

TOPICS OF INTEREST IN THE REALM FEMININE

IN SOCIETY

No more beautiful bride has ever taken the marriage vows in Portland than Miss Ruth Sichel, whose wedding to Albert Schweitzer, of San Francisco, was a brilliant event at Temple Beth Israel last evening, solemnized at half past 5 o'clock by Dr. Jonah B. Wise, assisted by Dr. Mayer of San Francisco. Pious and great clusters of lilies and bride roses banked the altar, carrying out the green and white scheme of the wedding. The strains of Lohengrin's wedding march announced the coming of the bride party. The bride came in the arms of her father, Sigmund Sichel. She was exquisitely robed in Brussels net over ivory satin with court train. The entire bodice and panels of the skirt were fashioned of Duchess and rose point lace. The long veil was arranged in a dainty cap edged with rose point and held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bridal bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Little Miss Marion Sichel attended her sister as maid of honor. She was frocked in ivory satin and overdress of the Brussels net made with fishnet effect. She wore a dainty cap and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids, Miss Helen Simon, Miss Elsie Simon, Miss Hazel Rosenberg of Seattle, and Miss Elsa Goldsmith, wore round length frocks of green satin with fuchsia of white dotted chiffon and mob caps of the same. Their flowers were wreaths of lilies of the valley and maiden hair ferns. The best man was Jeffrey Schweitzer, elder brother of the bridegroom. The ushers were Herbert Sichel, cousin of the bride, William Heller Ehrman, Maurice Schweitzer Jr., brother of the bridegroom, and Joseph Ehrman Jr. Following the ceremony a large reception was held at Concordia club, where the same dainty white and green prevailed in the decorations. Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Sichel, father and mother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Schweitzer, parents of the bridegroom, joined the wedding party in receiving. Miss Helen Simon caught the bride's bouquet. Mr. and Mrs. Schweitzer have gone honeymooning for a fortnight, when they will return for a visit in Portland before going to San Francisco to make their home.

Miss Katherine MacMaster, who has been traveling abroad for two years, will be welcomed home on Tuesday.

Miss Florence Ridenbaugh of Boise, and Miss Ruth Clements of New York, were joint guests of honor at a delightful evening of bridge and dancing given last night by Miss Elizabeth P. Sawyers. C. Elliott, King and Dr. J. A. Kiehl, who are leaving soon for an extended stay abroad.

Kenneth Hollister was host at a reception in honor of his nineteenth birthday Tuesday when 50 guests gathered at his home, 715 West Hollister. Linters made the lawn attractive. In the living room Caroline Testout roses were used and in the dining room lilies and red roses were effectively arranged. Receiving with Mr. Hollister were his mother, Mrs. E. W. Hollister, Miss Zeta Hollister, Mrs. J. H. Hollister, Mrs. W. F. Brown and Mrs. A. A. Phelps. The punch bowl was presided over by Miss Gladys Brown and Miss Irene Phillips and ices were served on the lawn. Miss Egbert, Miss Gallagher and Harry Richardson captured the prizes at 500. An interesting program was given during the evening by Miss Zeta Hollister, Miss Winona Bressler, Miss Ara Mae Matthews, Miss Faith Van Auker, Little Miss Gladys Brown, Paul Daniels and Herman Politz.

AN ATTORNEY'S LETTER

Written for The Journal by Darra More
A WOMAN long past 60 has started an action in the courts against the husband to whom she has been married 37 years. She asks that her allowance of $20 a week be increased to a figure that will decently provide for the needs of old age. The story is not a new one. In 1871 the husband arrived from Germany with a capital of just 12 cents. Five cents he invested in a pie. Then, he sought a job. As a carpenter's assistant, he earned $10 a week. In 1878 he married the woman who is now suing for separate maintenance. At first, they were happy. But, as soon as the husband began to prosper in business, the wife was neglected. The mad desire for wealth blotted all else from the man's vision. Today, the husband's fortune is estimated at $2,000,000—and the wife who has worked at his side for all these years, has been compelled to leave her home and to maintain herself on $20 a week.

The remarkable feature of the whole proceeding is the following letter written by the wife's attorney to the husband. This letter was written a year ago in the hope that matters might be adjusted without a resort to the courts. "Driven by her necessities, your wife, Louise R., drifted into my office more than a year ago. She was in a most hostile action by the filing of a bill for separate maintenance, which in her case means sufficient support. "If you were poor she might struggle along with the $20 a week allowed her to pay for clothing, doctors' bills, medicine, and a lot of little bills which destroying and artificial teeth, waning faculties, and a host of other ill occasions by old age will create until death ends her wants and forever stills the voice now appealing to you for aid. "Like yourself, I am an old man, and you will pardon me for predicting that sorrow will grip your heart to the breaking point when that inevitable event happens and the grave furnishes for your wife a more peaceful home than you now give her, and a coffin supplies the enduring apparel you denied her in life. Rich you now are, and your last moment will be your richest, and the wealth which you cannot take with you will not have been enjoyed by you or your old wife whom you married 37 years ago.

