IN SOCIETY

Miss Genevieve Thompson gave a charmingly arranged luncheon at Waverly Golf club yesterday for her guest, Miss Florence Ridenbaugh, Miss Alice Miller, Miss Isabelle Gault's cousin from San Francisco, and Miss Ruth Clements of New York, who is passing the summer with Mrs. Preston W. Smith. Six tables, centered with clusters of pink carnations, were arranged on the veranda. Lunching with Miss Thompson and the guests of honor were Mrs. George K. Wentworth Jr., Mrs. William S. Biddle, Mrs. J. N. Teal, Mrs. Thomas Robertson, Mrs. Lloyd Wentworth, Mrs. George T. Willett, Mrs. Morris H. Whitehouse, Mrs. W. M. Sawyer, Mrs. Preston W. Smith, Mrs. Elliot R. Corbett, Mrs. Robert F. Hild, Mrs. Frank Gilchrist Owen, Mrs. Morton H. Inaley, Miss Elsie Eleanor Osborn of Crawfordville, Ind., Miss Fay Nichols, Miss Malie MacMaster, Miss Eliza Parker, Miss Barbara Crocker, Miss Jean MacKenzie, Miss Katharine Failing, Miss Cornelia Cook, Miss Mills Wrenger, Miss Evelyn Wilson, Miss Isabelle Gault, Miss Anita Burns, Miss Caroline Wilson, Miss Angela Kinney, Miss Olive Failing, Miss Dorothy Holbrook, Miss Gladys Welder, Miss Marguerite Hume, Miss Lealey Smith, Miss Dorothy Morrison, Miss Henrietta Elliot, Miss Luag Wallace of New York and Miss Nan Robertson.

Antoine G. Labbe has left for the north, where he joined Mrs. Labbe, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Lyman U. Loomis, near Ellensburg, for a number of weeks. Mrs. Labbe are spending this week in Vancouver, B. C. They will probably return next week.

Mrs. Fletcher Linn returned Saturday morning from Albany, where she had been spending the week as the house guest of Mrs. Percy A. Young. Thursday Mrs. Young entertained a number of friends in honor of Mrs. Linn.

Miss Emily Frances Bauer was a luncheon hostess today for Miss Leah Irving, of the John Linn company. This afternoon Miss Irving is enjoying a motor party with Mrs. Rose Bloch-Bauer.

Mrs. C. S. Jackson has as her guest, Miss Neva Lane, of Pendleton.

Mrs. William L. Thompson returned to her home in Pendleton the last of the week after a visit of several days with Mrs. Ralph W. Hoyt.

Mrs. Louis H. Ledger arrived this morning from her home in Los Angeles to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frederick T. Hyskill, on Portland Heights.

Mrs. Leroy H. Hadley gave an at home yesterday to meet Raymond Dupon and enjoy a lecture by him on "Elektra and the Purpose of the Greek Drama." The rooms were decorated with pink roses and maiden hair ferns. A pretty touch was given to the affair by Miss Kathleen Carroll and Miss Helen Higbee who served dainty Greek refreshments in the flowing drapes of ancient Greece. Among the guests were Mrs. Charles F. Swigert, Mrs. Moody, Mrs. H. K. Irwin, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. William Hay, Mrs. Clara, Mrs. George Hazen, Mrs. G. H. Mays, Mrs. Cordelia Long, Mrs. John Raley, Mrs. Backus, Miss Elizabeth Caldwell, Miss Maud Cleveland, Miss Mary Howard, Miss Zerena Hamilton, Miss Adair and Miss Evelyn Guch.

Victor Thrane left this morning for British Columbia where he will remain a week looking after some of his timber interests.

Mrs. Seth W. Catlin and her son, John, returned Saturday from Pendleton where they have been visiting for a month with relatives.

Miss Doris Clark is the guest of Mrs. W. P. Edris of Spokane.

Mrs. Edward Dunn and daughter, Miss Mary Dunn, of Condon, returned to their home Saturday after a visit of several days at the Imperial.

Mrs. Thomas W. Ladd has returned to her home after a visit in Tacoma with Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Messinger.

Mrs. W. A. Cusick of Salem had as her house guest for the week end Mrs. Paul H. Broad and her small daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gosliney are planning to return to their home in San Francisco on Sunday. Mrs. Gosliney has been much complimented during her Portland visit.

Latest photograph of the hundred-million-dollar baby, Vincent Walsh McLean, and his mother, Mrs. Edward Beale McLean, who, together with "Papa" McLean, have gone to Bar Harbor, Maine, for their summer vacation. No actor of royalty has more care showered on him than this fortunate young American. His mother, whose belleidom was one of the brilliant episodes of Washington society, appears content to spend most of her time in Master Vincent's company. She is regarded as one of the most striking beauties of the national capital.

DOLLAR MARK WOMEN

By Darra More.

HERE seems to be a general unrest among the wives. The root of the trouble is the mighty Dollar. Not content with the love and respect of a good husband, the modern wife seeks to commercialize the relation. No longer is the question asked, "Has she a good husband?" but, "How much money has he?" or "How much does he allow her for pin-money?"

