pet dogs, cats and birds are seldom refused, but babies are regarded as outside the pale. The emperor is said to have decided to take a hand in the crusade and stop the blacklisting of little ones.

The kaiser generally wears a ring, which in more superstitious times was firmly believed to have supernatural power to protect its wearer from harm of any kind. This Hohenzollern talisman, as it has been called, is of massive gold, in which is set a square, dark colored stone. It is a diamond, and from time when the Margraves of Nuremberg followed their leaders to the capture of the holy sepulchre from the Moslems. The ring, which was taken from a Moslem during a fight under the walls of Jerusalem, eventually reached the hands of the Margrave Ulrich, and from him it descended through generation after generation of his successors until it came to the kaiser. When it was first won it had engraved on the stone a sentence from the Koran. This was cut out later and replaced by a cross.

GUARDHOUSE LAWS WILL BE CHANGED. Major General Wood Issues Order Radically Changing Garrison Discipline. (United Press Leased Wire.) Washington, June 17.—The most modern and advanced idea upon discipline will be introduced into the army in the handling of garrison prisoners, according to orders just issued by Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff. The new regulations will not apply to military convicts, but only to those sentenced to confinement in hard labor without being discharged from the service.

The purpose behind the new regulations is to give the prisoner every opportunity to make good, instead of discouraging all effort toward good behavior. Under the new order, garrison prisoners will be allowed an abatement of five days of their terms of confinement for each period of 25 days of good conduct, when serving sentences of one month and not more than three months. On sentences exceeding three months they will be allowed the five days abatement for the first month and thereafter 10 days' abatement for each period of 30 days' good conduct. Abatements thus authorized may be forfeited wholly or in part by subsequent misconduct.

A garrison prisoner who has served one half of a sentence of ten days or more, according to the new orders, may submit a request to be put on probation for the remainder of the sentence, and if this request be granted, may be restored to duty on condition that if his behavior will be required to serve the remainder of his sentence.

The new orders also make important changes in the method of working garrison prisoners at military posts. These changes have been outlined in the following letter, sent to the commanders of the several departments: "The present system of working prisoners under sentinels conveys a false impression as to the character of the prisoners, gives the public the erroneous idea that the army is full of bad characters requiring forcible handling, is injurious to the self respect of the prisoners, discourages enlistments, and lowers the military service in public opinion. In addition to these objections, the system constitutes a heavy drain upon the command furnishing the necessary guard."

"It is deemed advisable and in the interests of the service to adopt a different method of handling these garrison prisoners, give the public the opportunity to view Portland and surrounding country from the high hills directly west of Washington street. The line is three miles long and it is proposed to extend one end one-half mile further to Mount Calvary cemetery. There is also some talk of running a spur line north from the Kings Heights line to Westover Terrace.

Men Who Shot Down Deputy-Sheriff and Conductor on Short Line Train Bottled Up by Cowboys. (United Press Leased Wire.) Salt Lake, Utah, June 17.—Advices received here tonight from Pocatello, Idaho, say posses of cowboys have surrounded the two bandits who shot Conductor William Kidd and Deputy Sheriff Sam Milton on an Oregon Short Line train near Highbridge, Idaho, and that the bandits have been located in the lava beds near Spencer, Idaho, and are preparing for a fight. The men are known to be desperate and it is generally believed they will not be taken alive, fearing the cowboys would certainly lynch them. They were located in the lava beds by bloodhounds from the Montana state prison, which reached Highbridge and took up the trail at 2 p. m.

ENTHUSIASM FOR ACTOR CHEVALIER. Character Work of Englishman Delights Heilig Audience; Support Is Good. Only a fair sized audience greeted Albert Chevalier, the little English character actor, last night at the Heilig, but the few who were present held tickets were treated to one of the best performances ever seen in Portland. Chevalier, as a character actor, is a marvel. The audience seemed never to tire of his songs and his acting. When he sang "My Old Dutch" he was recalled so many times that he was finally forced to plead with the audience to spare his throat.

TURN-DOWN IN TOPEKA SOCIETY STIRS CITY. (United Press Leased Wire.) Topeka, Kan., June 17.—Job Mulvane, 77, Topeka's only millionaire, has broken off his engagement to marry Mrs. George C. Lytle, 45, society leader, and all Topeka and central Kansas is gasping with astonishment. No reasons are given except the opposition of the Mulvane's children, who have constantly opposed the marriage since the engagement was announced three months ago. They are S. W. Mulvane, national Republican committee man for Kansas, and Meadames Harrison Morgan and Speed Hughes, society leaders. Mrs. Lytle is a society leader and is the widow of George C. Lytle, the founder of Topeka's fashionable suburb, West Lawn addition. The wedding was scheduled for this month and society has been looking forward to it for some time. The announcement of the Mulvane's engagement came today when Mulvane went to a hospital for treatment.