"You may curse me when you read this letter, but keep it to read again when your anger subsides, and remember that the writer, whatever else he may be, gives evidence of the fact that he is not mercenary, for, if he were, he would have filed a bill for relief in court and obtained an order for your wife's proper maintenance, according to your means and station in life, in addition to solicitor's fees for himself. "A word of advice: Imitate me, in one respect, at least, by using some of the few remaining years for you and your wife in the pursuit of rest, health, and pleasure, even if it takes the total net income of the—S—building, as my wife and I use that of the—T—building, for the purpose indicated, for I have learned with absolute certainty that there is no use for such buildings in the other world."

A Dainty Touch

I saw in a country house such a dainty way of covering the pillows for summer use. These happened to be of boldly flowered cretonne in pretty combinations of color, and over them was placed thin white lawn, which looked like a film or mist and which at the same time protected the better covers and was easily washed when soiled.

The Summer Messenger of Death.

From Woman's World for June.
 Experts declare that 5000 out of every 7000 deaths from summer diarrhoea would be prevented by the destruction of the flies. Today the fly is regarded as one of the most dangerous animals on earth. He is probably responsible for more sickness and death, especially among children, than any other single agent. Health departments all over the United States are bent upon exterminating him. A national fly fighting committee has been established. All through his life the fly persists in his dirty habits. He feeds upon refuse in the street and then slips into the nursery where your baby is sleeping. He breakfasts in a pig pen, drinks from a cess pool, and dines in unspeak-able places. Then, attracted by a garbage can outside your door he comes to spend the afternoon in your kitchen. He hurries to the breakfast table with us, crawls over the toast and sips the cream. He drops into the coffee cup, and in an effort to get out again leaves behind him a few thousand bacteria he has brought with him from your neighbor's garbage can. He samples the meat the butcher neglects to keep in the ice box. He tastes the fruit and vegetables exposed on the sidewalk stands. In fact he noses about into every thing.

As many as 5,000,000 bacteria of many kinds—typhoid, and tuberculous predominating—have been found on a single fly. A fly that was caught in a Chicago outhouse was found to be covered with typhoid bacilli. Last summer, consumption germs were thick upon the flies for some distance around the DuSung hospital near Chicago.

You are criminally negligent if you allow even a few flies in your home. There may be cholera infantum germs on a single fly that will bring suffering and death to your baby. Keep the flies away from the sick especially those ill with contagious diseases. Kill every fly that strays into the sick room. His body is covered with disease germs. Do not allow decaying material of any sort to accumulate on or near your premises. All refuse which tends in any way to fermentation, such as bedding matter, paper waste and vegetable matter, should be disposed of or covered with lime or kerosene oil. Screen all food. Keep all receptacles for garbage carefully covered and the cans cleaned or sprinkled with oil or lime. Keep all stable manure in vault or pit, screened or sprinkled with lime, oil or other cheap preparation. See that your sewage system is in good order, that it does not leak, is up to date, and not exposed to flies. Four kerosene tins into the drains. Cover food after a meal, burn or bury all table refuse. Screen all food exposed for sale. Screen all windows and doors, especially the kitchen and dining room. Burn pyrethrum powder in the house to kill the flies. Don't forget if you see flies, their breeding place is nearby filth. It may be behind the door, under the table or in the cuspidor. If there is no dirt and filth there will be no flies. If there is a nuisance in the neighborhood, write at once to the health department.

Glossy Linen.

Even quite cheap table linen may be made to look as glossy as fine damask if ironed in the following way: After the linen has been washed, boiled and rinsed, wring it dry as possible, roll it up in a dry sheet and leave it for an hour. Then iron it till it is thoroughly dry. In this way the linen escapes the wear and tear of hanging on a line and keeps a better shape.

In steaming dumplings or puddings a cloth should first be placed over the steamer before the lid is put on. It prevents moisture from settling and insures light, puffy dumplings.

Health For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredient which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Coloma, Wisconsin.—"For three years I was troubled with female weakness, irregularities, backache and bearing down pains. I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking several bottles I found it was helping me, and I must say that I am perfectly well now and can not thank you enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."
 —Mrs. John Wentland, R. F. D., No. 3, Box 60, Coloma, Wisconsin.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.