The average husband provides his wife with a home and a secure position before the world. He chooses her from among all women and crowns her the queen of his home. He pays her bills and shares with her all the fruits of his labor. "But, that is nothing," says the new woman. "I must have a salary for living with you."

The old-fashioned wife used to thank her stars for the devotion and care of a good husband, and, in return for what was given her, she gladly undertook the management of a home, and endeavoring to do her part by making that home the happiest spot on earth. That is as it should be, a perfectly fair and equitable arrangement. If the man works to make the money to maintain a home, the woman should work to spend that money to the best advantage. Each should do their own work without treading on the toes of the other.

But, the modern woman is spoiled. Man has done too much for her. I won't go as far as to say that the little matter of her so-called emancipation has brought about her discontent, but, only since woman has been competing with man in the office, in the professions, and on the street, has there been such a hubbub about a wife's salary. When a woman knows too much, she knows a whole lot of things that never happened. I don't pretend to know why, but she does.

Now, the young woman who contemplates matrimony must have a signed assurance that her husband-to-be is a gilt-edged investment. Sometimes, she even goes so far as to insist upon a pre-nuptial contract that if the financial arrangement is not carried out according to the letter, she shall be reimbursed for the time served as a wife. Wifehood is gradually becoming a profession. The woman must be paid for living with the man. She has her market price.

The woman who has married without a signed agreement as to her money rights, the woman who has no stated allowance every month, but just a home and the protecting legacy of a man's love and companionship, and a fair share of life's necessities, is not satisfied. She sighs for independence.

Questions and Answers

Dear Miss More—Please tell me if a lady who is pouring tea for guests and who is behind the tea table, should rise to greet a man caller, or how should she receive him? MARIE S.

A hostess who is serving tea need not rise in receiving any caller. She bows, offers her hand, introduces informally to those standing near, and gracefully includes the new comers in the conversation.

Dear Miss More—I am going to visit a married friend, and wish to know if I may receive my young men friends without inviting my hostess to be present, or should I ask her to invite them to call? SARAH J.

It would be a breach of etiquette for you to request your friends to call or receive them without first asking the permission of your hostess. You should also ask your hostess and her husband to be with you when any one calls, leaving it optional with them as to whether they join you or not.

Her Difficulty.

Dr. Robertson of the town of Irvine, Scotland tells a story about a couple who came to his manse to have a marriage ceremony performed. The man was drunk, and the doctor refused to officiate, telling the woman that she could come back with the man when he was sober. Two or three days later the couple reappeared, but the man was again the worse for liquor. The doctor therefore again refused to officiate; but, taking the woman aside, he said: "Why can't you bring the man sober?" To which she replied: "Deed, sir, when he's sober I canna get him to come."

Task for a Magician.

From the Ladies' Home Journal. "When Grover Cleveland's little girl was quite young, her father once telephoned to the White House from Chicago and asked Mrs. Cleveland to bring the child to the phone. Lifting the little one up to the instrument, Mrs. Cleveland watched her expression change from bewilderment to wonder and then to fear. It was surely her father's voice—yet she looked at the telephone incredulously.

After examining the tiny opening in the receiver the little girl burst into tears. "Oh, mamma," she sobbed, "How can we ever get papa out of that little hole?"

And Oblige.

Take off that dead bird's plumage now, O, Sally in Our Alley! And deck the hat that shades the brow With lilies of the valley.

She wants a commercial value put on her wifely services. Falling in this, she seeks the alimony courts. In how few cases, when the married life displeases, does she take her self-respect in both hands and walk out of her husband's home and begin the fight for her salary on her own merits, empty-handed!

It seems that the modern woman will give anything in exchange for the almighty dollar. She has prostrated herself before it until, in too many cases, the name of wife is just a screen, a cover, a cheat.

SIDIS ONLY IGNORANT, ASSERTS PEDAGOGUE

(United Press Leased Wire.) New York, June 20.—Asserting that Professor Boris Sidis' criticism of modern school methods results from ignorance and is not substantiated by facts, Professor F. P. Bachman, assistant superintendent of Cleveland public schools, has answered the treatise on child culture written by the father of Harvard's boy prodigy.

"Such tirades as that of Dr. Sidis usually carry their own answer," said Professor Bachman, "but it is due to the teachers to say a word for them. It is only partly true that present day teachers are careless girls or irate old maids. The majority of teachers are conscientious, earnest men and women. As to the argument that children are becoming more backward, Dr. Sidis' facts are all wrong. Records today show children are entering higher schools and colleges at earlier ages than they did 25 years ago. Many of Professor Sidis' charges are too absurd to answer."

TEAPOT CAUSES NABBING OF A BURGLAR BY GIRLS

(United Press Leased Wire.) Cleveland, Ohio, June 20.—A teapot figured here in the capture of a negro burglar who was attempting to rob a telephone exchange. In making his escape he fell over the pot, the noise attracting the attention of the girls. They held him until the police arrived.

Behinds Her Roosters. (United Press Leased Wire.) New York, June 20.—In order to convince the judge that she had beheaded her three roosters, which annoyed the neighbors, Mrs. Eliza Crimmins displayed the severed heads in court.
